PARTY POLITICS AT LOCAL LEVEL?

Fight Looming Over Township in Election

by WILLIAM DULANEY

Political rumblings set off by the coming justice of the peace and township elections have started reverberations that may inject partisan politics into every phase of suburban government.

Silently shaping up for the first time in the history of northwest suburban township governments is a political battle that involves not only Republicans and Democrats, but "old timers" and independents as well.

LONG A neglected unit of government and of little concern to most area residents, township and justice of the peace offices have suddenly become centers of intrigue and political manipulations that some observers fear will filter down to all locally elected bodies.

In past years these offices have often gone by default to "old timers," representing both Democrats and Republicans.

This year, however, Republicans in Palatine and Schaumburg townships have scheduled party caucuses to draft GOP slates for two justices of the peace and two constables in each of the two townships.

IN WHEELING township, Republican Committeeman Henry Busse last week planned a caucus, then changed his mind this week. The reason for the reversal, said Busse, was the finding that only a few precinct captains were interested in caucusing.

He indicated, however, that despite lack of official party endorsement, some organization members would seek office and work for the party's support. While James [illegible] Democratic Committeeman for Wheeling Township, has noted his party has no intention of caucusing, it's a good bet any Democratic candidate will get the organization's unofficial support.

Democrats claim the Republicans are attempting to use the justice of the peace and township offices as a rallying point to disprove charges that November's debacle relegated the state GOP to the junk heap.

"THEY WANT a victory at any level, and feel a good showing in the township election would add vitality to their planned resurgence," said one Democratic leader.

The Republicans on the other hand claim the Democrats are quietly, and often under different names such as "Taxpayers" party, seeking to take over the township and justice of the peace offices as well as infiltrate municipal offices.

A third element, the "old timers," while mostly Republicans, have not in the past run under a party label and resent present efforts to force April's election into a political contest drawn along national party lines.

TO FURTHER complicate matters in Wheeling township, the Prospect Heights Improvement association is concerned more with electing a competent township road and bridge commissioner to repair area roads than it is with politics.

And in Schaumburg township the antagonism between Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg Center clouds partisan attempts to gain control of township offices.

To top it off there are splits within Republican and Democratic ranks over the wisdom of becoming identified with partisan township government.

IN WHEELING township, Tom Houser, president of the Young Republican group, quickly notes that he's opposed to a party caucus for township offices of justices of the peace. He reasons that such a move would eventually result in all local elections being fought along political lines and that municipal affairs would suffer as a result.

In Elk Grove township, Edward Hofert, president of the regular GOP organization says:

"We've discussed the situation but haven't set a caucus date. We'd prefer to keep politics out of April's elections, but if the Democrats intend to go into it on a partisan basis, then we'll have to respond. You might say we're keeping alert and are prepared to act if it becomes apparent a slate is running under the Democratic label."

PRESIDENT OF the Elk Grove township Democratic organization, Walter J. Wells, said his group would not run candidates under the party label, but would support the best men for the offices. He indicated his organization might be interested in a coalition.

In Palatine township some of the township incumbents, although Republicans, are upset over the GOP's caucus, scheduled for January 12, and are talking about running independently, without the party label.

"If this election is fought along party lines, it's just a matter of time until the same thing will be happening in other local elections, and it will be the interest of the party that is served first rather than our communities," observed a Palatine township Republican.

OLIVER DILKS, Democrat-committeeman and assessor in Palatine township, says he doesn't intend to call a caucus.

Another element of confusion is a difference of interpretation among lawyers over the state legislature's provision for calling a political caucus for justice of the peace and township offices.

Some argue that it's mandatory that a caucus be called. Others maintain it's up to the discretion of the township committeeman.

In any event, the deadline for filing for justice of the peace and constable is January 16. These offices were placed under county jurisdiction at the last session of the legislature.

DEADLINE for filing for township offices is February 13.

First Police Case in 1961

John L. Payne, 23, of 1516 N. State rd., became the first police case of 1961 in Arlington Heights when he was charged early Sunday morning with driving while intoxicated, public intoxication and disorderly conduct.

Police apprehended the motorist after his auto left the road and struck a tree on Northwest hwy. east of Harvard st.

What's at Stake

These are the county and township offices to be filled in the April 4 election in Schaumburg, Palatine, Wheeling, and Elk Grove townships:

—two justices of the peace, salary is $5,500 annually for each;

—two constables, $3 for each writ served;

—supervisor, salary fixed by electors. Varies in area from $350 to $3,500 annually in area;

—three auditors, fee or salary varying in area from $30 to $120 annually, based on meeting attendance;

—assessor, salary based on township population and varying in area from $2,200 to $7,500 annually;

—collector, salary based on amount collected and not to exceed $10,000 annually;

—highway commissioner, salary based on population of township and varying in area from $500 to $5,000 annually; and —town clerk, salary fixed by electors or by fees. Varies from $500 to $1,000 annually in northwest area.

For Newspaper

Price Change Is Announced

Newsstand and subscription prices for the 14 newspapers published by Paddock Publications were increased this week.

Announcement of the increase was made by Robert Y. Paddock, vice president, who said rising production costs forced the price change.

Newsstand prices have been raised to 15 cents. Local subscription by mail rate is $5 per year with newest increase in postage January 1 of this year affecting rates for all out-of-state mail deliveries.

The price change applies to the Arlington Heights Herald, Rolling Meadows Herald, Wheeling Herald, Mount Prospect Herald, Prospect Heights Herald, Elk Grove Herald, Palatine Enterprise, Hoffman Herald, Cook County Herald, Bensenville Register, Itasca Register, DuPage County Register, Roselle Register, and Addison Register.

POSTAGE alone on a single copy of the paper going to San Francisco now amounts to 14 cents per week. Raw newsprint for just one copy of the paper now costs eight cents, said Paddock.

Circulation of the Paddock newspapers has passed 35,000 weekly, including 13,000 on newsstands. That's a far cry from the end of World War II, when circulation stood at 9,500 and a carload of newsprint lasted five months. A carload of paper is now insufficient for two issues of the paper.

Put Discarded Trees at Curb

Village manager L. A. Hanson announced this week the business office in the Arlington Heights village hall will be open from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturdays through February 11 for residents wishing to buy vehicle and dog licenses.

Special Hours

Arlington Heights residents wishing to dispose of Christmas trees may leave them at the street curb in front of their homes on Wednesday, Jan. 11. The trees will be picked up by Laseke Disposal company.

SUBURBAN CHILDREN: "Overtoyed, overdoctored, overprotected."

Ideal Place For Families

by DICK HOFFMANN
(First in a Series)

These are the houses that Jack - and Jill - built.

These are the suburbs — where 27 per cent of the nation's youth are being raised. These are the visable monuments parents have erected to their offspring in our child-centered culture.

What kind of youngsters are we raising in suburbia? National magazines have recently featured articles ringing with alarm of coddled kids and coaxing parents, of lives insulated from the hard realities, of a breed of conformists which would indicate we are approaching the hatcheries of "Brave New World" and its mass-produced Alpha and Beta mentalities.

THERE ARE few educators, psychiatrists, social workers, housewives or clergymen throughout the northwest suburban area, however, who share this view.

Their opinion is almost uniform in viewing the suburbs as an environment more admirably suited to the task of rearing children.

If children have become the new household deities, it is only because parents have abdicated their roles as heads of the house, most authorities feel.

The blanket accusation that the suburbs are producing only stereotyped standards of behavior and outlook is also dismissed.

If there are any particular traits being developed by suburban youths, the experts are unaware of them. Many commented that "kids are no different now than they were when I went to school."

HENRY COBB, guidance director at Fenton high school in Bensenville, said: "Coming from a rural area in Kansas, I thought there would be a difference between rural and suburban children, but they are a great deal the same, with similar problems, likes and dislikes."

And the revolution in carpentry and the GI loan has meshed with the evolution of the coaxial cable to hurdle many regional fences of difference.

"The same packaged value system is spread by television to the suburbs, city and rural areas," observes the Rev. Dr. Martin E. Marty, thoughtful pastor of the Elk Grove Lutheran Church of the Holy Spirit and an associate editor of the Christian Century magazine.

MOST PARENTS sacrifice something more than the bank's nest egg in moving to the suburbs. "It deprives parents of time in travel to get to work, and mothers have to drive to get to distant shopping centers," points out Mrs. Harriet Foster, principal of the Cardinal Drive grade school in Rolling Meadows.

The bedroom communities with their commuting fathers also seem to have created a matriarchally-structured society in suburbia.

"Children lack father figures out here," says Len Pecilunas, social counselor at the Chicago Parental school and a member of the Schaumburg District 54 school board.

"In fact, there are few male teachers in the elementary grades. Boys have to identify with a male figure to see how they act in a given situation; we only learn how to become men and women by example."

WHAT IS the product when the only male figure to emulate happens to be the school janitor?

"The values children learn from their mothers vary tre- But he does qualify his optimism by admitting that the suburban youngster is generally overtoyed, overdoctored and overprotected.

Physically, youth reflect the opulence of the era. There has developed what Rev. Marty calls "the flabby approach to life." Suburban youth seem unwilling to shovel snow or mow lawns for spending money.

Lack of public transportation has turned mothers into chauffeurs, and bumper-to-bumper crowding of high school parking lots indicates that most walking is done between classrooms.

A northwest suburban coach confided that one first string athlete is driven to school by his mother every day although his home borders the school grounds.

"Anixous mothers prod, coax, fatten, slim down their immature girl-children, much as fight trainers groom their proteges for a bout," writes Lucille Gordon Lakes in a McCall's article titled "Farewell Ugly Duckling."

BUT AN Arlington Heights psychiatrist scoffs at reports that modern youth is soft and ineffectual. "This is the 'Old Oaken Bucket' philosophy about the good old days. Look at the track and swimming records being set. There are kids swimming today who make Johnny Weissmueller look like a bus. The comparison is painfully obvious."

It is interesting to note the comparisons being drawn between the Eisenhower father image and Kennedy symbol of youthful vigor. Some articles have already appeared which see in these opposite attractions. a full swing of the pendelum from complacency to a challenge answered.

Look magazine sees it, in an issue devoted to youth, at the newly-discovered voice of the "Explosive Generation," from the Georgia sit-ins to the triumphs of rioting students in Korea.

Through it all, parents, buffeted by the constant outpouring of conflicting advice in columns of print on how to rear their wards, have been harassed to the extent that" . . . it prevents them from just following their own good instincts," as one specialist puts it.

NEXT WEEK: City Youths discover suburban living.

DICK HOFFMANN, 30, is a news editor and special assignment writer for Paddock Publications newspapers. He joined the staff two years ago after working as a reporter and feature writer for the Davenport, Iowa, Times and Democrat.

A graduate in political science of the University of Utah, he is a veteran of the air force. While stationed in Germany for two years, he was editor of a base magazine. His publication was winner of Defense Department honors and he holds an air force commendation ribbon.

Hoffmann's current articles on "Suburbia's Children" is the third interpretative series he has written for Paddock Publications. His previous efforts, on mental health and family service, won wide acclaim from civic and professional groups.

Married, Hoffmann himself is the father of two children—a daughter, 3, and a son, 16 months. He resides with his family in Arlington Heights.

Distribute Ducats For Dinner-Dance

Tickets for the annual Arlington Heights chamber of commerce dinner-dance, being held Wednesday, Feb. 1, were distributed to the chamber's officers and board of directors this week.

Don Hartman, toastmaster of the affair, said all residents of the area are invited to attend. He noted that members of other chambers of commerce have been invited and that tickets may be obtained from chamber officers, directors or at the chamber office, CL 3-1703.

THIS YEAR marks the first time the dinner-dance has been held on a Wednesday, Hartman explained. He said Wednesday was selected because most places of business are closed that day and businessmen should be free to attend.

The dinner-dance will be staged at the Rolling Green country club beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Board of Appeals

No Quorum; Rezoning Action Is Postponed

The absence of a quorum last week prevented the Arlington Heights zoning board of appeals from taking action on two requests for zoning variations.

A December 28 meeting was adjourned by chairman Victor Beisler after it was learned the board secretary was unable to muster the necessary five members to conduct business.

Scheduled for discussion at the meeting were requests for variations by Dr. Robert C. Kloempken, owner of the medical building at Evergreen and Central rds., and Eugene W. Pilawski, partial owner of 10 lots north of Pioneer park.

ANOTHER MATTER on the evening's agenda was village manager L. A. Hanson's petition for a variation at the old sewage plant to allow relocation of Consumers company, a ready-mix firm, from its present site at 301 W. Northwest hwy.

The failure of the board to act did not affect the sewage plant proposition, as village attorney Stephen Jurco had earlier requested a continuance. Jurco said he asked the board to delay its decision until he is able to work out mechanics of a contract with Consumers company.

Postponed to "sometime after January 7" were decisions on Dr. Kloempken's request for a variation in zoning to permit him to construct an addition to the medical building and Pilawski's request for frontage variations on 10 lots on the west side of Fernandez st. between Grove and George.

BEISLER SAID those directly concerned in the board's next meeting will be advised of the date by the secretary. He indicated it will be held after January 7.

Zoning board members present at the December 28 meeting were Beisler, Joe Grant, Kurt Meyer and Frank Palmatier. There are seven members on the board.

Early in December village clerk Mildred Pearson was directed by trustees to send a letter to the zoning board of appeals expressing trustees' concern over absenteeism at the zoning board meetings.

Trustee Eugene Schlickman noted that it was possible for the absence of zoning board members at meetings to result in the failure of offcial action to be taken. (AF

Alternate Proposals

Park Manor Project Studied by Village

The Arlington Heights board of local improvements this week continued its study of two alternate proposals concerning the major improvement project in the Park Manor subdivision.

At a formal public hearing December 15, board members took under advisement the proposals voiced by Donald Burdick, president of the Park Manor Homeowners association.

Burdick asked that the improvement project:

(1) include only sanitary sewer and water main, temporarily excluding storm sewer and paving, or

(2) be limited to a ceiling of $45 per frontage foot on bid estimates.

PARK MANOR residents petitioned the board several months ago for special assessments to provide the 80-acre development in the southeastern portion of the village with streets and water and sewer facilities. The 50-home area is being served by septic tanks and wells.

In a conversation with the Herald, Burdick said association members were disappointed that the board could not indicate its feeling December 15 in regard to the group's proposals. An answer was promised for January 19.

"We had hoped for a commitment on either one of our proposals," Burdick said. "Until this thing is settled, none of us will rest too easily."

He said home owners in Park Manor feel they cannot afford to pay for all improvements at once. But if the board insists on all improvements being installed at the same time, Burdick explained, association members want frontage foot estimates lowered from $60 to $45.

HAROLD Klingner, board chairman, said he felt the installation of sanitary sewer and water facilities would cause the area to be rapidly developed.

"Then the home owners will start to clamor for the village to install storm sewers and pave the streets," Klingner noted.

Estimates as to the cost of the project list sanitary sewer at $150,959.00; water main at $157,489.00; and paving and storm sewer at $708,055.00. The home owners' association maintains the estimates are too high and that they will cause the cost of the project to be too high.

New Chamber of Commerce President Is Bob Paddock

Robert Y. Paddock, vice president of Paddock Publications, Inc., was elected president of the Arlington Heights chamber of commerce Tuesday at the first 1961 meeting of the chamber's board of directors.

Other officers elected were W. C. Wolf, president of the Bank of Arlington Heights, vice president, and Roy Benson, secretary-treasurer of Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan association, treasurer.

Elected to the board of directors were Robert Walters, manager of Baird and Warner Real Estate company, one-year term; Irving Robbin, owner of Robbin Jewelers, two-year term; Nick Barkulis, owner of Elms Grocerland, three-year term; Edward Mills, owner of Webber Paint company, three-year term, and Benson, three-year term.

THE NEW president lives at 502 S. Ridge and has taken an active part in chamber activities for several years, recently directing the successful Light Up parade which ushered in the holiday season here.

The 43-year-old publisher is a member of the Arlington Heights Rotary club and president of both the Cook County Publishers association and the Suburban Press Foundation.

The board of directors, meeting at Cooper's restaurant, also worked Tuesday to complete all 1960 business and heard an auditor's report. Retiring president of the chamber is Paul Collins, president of Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan association.

Business Education Rapped by Studies

Is there any good reason why hundreds of thousands of young people should be devoting their college years mainly to vocational training for relatively low-level jobs in large business concerns?

Does the type of business education currently being offered by colleges and universities today make sense to them for their future business careers and their entire lives as individuals, parents, citizens?

These are the questions raised by the Gordon-Howell and Pierson studies, supported by the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corporation in a report titled "The Education of Businessmen," a summary published by the committee for Economic Development.

AND HERE are their recommendations:

—Academic standards in business schools and departments must be materially raised. Standards should be higher than for the general college population.

—Admission requirements to business schools should be increased. The undergraduate business school should no longer be regarded as a dumping ground for poor students or rejects from engineering or liberal arts and science schools.

—College and university business curricula must be pruned to reduce vocationalism and overspecialization. Typing, shorthand, elementary bookkeeping and other routine office procedures and salesmanship or advertising campaigns have no legitimate place in a four-year college program.

—AT LEAST 50 per cent of undergraduate programs in business should consist of courses in the liberal arts.

—Undergraduate education for business should put greater stress on foundation courses.

—Graduate business programs leading to the master's degree should probably be two-year programs, whose orientation should ordinarily be professional rather than academic.

—Improving and expanding doctoral programs is the most important single item of requirement for improving the whole field of business education over time.

—The quality of business research must be greatly improved.

—The focus of business studies should be upon "managerial decision making," with emphasis upon the application of scientific knowledge to business problems; this approach should provide the urgently needed organizing concept for business education and research.

—DIVERSITY, flexibility, and experimentation are essential to developing programs in different schools to solve the many problems facing business administration.

—The problem of improving higher education for business is closely linked to the general problem of improving higher education in America.

A large scale study of the relation between education and business careers was indicated, with a survey of business school alumni of a broad cross-section of schools and departments of business.

There is still, it was revealed, "a depressing lack of knowledge of the qualifications needed for successful business careers and of the role of formal education in developing these qualifications."

IT WAS EVIDENT that business schools are "feeling so much discontent and strain," that this "may be the surest sign that growth is beginning . . . In recent years, a few business schools have obviously entered a new dynamic phase; they are attracting to their faculties men of the highest scholarly reputations, and first-rate students as well."

"New frontiers" may be ahead in the business world as well as on the political and international horizons painted by President-Elect John F. Kennedy.

RED CROSS fund leaders for this area compare posters at chapter headquarters which span 40 years of Red Cross service. In the center is John McDonald, 1021 Stratford circle, Streamwood, who is organizing the campaign in the western section of North Cook county. At right, regional chairman for the entire March campaign in North Cook county, Charles Hill, 7811 N. Harlem, Niles, displays the 1921 poster. Holding the 1961 poster is Robert Lettas, 6770 N. Slate Opportunity Council Election

The Opportunity Council, Inc., will elect new officers at their annual business meeting Thursday, Jan. 12.

The election will be held at 8:30 p.m. in the community room of Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan building. In addition to the slate proposed by the nominating committee, nominations may be made from the floor.

OUTGOING officers include president, Charles Hayes of Arlington Heights; secretary, Nancy Ostos of Mt. Prospect; treasurer, James Mason of Palatine; and four vice presidents, Mrs. Herman T. Landon of Arlington Heights, Mrs. Edgar Trout Jr. of Palatine, Willis J. Jensen of Arlington Heights, and Robert Winkel of McHenry.

A non-partisan, non sectarian voluntary organization, the Opportunity Council was formed in 1958 in response to the needs of Mexican-Americans residing in the northwest suburban area. Activities include assistance with housing problems, tutoring for adults and teenagers, job opportunities, etc.

Membership in the Council is open to any interested resident of the northwest area. (B8

Operetta Tryouts

Tryouts for parts in the Friml operetta "Rose Marie" are scheduled for Monday evening, January 9, between 8 and 10 p.m. Voice qualifications will be determined by the singing of any number and dramatic ability will be determined by the reading of lines from the libretto of the operetta, to be available for this meeting. Those interested in trying out should be at the Wilson school Palatine rd., Arlington Heights, prepared to sing something of their own choosing.

"Rose Marie" will be given by Music-on-Stage April 7, 8 and 9 as the group's annual production. William Cotsakis of Arlington Heights is the director.

WEEKLY rehearsals for the show will begin soon after the cast is chosen. Prior voice or dramatic training or experience is not a prerequisite to becoming a member of the cast. Anyone wanting to participate in any phase of the production is invited to attend the tryouts, rehearsals, or the business meetings which are held the fourth Monday of the month.

The following people may be contacted for any further information about the group or this year's production: Joseph Heerens, CL 5-9712, Mrs. Ray Blakeman, LE 7-1645, or Jack Wassmer, FL 8-1250.

Also issued permits for hospitals or additions at Maine, $2,280,000.

Q. I see more and more paper napkins being provided at meals in other homes. Is this really considered proper now?

A. Once upon a time this was considered out of the question. But nowadays, for all informal entertaining, paper napkins are perfectly proper—and very practical too, I might add.

Q. What is the proper way for a married woman to have her personal stationery engraved?

A. In her married name, as, "Mrs. William R. Kendall."

Q. Is it necessary that all men stand at a dinner table until all the women have been seated?

A. Yes. (A-14

Young Scientist 'Mingles' With Nation's Top Thinkers

To be "up" on the mysterious world of physics in an age when man is making his greatest scientific progress must be both an exciting and gratifying situation for a 22-year-old.

And, although he admits he is "just beginning," Lee Watson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Lee Watson, 603 E. Euclid, Arlington Heights, mingles with some of the country's ablest physicists and hears, unwincingly, theories that would squint the eyes of 99 per cent of the nation's population.

The 1957 graduate of Arlington high school, where he was an honor student, now studies at one of the country's newest and smallest colleges, the University of California at San Diego.

HAVING completed Northwestern university's undergraduate science engineering program in only three years, Lee faced the problem of deciding where to do his graduate work. There was a conference with a Northwestern professor, who described a new college, strictly for graduate students, and opening its doors for the first time last fall.

The school had everything—top-notch instructors, financial support, the most modern equipment. All it lacked was talented students. Lee was interested. The Northwestern professor phoned the California school. The school phoned Lee, and two weeks after he had taken his final exam in Evanston, he was beginning classes on a National Defense Education Act fellowship in La Jolla, California.

The all-graduate university is devoted to the most advanced fields of science and has a student body of 96 carefully screened students and a distinguished faculty of 51 scholars comparable to any in the world.

DR. ROGER Revelle, director of UCSD, predicts that the present program will form the nucleus for a great general campus of the University of California.

The school is divided into the world-famous Scripps Institution of Oceanography and the school of science and engineering. Lee is one of 20 students studying physics. Some 15 professors form the physics faculty, who emphasize research more than the tradtitional instruction methods.

Following "four or five years of study" Lee hopes to earn his Ph. D. in physics and to do college teaching and research, work for the government, or do industrial research, in that order of preference.

While his courses this semester are all classroom advanced physics (with one non-credit German reading course), the young scientist hopes that next semester he can begin research work with Dr. Oreste Piccioni, a well known physicist noted for the discovery of the anti-neutron and the design of a 30 billion electronic volt accelerator to measure the energy of protons.

LEE POINTS OUT that there is little or no social life connected with the school, and, although he manages to play tennis, do some hiking, and make occasional trips to San Diego (a 35 minute drive), most of his time is spent in studying, reading periodicals and scientific publications, or engaging in friendly political arguments with other students.

The college sponsors a weekly colloquium, which features addresses by outstanding scientists and physicists. Dr. Gell-Mann, one of the nation's 10 top physicists and developer of the highly abstract "theory of strangeness," and Dr. Richard Feynman, also famed in the field of theoretical physics, have been guests of the colloquium.

Since the school offers no summer courses, Lee will, for the first time in four years, be "out of school." He hopes to stay at the university and assist in research projects or come home and work at Argonne National Laboratories.

At Knox College

Richard LeMay, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. K. LeMay, 220 S. Hi-Lusi, Mount Prospect, has been pledged to membership by Beta Theta Pi, a social fraternity at Knox college.

Freshmen who participate in pledging activities at Knox must achieve a certain scholastic average on their mid-term grade reports during their first semester at the college.

At Yale

Richard Henry Wisner, of the 1962 class of Yale University, 322 E. Colfax, Palatine, has been named to the dean's list for outstanding academic achievement during the last term. He is a member of the Yale football and baseball teams and is majoring in economics. He is the son of Mr. Charles Z. Wisner.

At Yale

Elliott Randall Bolsinger, 514 S. Emerson st., Mount Prospect, has been named to the dean's list for outstanding academic achievement at Yale university where he is majoring in psychology. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Bolsinger.

THE LADIES haven't been forgotten in planning the new $1 million Northwest Suburban YMCA building slated to open January 15. Shown examining dressing room facilities are Mrs. Ann Petrie of Mount Prospect, member of the Women's Auxiliary board of directors, and Barbara Manny of Des Plaines, president of Mainliners Tri Hi-Y club. The YMCA will offer women such activities as Danish gymnastics, weight control and swimming.

DO-IT-YOURSELFERS

"Mama, Pa wants to fix the TV verticle, and now he's horizontal."

This could very well happen. There are some dangerous parts inside a television chassis. Of course, it's understandable that some folks like to tinker with anything that fascinates, and the inside of a television set is fascinating. But, when you realize the intricacy of hundreds of electronic parts, you know that it isn't like replacing the washers in a leaky faucet. Proper tools are necessary besides the training. You could make a simple servicing job a hundred times worse by probing into wrong circuits. We've seen some dandies at LANDWEHR'S TV, 218 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights.

If the inside of your set prompts you to want to fiddle around in there, better curtail that urge. Phone us at CLearbrook 5-0700 quick; and you can watch us service it in your living room. We'll show you some points that will give you a real kick.

Two New Schools

Catholic High School Registration Jan. 7

Registration for the first classes in both new northwest suburban Catholic boys and girls high schools is slated for 9 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 7.

Enrollment of freshman and sophomore boys for St. Viator high school will be held at St. James grade school, 821 N. State rd., Arlington Heights. About 700 to 800 boys are expected to register.

Freshman girls will be registered for the new Sacred Heart of Mary high school at Our Lady of the Wayside grade school, 420 S. Walnut, Arlington Heights. The freshman class is expected to have 200 girls.

A PLACEMENT or classification test will be given both boys and girls following registration.

A $10 fee will be payable at registration. The fee will be refunded if a student does not attend the school.

The $3 million St. Viator high school building on Oakton st., Arlington Heights, will be completed in September. Features will include closed-circuit television, electronic language laboratories, an olympic-size swimming pool and other "facilities comparable to those of the best schools in the area" according to Rev. Francis E. Williams, C.S.V., principal.

The school will be conducted by the Clerics of St. Viator. The majority of teachers will be priests and brothers, with lay teachers in charge of special subjects such as physical education and athletics.

A JUNIOR year class will be admitted in September, 1961, with the school in full four-year operation by September, 1963.

Classes for the Sacred Heart of Mary, high school will share facilities at the new St. Viator high school building during the 1961-62 and 1962-63 school years. The girls school will move in September, 1963, to its own building to be erected on Central rd., Rolling Meadows.

The girls high school will be conducted by the Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary, whose provincial house is at Marymount college, Tarrytown, N. Y.

Registration for Sacred Heart of Mary high school will be under the direction of Mother Loyolla, who will fly here from Tarrytown for the enrollment. She will be assisted by four Dominican sisters of Our Lady of the Wayside school and four Sisters of Mercy from St. Joseph the Worker school, Wheeling.

INFORMATION regarding school uniforms will be available for girls and parents on Saturday.

Transportation for students will also be available. Routes and cost will be determined following registration. Both boy and girl students will share the same buses.

Faculty members from both high schools will be present at registration to discuss problems with parents.

Students for both high schools are expected from Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Palatine, Hoffman Estates, Barrington, Mt. Prospect, Prospect Heights, Wheeling, Elk Grove and adjacent areas.

FROM RIDGE PARK

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Richter, 1224 W. Northwest hwy., became grandparents for the first time December 29 when their daughter, Mrs. Oscar H. Silmon Jr., gave birth to a baby girl, Brenda Sue. Because Allen Richter EN3 is home on leave from the Navy, the Silmons plan to have Brenda Sue christened in St. James church next Sunday with Allen as her godfather. Miss Emily Svoma of Chicago, a cousin, will be her godmother. A family celebration is planned for after the christening.

Norma, Al and Steve Snap, 1012 N. Kaspar, opened some of their Christmas presents in Juniper Springs, Fla. When the school holiday began, they loaded their car for a camping trip and headed south with Florida as their destination. With the temperature in the 70's most of the time they were there, they had to force themselves to leave. Coming home by way of Champaign-Urbana, they stopped to visit their families.

Friday evening the Bill Rudys, 822 N. Princeton, were guests of Eloise and Frank Psota for dinner at the Maison Lafitte. There were four seats waiting for the Rudys and the Psotas at the Royal Ballet afterwards. The evening was a premature birthday for the Psotas whose birthdays, by strange coincidence, fall on the same day — January 5.

The Edwin Bakowskis, 716 N. Kennicott, began Christmas celebrations December 24 with his family in Chicago. Christmas day was spent with Clair's family and Saturday the four of them went to Princeton, Ill. to visit Edwin's brother, Chester, and his wife.

There were 20 around the Christmas table at the Robert C. Buechners, 1012 N. Fernandez. The Buechners saw the New Year in at the VFW hall on Northwest Highway with bowling friends.

Christmas eve found the Donald Kiehls, 732 N. Kasper in Palatine celebrating with his brother and family, and the following day was spent with her parents.

THE HOUSE at 1005 N. Harvard where the R. F. McMullens live is beginning to settle down now after a busy holiday. Marcia and Betty were home from Ohio State university and have already returned to classes. Marcia is a junior and Betty will graduate this next quarter. Robert Jr. and his wife came home from Cleveland for Christmas and to make the day complete, Richard called from California.

Because the John Morrisons, 803 N. Harvard, had such a good time with their family Christmas, everyone went to Jack Morrisons in Des Plaines for New Years dinner. The Morrison's daughter and her family, the Don Cagles of Palatine, were with them on both occasions.

New Years day Mrs. Fred Siemro, 929 N. Yale, and Donna had dinner with Mrs. Siemro's sister, Mrs. Nordmeier, and her family. Monday she took Donna back to school at Concordia Teacher's college in River Forest and they had dinner with Donna's roommate and her family of Berwyn.

WHEN A car drove up to Marilyn and Thad Ostrowski's 928 N. Kaspar home Tuesday they were surprised to see his brother, Father Joseph Ostrowski from Scranton, Pa., his cousin Danny Mozeleski, an honor student at Scranton university, and Thad's sister, Mrs. Joseph Cadden, whom they picked up in Cleveland. Thad called former neighbors who knew Father Joe and a small party was held.

Helen and Jim Polites, 944 N Salem. were partying New Years eve with the Stafford Machases in the home of friends in Arlington Heights.

New Years eve found Kathleen and Joe Dunne, 1016 N. Illinois, at Old Orchard country club with the Talabers, the Morehans, the Hennemans, the O'Keefes and Slo and Howie.

Marlyn and Glenn Argust, 802 N. Kennicott, drove to Bensenville New Year's eve where they celebrated at the VFW post with friends.

SEVERAL OF the Kennicott ave. folks went to visit their former neighbors, the Smeltzers, in Deerfield the day before New Years. While they were there, Mr. Smeltzer put in a call to the Corns who are now living in Albuquerque. The Corns and the Smeltzers were neighbors on Kennicott before each moved away.

Ruth and Dick Platt welcomed the New Year at home with friends.

Ruth and Bill Griffith and their three children, 625 N. Kaspar, drove to Ripley, Ontario, Can., to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lohnes. Four of Ruth's brothers and sisters and their families were there. Some of the family hadn't been together in 11 years and this Christmas had the flavor of a family reunion. They arrived at home in time to spend the night before New Years eve at the Al Lindblads.

WHAT WAS only an idea to contact all of the members of Ed Oja's high school club, turned into a party New Year's eve. They started early and wrote as many people as they could and on December 31 10 couples arrived. One came from as far as Minneapolis, another from Peoria and some from Chicago. The Ojas enjoyed having Carol home from Indiana university for the holidays. Carol is a freshman this year and will be returning to her classes this week.

There wasn't any time for the Charles O'Dors, 1005 N. Illinois, to recuperate from their trip to Oklahoma. They spent Christmas week, including New Years eve with his family and their friends in Norman. Soon after their return, they began packing in earnest for their move to their new home on the south side of town. Friends would be even more sorry to see them leave if they didn't know they were only a 10-minute drive away.

Mr. and Mrs. Baron Zoellick, 912 N. Kaspar, talked the doctor into letting them bring their new baby, Russell Edward, home Christmas eve. Russell joined the family December 22 just in time to be on hand for his sister Pamela's birthday celebration. Pamela was 9 on December 28 but the family celebrated the following day.

THIS IS ONE New Year's Eve the R. E. Kleiners, 914 N. Yale, won't forget. They were on the train coming back from two-and-one half weeks in Santa Fe, N. Mex., where they spent the holidays with her parents.

It took two parties to celebrate Peter Kozakari's third birthday. Because his birthday falls on December 31, they had a party for him Friday afternoon. Mrs. Mark Rightmire and Jean Ann and Mrs. Anna Adam came to celebrate with him. Saturday evening there was a family party for Peter with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Traikoff, wishing him a happy birthday. Peter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jon Kozakari, 916 N. Chicago.

The Bill Luxions, 831 N. Princeton, went back to Pennsylvania over the Christmas holidays to his home town in Bangor where they visited his mother, brothers and sisters and their families. The children especially enjoy the rolling countryside and did plenty of tobogganing without having to go too far away.

LIL, GEORGE and Margie Lurtz, 909 N, Patton, spent the weekend in Three Lakes, Wis., at Northernaire hotel. Margie and her dad always enjoy the winter sports there, especially skating and skiing.

Norma and Gene Barnes, 1016 N. Kaspar, hit an all-time record for New Year's Eve parties this year. The party began with nine people and lasted until 7:30 the following morning. The basement, which they refer to as Gene's hideaway, was decorated for a party mood.

The weatherman cooperated beautifull yfor Margaret, Earl and Mary Busse, 712 N. Kaspar, the Wednesday after Christmas. They made a trip to Grand Rapids, Mich., to his cousin's wedding.

In Betty and Ed Dunn's Christmas cards this year, year, they included invitations to an open house New Year's eve.

Twenty people were there, including some of the Dunn's friends from Mt. Prospect, Park Ridge and Glen Ellyn.

A "THANK you" goes to Lefty Klippert for his quick thinking in preventing what could have been a tragedy at Norma and Bill Robertson's, 1007 N. Fernandez home last Thursday evening. Norma had gone to get Bill in Wheeling when the broiler in her stove caught fire and began to smoke up the kitchen. Mary Klippert was there at the time and ran next door to get her father. Using all his strength, Lefty held the door of the broiler closed to keep the flames from leaping into the kitchen. By the time Norma and Bill had arrived back home, the firemen had extinguished the flame and damage was not too extensive.

Chuck Elstee will be off for Culver-Stockton in Canton, Mo., soon. The son of the E. W. Elstees, 716 N. Fernandez, is a freshman this year.

Mrs. Florence Watchorn of Lake Forest spent Christmas with her daughter and her family, the Bob Hildebrants, 735 N. Patton. Bonnie and Bob spent New Years eve with Ann and Jim Christensen whose plans for a big party were cancelled because of illness.

Ann and Hank Inselberger, 640 N. Salem, spent a busy holiday week, visiting and entertaining company.

The Stanley Juhls, 831 N. Salem, were happy to have Valerie home from Northern Illinois university over the holidays. She was busy partying until the time she left for De Kalb.

Maternal and paternal grandparents and two sets of aunts and uncles came from Muncie and Michigan City, Ind., and St. Joseph, Mich., to spend the holidays with the James Kunnens, 1016 N. Fernandez.

Mickey Kubik, 914 N. Kennicott, had two Christmases — one here with Joe, David and Laura, and the other with her parents, Taryn and Mark, in Williamsburg, Iowa. Joe drove up New Years eve and the whole family came home Monday.

What started with a bowl game watching with friends and relatives of the Jack LaBeaus, 906 N. Yale, ended with a buffet supper and a final holiday get together.

It took two days for the Kaspar ave. folks to complete their New Years day party which began at 2 p.m. at Elsie and Dick Sorensens. They dropped in on Bette and Ray Howes, took them along to the Elmer Sowkas, then to the Jack McNamaras, the Ray Martins, the Dick Surrettes and the John Schippers.

Elsie had prepared a smorgasbord for the crowd and when that was gone they moved next door to Bette and Ray's house until early morning. They broke up until 1 p.m. the next day and met at Marilyn and Thad Ostrowskis, went back to the Sowkas, then to the Pilips, the Bill Broadfoots and finally ended up at the Howard Heisers.

FROM SHERWOOD

Marie and Tom Specht, 1118 W. Watling, did their usual entertaining during the holidays. Bill was 18 Wednesday and had 36 guests, for a buffet supper. He celebrated New Years eve in Marinette, Wis., with his school friends who live there.

The family was all together at the Harold A. Witts, 1138 N. Patton. Sharon Wessling was home for the holidays from Wittenberg in Springfield, Ohio, and Ken Witt was home from Southern Illinois university in Carbondale. The usual round of parties and entertaining made the holidays full to the brim for the whole family.

The J. E. Woods, 1106 Clarendon, had Beth home from Cornell college in Mt. Vernon, Iowa, for the holidays.

AFTER CHURCH Christmas day, the Eugene Lepkowskis, 1345 N. Yale, headed for Detroit for the holidays with his family. They returned last Friday.

Christmas, the Carl Palmers, 1023 W. Burgoyne, went to Atlanta, Ga., where they had four celebrations in one. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Smith, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Christmas eve with all their family. Her brother Col. O. D. Smith, had just made colonel and Carl just made the vice-presidency of the James Barclay company. With the Palmers' 22nd wedding anniversary coming December 27, the whole family was kept busy celebrating.

Jill Giuliani came home from Radcliffe December 2 just a few days after her father arrived home from a 12 day business trip to Europe. While he was there, he saw his brother-in-law and sister-in-law in Italy. The Giulianis live at 1314 Watling. (A

Editor's Column

STUART R. PADDOCK

Charleston, South Carolina-

We are beginning to wonder if we have grown lazy in avoiding the time to write this column. To be honest, we did not have the ambition. Our excuse was the order of the surgeon who told us "take it easy for a time."

We have been influenced to return to this column by the many friends who, between Christmas greetings and get well cards, write that they are missing our usual column. Perhaps its reappearance will give proof that we are really on the road to recovery.

Here is the good news we received yesterday from our surgeon: "I expect that with the way you have improved, I will be able to tell you on January 12 to go on your way."

We have enjoyed the hospitality of Charleston, and we have found there is no nicer place to enjoy the sunshine and for an editor to forget his usual editorial duties.

We again had occasion this morning to utter "Isn't this a small world." In the lobby we met Judge and Mrs. Quilici from back home. Unknown to us, they had been guests of the same hotel for two days. Last Monday our callers included the Walter Moehlings of Arlington Heights, who spent a week visiting their son, Lt. Moehling of the Air Force, and his family.

We doubt if any resident of Charleston received more greetings and get well cards than we. They came by the dozens - 57 one day. They were all good medicine for us. We trust the reappearance of this column will be accepted as our acknowledgment of them.

Believe it or not, this Yankee helped South Carolina celebrate the 100th anniversary of "secession day." It was declared a state holiday. The confederate flag was flown in stores and windows and small replicas were worn in lapels. We heard one business man say, "It's too bad the flags had to bear the label, 'Made in Japan.'"

The South Carolina press is carrying stories of the secession convention and the efforts of this state to peacefully leave the existing confederation of American states.

The story of the events preceding the firing of guns against Fort Sumter give the impression that the state was determined to secede, but its leaders acted the part of southern gentlemen in their opening negotiations with President Buchanan. Reprints of newspapers published at the time of the formation of the confederacy are interesting historically. Especially at a time when there is so much discord being raised over integration of schools.

The papers of yesterday carried a statement that the national group urging desegregation would next turn their attention to South Carolina.

To a northerner who has observed the present relationship between the two races, it is regrettable that a "school war" is in the offing in this city.

Back home few churches and graveyards are over 100 years old. Down here there are several Episcopal churches that are nearly 250 years old. These and adjoining burial places are part of Charleston that is attracting so many "foreigners" from up north. That was the term applied to us the other day by a Charlestonite who gave it as an excuse why he was giving us special parking consideration.

In celebrating the anniversary of secession of the state, South Carolina is planning pageant after pageant. Perhaps there will be no government troops participating, but there will be cadets from the Citadel and other colleges and state institutions which will provide the "pomp and circumstance." A few days more and the abandonment of Fort Moultrie will be staged and later the fall of Fort Sumter which was so ably defended by Major Anderson.

We see by last week's Herald that Arlington Heights has a heated election coming up. We do not know how the battle lines will be drawn, but the end of the term for a member of the village board does not necessarily mean an end to his service for the municipality.

A lot may have happened politically during the 60 days we have been absent, but we hope that the qualifications of Trustee Robert Bukowski for the village president's job will be recognized by the caucus or some other group.

DESPITE WINTER WEATHER, construction of St. Viator high school on Oakton st. continues at a steady pace. The school, the first Catholic boys high school to be built in the northwest suburbs, is scheduled to open in September. The school will start with an enrollment of 700 freshmen and sophomores and will eventually accommodate 1800 boys in a full four-year program. The school will be administered by the Clerics of St. Viator

Sarabel Lazor — CLearbrook 3-3295

Round 'N About Westgate

The holiday season calls for a lot of get-togethers. Dee and Al Perry, 207 S. Illinois dr., entertained a few neighbors last Wednesday evening at cocktails. Those invited were the Don Sowers, Ray Warns, Dick Mooneys, Charles McCrackens and the Rudy Hansons.

New Year's eve the Perrys had a few friends in to welcome in the new year with games, dancing and a late buffet dinner. Invitations went out to former Virginia Terrace neighbors, the Gene Tillmans and the Bill Rixes, along with the Dick Willises, Bob Richard, Duke Parson, Gerald Teletzkes, Phil O'Connells and the Bob Bledsoes.

Linda, daughter of Gianna and Gordon Riefstahl, 204 S. Yale, celebrated her eighth birthday at a birthday party December 27. Among those enjoying lunch and birthday cake were Amy Wroe, Renee Monroe, Janet Labas, Lana Volland, Dona Jean Creighton, John Donat, Tommy Lyon, Dick Mooney, John Brodie, George Knight, her grandmother, Mrs. Donat, and aunt, Jean Donat.

VISITING Sarabel and Joe Lazor, 1508 W. Grove, is Sarabel's mother, Mrs. W. C. Horne of Atlanta, Ga. She arrived Christmas day to surprise the family and plans to stay a few weeks.

Tuesday evening Sarabel entertained her bridge club. Aside from being a regular get-together, it gave Mrs. Horne a chance to visit with Sarabel's friends. Among those playing cards and enjoying the evening were Dee Perry, Lauretta Willis, Teresa Parsons, Mary Richard, Elaine Teletzke, Beverly McCall and Dotty Bledsoe.

Peggy and Jules Keller, 221 S. Illinois, are enjoying a visit from Peggy's brother-in-law, Paul Welker of Baltimore, who came to spend the holidays.

Recent visitors in the home of Doris and Arnold Silver, 1606 W. Grove, were Doris's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Lobred and daughters, Rosalind, Kathy and Beth, of Louisville, Ky. They came for the Christmas weekend. The Silvers' daughter, Leslie, will return to Grinnell college this week after spending the holidays at home.

THE SECOND birthday of Lynn, daughter of Teresa and Duke Parsons, 24 S. Illinois dr., was celebrated December 28 with her friends, Bobby and Jeanne Cunningham, and their mother, Marlene, coming to share her birthday cake. Later that day her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Parsons, Wilmette, and aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Gerber, Villa Park, came for birthday dinner. Her grandmother, Mrs. Harry Steuterman, Memphis, Tenn., who has been spending the holidays with the family, was also on hand for the occasion.

Mrs. Anna Sindorf, Milwaukee, spent the Christmas holidays with her son Bob and his family in their home at 1502 W. Grove.

Stopping for a few days' visit with his brother, John Lazor, and family is Steve Lazor, who is returning from Christmas vacation at home to Beloit college.

Visitors in the home of Mary and Bob Richard, 307 S. Illinois dr., are Mary's arents, Mr. and Mrs. James Case of Orangeville, Ontario. They arrived a few days before Christmas to enjoy Christmas with the family before going on to Florida for a winter vacation.

During the holidays Elaine and Phil O'Connell, 307 S. Reuter, spent a few days in Peoria with both parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Reagan and Mr. and Mrs. George O'Connell. (A

A Message from George Harris "Your Pharmacist"

CAN YOU AFFORD 5c PER DAY?

The average per capita expense for each person's prescriptions is less than 5 cents per day, about $15 for an entire year. Incidently, if you are an average person you spend each day about $1.31 for food and tobacco, 53c for transportation and 27c for recreation.

CAN YOU AFFORD TO GAMBLE?

Prescription buying by mail is the latest device to entice business. Discounts are being offered. For a dubious saving of a few dollars per year you risk the dangers of delay, loss of your pharmacist's personal interest in your welfare and the necessary immediate contact with your physician that is so often needed.

THE AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION OPPOSES MAIL-ORDER PRESCRIPTIONS.

They reported that "It is not in the best interests of the patient." The five to ten day delay can be dangerous. Often a pharmacist must consult with the physician before dispensing to avoid possible error. Firms advertising price savings are under temptation to offer lesser quality drugs.

AVERAGE NET PRESCRIPTION PROFIT IS ONLY ABOUT 8% BEFORE TAXES.

That is all that is left after paying cost of ingredients, salaries, rent and all the other expenses needed to operate a good pharmacy. It is possible to offer a discount only if we were to raise our prices. This we will not do. Be wise. Get your prescriptions from your local pharmacist whom you know you can depend on for fair prices and reliability.

Suburb-City Conflict

Metro Government: Cure-All For Problem-Plagued Areas?

by PHILIP NELSON

Metropolitan government already exists in the Chicago area— and has for more than half a century.

This, despite almost violent opposition from local governments, as evidenced, for example, by the unanimous "no" of six trustee candidates who ran for election in Arlington Heights last year.

"I strongly oppose metropolitan government," said one. "I do not favor a metropolitan form of government for Cook county and, in light of the recent Randolph report, the question appears to be a moot one," said a second.

"No," replied a third. "I do not favor . . ." said the fourth. The fifth replied with: "we would lose control of our police, fire department and other services which we know better how to do." And the sixth added: "this form of government could not take care of local problems."

BUT, AS FAR back as 1889, the first form of metropolitan government was born—in the shape of the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago. It was created to handle sanitation, storm flow, navigation and water, to collect and dispose of all domestic and industrial wastes, to help waterways carry the runoff from storms, to make canals a primary link in the inland waterway serving Mid-America and to protect the water supply from pollution and make it possible for water to come to suburbs from Chicago.

The flow of the Chicago river was reversed, the population was tripled in half a century and industry boomed. Had industry expanded under the old sanitation system, the entire city of Chicago in one year would have been buried under domestic and industrial wastes nine feet deep.

But, realistically speaking, the Chicago area does not enjoy the type of metropolitan government that Dade county, Fla. (Miami Beach) or the city of Los Angeles boast.

Is it necessary? And if it is, when will it come to the Chicago area?

THE NEEDS of metropolitan government have been pointed out sharply by the Committee for Economic Development, headed by Jervis J. Babb.

Not only will the "mother cities" like Chicago rot and the rot spread into the suburbs, warns this committee, but there is a fantastic waste of 16,000 government bodies guiding the daily lives of 192 metropolitan areas across the country.

In 1850, 15 per cent of the country lived in urban centers. By 1900, cities claimed 40 per cent of the country's population, and by 1920, this had passed the halfway mark.

Today, two out of three Americans live in urban areas and by 1975, the committee projects three-fifths of the 140 million persons living in metropolitan areas will be residents of suburbs surrounding the core cities.

A YEAR AGO, the Randolph commission (Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan Area Local Governmental Services commission) with 22 members headed by Rep. Paul J. Randolph of Chicago, expanded its studies in preparation for a report for January, 1961.

Organized in 1955 to encourage a survey of the metropolitan Chicago area and to heighten interest in six-county cooperation, it bogged down by stating the "political status quo" must be considered in any examination of the future of the metropolitan area, adding that "no plan that would disturb that balance is going to be acceptable."

Apparently impossible problems await solutions in the northwest suburbs as they do elsewhere in the metropolitan area—problems of flood control, bursting school populations and soaring taxes, to name o few. Who's going to solve them?

Elmer W. Conti is a state representative in the 5th district and a village mayor of Elmwood Park. An independent Republican and a progressive thinker, Conti offers this comment:

"We won't see it (metropolitan government) for 10 years. By then, it may be an actuality."

For example, he pointed out, "I can't find any objectors to a centralized police lab."

And, "unless Arlington Hts. and the other northwest suburbs can get dam projects through, can obtain a pipe line to Lake Michigan, then the next step of such a metropolitan government will be to supply all municipalities with water, using Chicago lines and extending all the way to Joliet and the Fox River valley.

"Table charts on water wells show they are very low, and, in due time, it will be necessary for the city (Chicago) to be selling all (villages) its water.

"Projects like DAMP (Des Plaines, Arlington Heights and Mt. Prospect) are now in court litigation. If this goes over, it will be one step in defeating metropolitan government. If DAMP should fail, it will be a second step closer to metropolitan government."

DOES CONTI favor such a government? Yes — and no. Like most suburbs in this area, he fears control and absorbtion by the giant mother city and its political bosses.

However, he added, "I have always advocated that we have our metropolitan water system run by counties instead of by any municipality like Chicago."

Unwilling to yield even on this basis, he went on to say: "I would still object to metropolitan government even if it were county-controlled, because (at present) there is a measue of representation by country towns.

"Step three brings us closer," he explained. Step three would be a mass transporattion system, more and more becoming a necessity as railroad systems break down or vanish. "Most country buses are going bankrupt," he said.

THE MASS transportation commission of which he was a member was hamstrung by the governor, who held back funds for its operation. Chicago's plan to subsidize the present system, which would have meant another nickel on each $100 real estate valuation, Conti fought bitterly.

"I'd be mad if we'd allow ourselves to subsidize the city. Let them come in with an extension that actually helps the suburbs.

"The suburbs are the bedrooms of Chicago. Many of our residents go to work in the city, and transportation is the backbone of the metropolitan system. Without it, we wouldn't have the city of Chicago."

However, he indicated he will re-introduce his plan for a metropolitan mass transportation system. It would buy up bankrupt and failing country buses, provide one system for the five counties of Will, Cook, DuPage, Lake and Kane, and operate on a county-wide basis.

"All my life," he stated, "I have preached the (unnecessary) duplication of all bills, fire bonds, the waste of three high schools where only two are needed, the waste of police manpower." (He advocates a combined police force of five villages for a coordinated 40-man unit instead of an uncoordinated 80-man force—Elmwood Park, 23; River Grove, 13 or 14; Franklin Park, 18; Schiller Park 10, and Northlake, 20).

"Things (like metropolitan government) have to be realized sooner or later. We are reaching a point of confiscatory taxation, where none of us can afford to live in the suburbs any more.

"It will happen in 10 years. The thinking of all the top level governmental planners are along these lines. Why 10 years? It will take two or three elections throughout the state to acquaint the public with this thinking."

HOWARD OLSON, village manager of Elmwood Park, and recenly named to head the metropolitan division of the state village managers, who has brought his village many national awards, was more pessimistic.

"I doubt if it ever will come about," he said. "The big city generally wants to absorb the little ones."

He went on to say that there would be more assessed valuation necessary to pay off the tremendous bond issues in the city, which would be quite a shock in two years, without any assurance of better service.

"Unless there is a better service," Olson pointed out, "there is no point in consolidating. There is a need for (overall planning) in water and sewer distribution and flood control, but with overloaded payrolls, the smaller town is more efficient for these problems.

"The county is doing a good job in zoning, but it offers too broad a coverage. They get away from direct contact with the people. Here, one walks in with a problem and gets direct action."

He conceded, however, that metropolitan government might be good if it was mutually advantageous to everyone.

Aliens Are Reminded to Report Soon

District Director Alva L. Pilliod of the immigration and naturalization service stated that aliens in the United States will be required to report their addresses to the Attorney General within the near future.

All aliens, with a few exceptions, who are in the United States on January 1, each year must report their addresses by the end of that month. Only the following classes of aliens are excused from this requirement: (1) accredited diplomats; (2) persons accredited to certain international organizations; and (3) those admitted temporarily as agricultural laborers.

Forms with which to make the report can be obtained from any post office or immigration office during the month of January. Pilliod said that the law provides severe penalties for failure to comply with the reporting requirement.

John Gabel Elevated To Assistant Cashier By Merchandise Bank

John Gabel, 1252 N. Yale av., Arlington Heights, has been promoted to assistant cashier, at Merchandise Bank, it was announced by Kenneth K. Du Vall, chairman of the board.

Gabel joined the bank in 1956. Previously he had worked in the collections and credit field for seven years.

JOHN GABEL

HE WAS APPOINTED manager of the bank's installment loan department November 1, 1959 and will continue to serve in that capacity.

A graduate of Arlington high school, Gabel is an army veteran. He and his wife, Dorris, are parents of two children—Gary, 3, and Faye Ann, four months. The family attends the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights.

Where you save DOES make a difference!

WE'RE SPECIALISTS IN SAVING

We specialize in saving at Arlington Heights Federal Savings. Our only source of money, by law, is the people who put their dollars into savings accounts—unlike other types of financial institutions for whom savers are only a minor source of money. This explains why people are so important to us. It is why you find a friendly welcome and are warmly treated when you come to Federal Savings.

OVER $550,000 IN DIVIDENDS!

Nearly 13,500 savers know that all our efforts and services are pointed to their comfort, convenience, and approval—as well as their profit. Our liberal dividends issued to savers in 1960 reached over a half-million dollars. More than $550,000 represent the added earnings of families and individual savers whose nest eggs at Arlington Heights Federal Savings at the close of 1960 totaled $17,000,000.

SPECIALISTS IN LENDING, TOO!

"Encourage thrift among neighbors so that neighbors can become home owners" pretty well sums up the savings and loan business. Our loans are made principally on homes and home improvements—and we make more of them than any other type of lender. Almost 1,500 families in our northwest suburban area are proud possessors of homes made possible through home mortgage loans with Federal Savings.

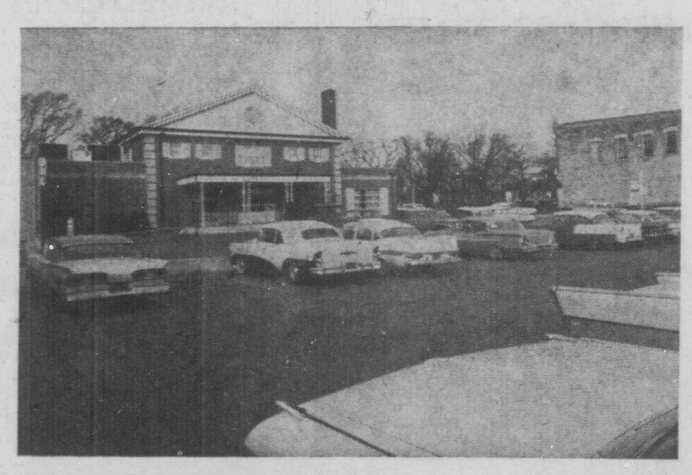
INSURED SAFETY

This symbol signifies that every account at Federal Savings is insured up to $10,000 with the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, an agency of the Federal Government. Not one penny has ever been lost in an FSLIC-insured account.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULT

Our Safe Deposit Vault provides steel boxes in six sizes for valuables and important papers. Papers are safeguarded with the most fire-proof, burglar-proof protection available for as little as two cents a day in this convenient, street-level vault, open 49 hours a week.

CONVENIENCE is an important factor in doing things comfortably. Our Drive-Up window permits transactions without leaving the car.



PARKING is ample at Federal Savings, with a private lot right at our door affording 15,000 square feet of off-the-street parking.

COMMUTER GIRL service enables persons to make transactions on their way to and from work, from 7 a.m. and until 6:30 p.m.

New Alternator Cuts Automobile Stalling

Important advantages of Plymouth's new alternator for avoiding embarrassing and costly "stalls" in slow-moving, heavy winter traffic and for keeping the battery strong, even under heavy electrical loads, were demonstrated to the press this week by Plymouth engineers.

The alternator is Plymouth's new electrical power-producing machine replacing the conventional DC generator. Introduced for the first time in regular passenger cars as standard equipment on the 1960 Valiant, it is a feature on all 1961 Plymouth and Valiant cars at no extra cost.

IN ONE OF A series of dramatic demonstrations of the alternator's amazing capabilities, newsmen in Detroit witnessed the departure of two cars, a 1961 Plymouth and a 1961 Valiant—without batteries—for Chicago. Chicago newsmen were on hand to greet the cars when they arrived in the Windy City 5½ hours after leaving Detroit.

In making the 328-mile trip, the cars came to a complete stop 24 times each, yet the engines never stopped running.

THE DETROIT to Chicago trip demonstrates that under practical driving conditions the alternator, without the aid of a battery, produces enough power, particularly at the critical idling stage, to provide sufficient electrical current to prevent the car from stalling. This protects the motorist against battery failure particularly in slow stop-and-go traffic with headlights, heater, defroster, windshield wipers and the radio turned on.

At the same time, the alternator charges the battery at low engine speed and idling stages, keeping it strong and capable of re-starting the car should the engine stall in traffic.

Dr. Carl A. Starck

Funeral services will be held Friday, Jan. 6, at 3 p.m. in Tharps funeral home, Palatine, for a resident of Palatine since boyhood, Dr. Carl A. Starck, 142 W. Chicago. Interment will be in Hillside cemetery.

He leaves his wife, Zonia; two sons, Dr. Carl D., and Thomas; two daughters, Elizabeth and Mrs. Raymond Carroll; one brother, Rufus; and one grandchild. (B9

Debra M. Alexander

Mass of the Angels was said December 29 in St. Theresa church, Palatine, for Debra M. Alexander, 2-year-old daughter of Thomas and Catherine Alexander, 335 S. Greenwood, Palatine. Interment was in St. Michael the Archangel cemetery.

She leaves her parents. (B9

Start Memorial Fund

Beloved Dr. Starck Missed by Thousands

Palatine's oldest doctor, Carl A. Starck, died Monday morning in the hospital where he served thousands of patients who remember him for never turning down a call.

The accolades that friends of Dr. Starck bestow upon him are infinite:

—His driver Glen Gallup recalls a night devoted to bringing three babies into the world. The births were all at least seven miles from Palatine in different directions.

—MISS Beth Sherman of the Catherine Memorial home worked with Dr. Starck from 1937 to 1950 in the hospital the beloved physician built in Palatine. "It said on his diploma that to be a doctor came above all else. 'That's what I aim to live by,' he told me."

—A man spoke with Miss Sherman recently saying he will never forget how Dr. Starck came to care for his sick wife and children at 2 a.m. when he had no money to pay for doctor's services.

"Many people have said that no one will ever know the hours Dr. Starck worked," Miss Sherman said. "We would still be receiving office patients at 1 a.m. Many the nights during the war, when Dr. Starck was the only doctor from Wheeling to Barrington and south to Mt. Prospect, that he never saw bed."

DR. CARL STARCK

THE deliverer of more than 4,000 babies died Monday at the age of 81 in Sherman hospital, Elgin, of a heart ailment. When news of his death spread around Palatine, calls began coming immediately to the Enterprise and to the Township office. "We want to start a memorial fund," friends, neighbors, and former patients said. "We feel it should be something to benefit humanity, as Dr. Starck dedicated his life to mankind."

Roy LaLonde has offered to collect money people donate for a memorial. Dr. Starck's family said it doesn't want to make a hasty decision about how the fund is used. His daughter, Elizabeth, suggested a medical scholarship, hospital equipment, or research fund grant.

However, when the money has been collected, the family would like an expression of community feeling on what memorial would be appropriate.

ANOTHER of Dr. Starck's friends, Charles Paddock, recalls that the impetus for Dr. Starck to study medicine was provided by Dr. Muffet, recognized as one of the most capable surgeons and medical men in this area.

The young man often assisted Dr. Muffet at operations, then drove the team of horses home, while the doctor slept. By the time he graduated from Palatine high school in 1900, the son of the Long Grove minister Rev. Charles A. Starck, had decided his career.

He entered the college of physicians and surgeons of the University of Illinois where he earned his degree in 1904. At that time he hung his shingle in downtown Palatine, where he occupied office space in several buildings.

A DREAM of a small hospital for the village and surrounding countryside was realized in 1916 when Dr. Starck was able to purchase the Kunze building at the southeast corner of Slade and Brockway st. (now Palatine Drug, where Gallup is maintenance man.)

Dr. Starck's definite decision to establish a hospital was made one stormy night according to records in the Palatine Centennial book. He was called to the Henry Fasse home in Schaumburg township. His cutter tipped over twice on the way as he cut across fields to get to an impending birth. The doctor arrived in time to welcome the new born baby, but he had to remain all night because of the storm.

At first Dr. Starck had one small room where he put a bed for emergency cases. The demand for beds became so great that in 1919 a two-story addition was added to the building and the hospital held its official opening.

IT WAS at the hospital that Miss Sherman joined him in 1937. One of her first projects was to establish a nursery with an incubator so that newborn children had a chance to live for a short time in isolation.

It was at the hospital that patients came to see the doctor at all hours of the day. "People often told me that they knew Dr. Starck would take care of them," Miss Sherman recalled. "You don't need to pay him when you are sick. He will wait until you have the money," people said.

This is remembered too by driver Gallup who set many a broken arm and prepared splints under the doctor's tutelage.

HIS OTHER memories go back to a morning when the thermometer showed 15 degrees below zero. "We were driving to Lake Zurich to lance a quinsy sore throat. All the way we had to watch each others faces. When we would get white, we reached out for handfuls of snow from the high drifts and rubbed each others faces to keep from freezing.

"Another night we were called to a confinement at 10. As soon as we finished there, a call came for another one. The phone rang at the second home, and we were off to a third birth. When we finished the third, the sun was coming up. The family invited us to stay for breakfast," Gallup said.

Services for Dr. Starck will be held Friday, Jan. 6 at 3 p.m. at the Tharp chapel. Rev. Glenn Gumm will officiate. Burial will be at Hillside cemetery.

DR. STARCK'S survivors are his wife, Zonia, sons, Dr. Carl Starck, Jr., and Thomas, two daughters, Elizabeth, and Mrs. Raymond Carroll, New York city, a grandchild, Paul Adam Carroll, and a brother, Rufus. (PF

Schools' Census Reflects Growth

A census pre-school children, undertaken in November by members of the Arlington Heights PTA indicates the rapid growth of elementary school district 25 will continue through 1965.

Results of the unofficial census, released this week by Robert Campbell, principal at Miner junior high school, reveal there are 3,396 children now living in the school district who will enter school between 1961 and 1965.

"These figures represent only guides to the growth potential," Campbell explained. "Not included in the census are the many school-age children who will move into the district in weeks and months to come."

THE CENSUS shows that at least 709 kindergarten pupils can be expected to enroll in September, 1961. Based on the census, enrollment projections for the next four years are as follows: 1962—773; 1963—703, 1964—653, and 1965—558.

The census also indicates there are 7,179 households in the district and 317 homes under construction. The number of homes under construction increases every day, Campbell noted.

The three south side schools, Dryden, Park and Westgate, can count on an enrollment of 1,247 kindergarten pupils through 1965. The north side schools, Kensington, North, Ridge and Windsor, know their collective enrollment will be at least 2,149.

On the 1961 agenda for district 25 is a referendum in March to provide funds for additional kindergarten through fifth grade facilities. According to the recently completed census, the facilities will be sorely needed.

Lady Driver Sideswipes Police Squad

A 45-year-old Chicago woman was charged last Thursday with leaving the scene of an accident, improper lane usage and damaging village property after her auto sideswiped an Arlington Heights police car on Northwest hwy.

Officers George Ekblad and Norman Busse said they were returning to Arlington Heights after picking up a prisoner in Mt. Prospect when the eastbound auto of Dorothy Nelson suddenly swerved across the center line.

BUSSE PULLED the squad car hard to the right, but the woman's auto caught the squad's left rear fender. The errant motorist failed to stop after the accident near Maple st. in Mt. Prospect, and had to be curbed several blocks from the collision site.

She was scheduled to appear Wednesday in Police Magistrate's court before Judge Robert C. Buckley.

Bad Check Charge Is Leveled

Arlington Heights police collaborated with authorities in Mt. Prospect last week in the apprehension and confinement of a man suspected of passing bad checks in the northwest suburbs and Chicago.

Arrested Saturday by Mt. Prospect police and lodged in the county jail by Arlington Heights officers was George Hedges, who gave his address at 62 Golfview, Mt. Prospect.

Hedges was wanted for cashing checks at the Arlington Heights Red Owl food store and in Skokie and Chicago. He was held under $500 bond in county jail for a court appearance Wednesday. (A

Order More Study for Variations

After considerable discussion Tuesday, Arlington Hts. trustees decided to send back to the plan commission for further study a proposal for street dedication and lot frontage variations in Vacarro's resubdivision in north Arlington Heights.

Trustees felt the requests for variations were in conflict with village ordinances, and therefore voted to deny the variations and approval of a tentative plan.

THE VARIATIONS consisted of a 60-foot street dedication for Patty ln., a 30-foot half street dedication for Pine st., and variations in frontage requirements for four lots on the north side of Patty ln.

The plan commission voted December 14 to approve the variations "so as to enable an orderly development" of the tract of land in question. Vacarro's property is located east of State rd. and north of Oakton st. (A

WSCS Group to Hear Missionary to China

Miss Marie Adams, a missionary to China for 35 years, will be the guest speaker January 10 for the monthly luncheon meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church of Arlington Heights.

Miss Adams was graduated from DePauw university and did graduate work at Boston, Chicago and Columbia universities and also at Union seminary, New York City. When she could not return to China because of the Communists, the Methodist board sent her to Japan, where from 1950 to 1955, she was a teacher in Tokyo Woman's Christian college.

SHE RETURNED to the United States in 1956 and is now retired, spending her time speaking in churches, high schools and to men's and women's clubs. She has taught two required courses in the WSCS conference schools of missions in six states for the past four summers.

While in China, Miss Adams wrote 30 pieces of youth religious education material, sponsored by the National Christian Council. In 1955 she revised the last six books she did in China for republication by the Council of Christian Literature for Overseas Chinese, which is sponsored by the Council of Churches. These have gone into a second edition.

IN 1929 THE North Indiana conference ordained Miss Adams as a local deacon as "an act of appreciation." Two years later the North China conference completed her ordination as local elder. She is available for regular Sunday morning services. For three years she has been doing Lenten services in many places.

Being a photography fan, she has colored slides on Tokyo Woman's Christian college, views of Japan, views of the Royal City of Peiping, and a longer set, "Tokyo to New York by Suez."

Theme for the January meeting will be "Carrying the Word," according to Mrs. Robert Higgins, chairman. Devotions will be led by Mrs. Garrett Duel. Luncheon will be served at 12:45 p.m. by Bluloa and Miriam circles. Mrs. Wilbur Inman is accepting reservations and announces that a nursery will be provided. (AM

Ask Special Use Zoning Approval

An application for special use of property in the 300-home Arlington Heights Gardens subdivision will be considered next Wednesday by the Cook county zoning board of appeals at a public hearing in the Mt. Prospect village hall.

The special use, requested by Mid-State Utilities, Inc., Roselle, is for a well pumping station and ground storage tank in the presently zoned family residence district.

L. A. HANSON, village manager in Arlington Heights, has explained the application by Mid-State is not expected to hamper negotiations between the subdivision and the village in regard to the village supplying water.

Wednesday's hearing will begin at 4 p.m. All interested parties will be given an opportunity to be heard, according to Walter Popjoy, zoning board secretary.

Mid-State Utilities was recently hired by the developer of the Gardens project to drill wells after Arlington Heights trustees refused to grant the subdivision use of village water.

The village and subdivision have since been negotiating in an attempt to work out an agreement on water supply. It is presumed the subdivision will eventually seek annexation to the village. (AF

VIRGINIA TERRACE

A family dinner party was held January 2 in the home of June and John Kelly, 1337 N. Race, in honor of their son, Johnny, 2. Present were his brother, Jimmy, grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Staniforth of Chicago and Mrs. Catherine Kelly, Oak Park, as well as numerous aunts, uncles and cousins.

Jeff, son of Susan and Scott Gilson, 1258 N. Yale, recently had a luncheon party to celebrate his fifth birthday. Although some playmates were unable to attend the festivities, his brother, John, Michael Yore, David and Debbie Zare and Mark Anderson were present to admire the Christmas decorations and enjoy birthday cake and ice cream.

A holiday sojourn of almost two weeks was enjoyed by the Gilson family in St. Louis, Mo., where they visited Scott's and Susan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gilson and Dr. and Mrs. John McCaughn. Christmas and New Year get-togethers with old friends were highlights of the trip, reports Susan.

THE CHRISTMAS holiday was made brighter in the home of Joan and Dick Larson, 1245 N. Illinois, as they were joined by their respective parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nussey and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Larson, both of Chicago, who were also welcomed by their grandchildren, Tommy and Doug. That evening the families were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Larson Jr. and their son, Jack, making the family reunion complete.

A luncheon party highlighted the day last Friday for Susan, daughter of Mina and Don Shields, 1256 N. Race. Enjoying the games and seventh birthday festivities were Terrace friends, Marilyn Hacker and Laurie Lechelt, as well as other acquaintances from Susan's dancing class. On her day, January 2, Susan was treated to dinner at Brandts, after which the family went into Chicago to entrain Don's mother, Mrs. Esther Shields of Kalamazoo, who had been here for the holiday season.

The fun and frolic connected with welcoming in the New Year was enjoyed by the Jack Garlands, Martin Corleys, Ted Miceks and Guy Eisenhuths of the Terrace, Ken Wells, Phil Picketts and Bill Wiederholds of Arlington Heights, George Grupes from Mt. Prospect, Ron Hoffmans, Maywood and the Bob Anthonisens in the home of Barbara and Ralph Wiederhold, 1322 N. Chicago.

Ed, son of Florence and Edward Paul, 1215 N. Race, was honored at a combination luncheon-birthday party last Friday, an affair arranged for and carried out by his sister, Beverly, 13. Circus decorations, games, birthday cake and ice cream plus the presence of Ed's sister, Mary Beth, Bobby and Tommy Lussier, Doug Brown, Jill Turner and Leslie Yates helped make his seventh birthday a memorable occasion.

THE FIRST two days of 1961 were spent by Pat and Bill Cotsakis, 1232 N. Race, and their sons, Fritzie and Danny, with members of Bill's family in Fond du Lac, Wis., hosts being his brother and family, the Carl Cotsakis. Also present were the senior William Cotsakis of Franklin Park.

Another Terrace couple to welcome friends and neighbors to their New Year's celebration was the Joe Badalis, 1428 N. Illinois. Among those enjoying card playing, merry making and a buffet supper were Jeanette and Bill Gaffney, Sandy and Bruce Mullins, Sue and Bill Behren, Olive and Bill Balow, Bunny and Bill Reinhardt, and Sara and Bob Wilson, Arlington Heights.

Pat and Terry McGuire, 1224 N. Chicago, and their children, Patty, Michael, Diane and Kathleen, departed Tuesday for their new home in Murraysville, Pa., near Pittsburgh. The move was the result of a company transfer. Needless to say, their friends and neighbors here wish them luck and happiness.

Pauline and John Noerenberg, 1235 N. Race, and neighbors, Marilou and Ray Crouch, started their New Year's eve celebration by having dinner at Bergmans, following which they went to the home of friends in Highland Park to celebrate the "golden hour."

SHIRLEE AND FRANK Pircher, 1330 N. Illinois, got together with many old friends in the home of former Terrace neighbors, Clem and Jack Kalb in Des Plaines. The Pirchers, including Frank, Steve, Mike and John, entertained Frank's mother, Mrs. Rose Lay, and brother, Walter Pircher, Chicago, at a New Year's day dinner party.

The holidays provided an opportunity for a famiy reunion for Ethel and Robert Emmons, 1317 N. Race. Their son, Michael, was home from Illinois State Normal university, Normal, while another son, Jeff, was on leave from service duties at Ft. Devans, Mass. Completing the picture was a visit from their daughter and son-in-law, Sandra and Lieut. Robert Peters, and four grandchildren, who were enroute from Texas to Robert's new post in Michigan.

Jeanne and Art Sadowski, 1119 N. Wilke, entertained friends and neighbors at a holiday get-together last Friday evening. Among them were Dolores and Ron Kujala and Laraine and Ron Francis of the Terrace.

The entire Christmas vacation period was spent in Milwaukee by Jo and Les Rozdalovsky, 1321 N. Race, and their daughters, Shirley and Mary Jo, as Les was free from his duties at Maine Township high school. Although they stayed with Jo's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LaPresti, the girls were present at their cousin, Linda's birthday party, and the family also visited relatives in So. Milwaukee and long time acquaintances from Nebraska in West Bend.

Friends and neighbors of Adelaide and John Fairfield, 1333 N. Illinois, extend their sympathy upon learning of the death of Adelaide's father, Walter Denis, Chicago, last Wednesday.

AFTER MUCH delay, Jeanette and Bill Gaffney, 1405 N. Illinois, and their daughters, Cynthia, Patricia and Kelly, departed December 17 for N. Caldwell, N. J., where they left the girls with their maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Matthews, as they journeyed on to Cypress Gardens, Fla., to enjoy a week's vacation, one of the many prizes Bill won as a contestant on "Concentration." Jeanette reports that while it was too cold to water ski, they had a boat at their disposal and enjoyed sightseeing and relaxation. Enroute to New Jersey for Christmas, Jeanette stopped in Atlanta, Ga., to visit an old friend. The hectic pace was further heightened when they returned to New Jersey and found one of their daughters with the mumps, a fact which altered the family attendance at Christmas day dinner.

Vivian and Bob Weber, 1506 W. Oakton, joined good friends, Mr. and Mrs. George Engelbrecht, Elmhurst, at a party in their home to welcome in the New Year.

Lorraine and Bob Twilling, Barbara and Joe Herrity, and Betty and Geoff Warner were guests of Audrey and James Ostler, 1216 N. Yale, New Year's eve.

The Ostlers had enjoyed a family dinner party December 28, when the 10th birthday of their son, Ray, was celebrated. Wishing their brother many happy returns were Jimmy, Tommy, Nancy, Robert and Katherine.

Because their son, Gary, was down with mumps Christmas day, Shirley and Robert Vogtritter, 1208 N. Race, and their other children, Kim, Scott and Jill, missed out on the family get together, but they played host December 26 to Robert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Vogtritter, Front Royal, Va., at a Christmas dinner party. With all well again by New Year's eve, Shirley and Robert were able to party in 1961 in the home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Jan Wills, Itasca.

A FAMILY DINNER party New Year's day heralded in 1961 in the home of Mary Ellen and Eugene Van de Merkt, 1231 N. Wilke, and the gathering of the clan included Mary Ellen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Patterson, Evanston, the Van de Merkts' daughter and son-in-law, Judy and Harold Pease, E. Dundee, and Harold's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pease, Palatine.

A New Year's eve jamboree topped off with a late buffet supper was enjoyed in the home of Adele and Frank Yore, 1260 N. Illinois, by Terrace neighbors, Jackie and Joe Koenig, Carol and George Clarkson and Marian and Ed Nielsen.

Brothers and sister, Chuckie, Robert and Nancy, were in attendance, as were the parents, Betty and Charles Oman, 1239 N. Illinois, when Stephen Oman was baptized Christmas day. Officiating at the baptism in Our Saviour Lutheran church was Pastor John Petersen. Stephen wore a 100-year-old christening gown which was first worn by his great grandfather. (A

Mrs. Q. R. Sharp, New Head of Newcomers

Mrs. Q. R. Sharp was installed as president of the Arlington Heights Newcomers club at a recent buffet luncheon held in Old Orchard country club. Other officers for the next 6-month term are Mrs. Bruce Whiting, vice president; Mrs. William Fields, recording secretary; Mrs. Lawrence Stevens, treasurer.

Mrs. Thomas Stewart, past president, conducted the installation. Mrs. Marshall McEuen is the out going president.

The following chairmen were announced by Mrs. Sharp: Mrs. Neil Werner, membership; Mrs. H. S. Braun, luncheon; Mrs. Richard Pulling, program; Mrs. Warren Weed, special charities; Mrs. James Voelz, ways and means; Mrs. Thomas Bettinger, evening hostess; Mrs. Thomas Cantwell, activities, Mrs. James Glynn, tickets.

MRS. PULLING announced the next couples' event will be a "Roaring Twenties" dance February 3 in Old Orchard country club. Don Reynolds combo will provide the music and costume is optional. Tickets will be limited to 80 couples and may be obtained by contacting Mrs. James Glynn, CLearbrook 3-5008.

After the luncheon, guests and members played cards with prizes for bridge going to Mrs. James Glynn, Mrs. Carl Eisentraut and Mrs. Alfred Seyler. Pinochle prizes were won by Mrs. Robert Wurst and Mrs. Burton Soderberg. Mrs. Thomas Cantwell and Mrs. Francis Morgan won the canasta prizes and the early bird prize was won by Mrs. Clarence Nast.

NEWCOMERS with less than a year and a half residency in Arlington Heights are invited to attend one luncheon or evening meeting as a non-member and then are eligible to join the club as a member. Further information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Neil Werner, CLearbrook 5-9330. (A

NEW SIGN PREDOMINATES at corner of State and Palatine rds. in Arlington Heights. The sign, denoting the location of an A & P food store in the village, was a subject of some discussion at recent meetings of Arlington Heights trustees. It was decided the sign should be limited in height despite the objections of one trustee. The SUPT. R. E. CLABAUGH and C. F. Raasch, principal of Windsor school, Arlington Heights, attended the 107th Annual Meeting of the Illinois Education association.

The Representative Assembly of the association, consisting of over 600 delegates, representing approximately 60,000 members, considered basic problems in school finance, state aids, state revenue reform, state board of education, an appointive superintendent of public instruction, further school district reorganization, and other problems.

In addition, the Assembly considered problems directly related to the profession, such as higher training and certification requirements, increased minimum salary and sick leave requirements, higher standards for professional membership, retirement amendments, and more rigid application of the association's own Code of Ethics.

Senior Citizens Club Organized

The first meeting of the Senior Citizens club, sponsored by the Arlington Heights park district, is scheduled for Monday, Jan. 9, at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the Pioneer park fieldhouse.

The January 9 meeting will be the first of several monthly programs to be planned for the old timers of Arlington Heights. The purpose of this first meeting will be to give everyone an opportunity to give their views on future programs and activities.

With life expectancy steadily lengthing and people retiring at an earlier age, the segment of population over 60 years of age has been increasing at a tremendous rate. Providing activities to keep this group of folks occupied is a major responsibility of all the recreation departments throughout the United States.

BILL Appleby, superintendent of recreation for the park district, said "the objective of the district is to provide recreational activities for all age groups, and that by sponsoring this activity we hope to help the many elderly and retired men and women in Arlington Heights make better use of their leisure time."

Any person 60 years and over, who is a resident of the park district, is eligible to participate in the activities of the club.

S. P. Mulley, 308 S. Mitchell, will show his collection of slides of the Chicago World's Fair and the Barber Shop Quartet will entertain with barber shop harmony. Coffee and cake will be served. Anyone wishing further information on the activity can call CL 3-0620. A

Vacation Hearing Is Postponed

Arlington Heights trustees agreed Tuesday to postpone to their next regular meeting the hearing of a request by four residents that Marshall st. be vacated between Beverly and Hickory.

At the suggestion of Trustee Eugene Schlickman, the matter was tabled to January 16, at which time Edwin L. Johnson, attorney for those seeking the vaaction, will appear to present his case.

ASKING THE vacation are R. T. Luedeking, Ralph Gotlund, George Farrell and Maurice Umbdenstock, owners of the property abutting on Marshall st. They reason the street could be vacated since the village has no intentions of paving it. (A

Just about the nicest Christmas present imaginable was brought to the Joseph Babs home on Christmas day. Their daughter, Judy, came home from Evanston hospital on that day bringing her new son, Francis Gerard Bichl, III. The Bichls plan to stay about a month before returning to their home in Chicago. The baby was born December 20, weighing 7 pounds, 14 ounces. His paternal grandmother is Mrs. F. G. Bichl Sr. of Deerfield.

On New Year's day Francis III was baptized at St. James church by Fr. Lane who also married his parents. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Babs were hosts in their home at 507 N. Douglas for the family and the baby's godparents, Mrs. Joan Lewis and John Bichl.

Because the weather man didn't cooperate, the weekend ski outing that Delores and Homer Nielsen planned for Iron Mountain, Mich. had to be postponed. Instead they went to Majestic Hills in Lake Geneva for their skiing and still are looking forward to the weekend in Michigan when the snow finally arrives.

THE PARTY part of a progressive dinner on New Year's eve took place at the home of Linda and Bob Lane, 309 N. Brighton. Thirteen couples, classmates from high school days, enjoyed the 3-course affair that took place in Mt. Prospect and Arlington Heights.

Announcing the birth of their first child are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gustafson, 310 N. Dryden. Their daughter, Leah Ruth, was born December 27 at St. Francis hospital, weighing 7 pounds, 10 ounces. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nicholas, Oak Lawn, and Mrs. Ruth Gustafson of 332 Windsor dr., Stonegate.

The Herman Raasches returned from their Florida vacation on Monday, just in time for Barbara and Bill to return to school. For two and a half weeks they relaxed in the sun, alternating between Treasure Island and Miami. Christmas was spent with Mrs. Raasch's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sesterhenn in Miami.

Another balmy Christmas day was enjoyed by Natalie Glover, the Elton Glover's daughter of 713 N. Hickory, who is in India on a Rotary fellowship. Natalie and five other American students studying at the University of Allahabad are spending their Christmas vacation touring Southern India. Christmas day Natalie cabled her parents and told of swimming in the Bay of Bengal.

The H. Lee Watson's son, Lee Jr. has returned to his graduate studies in physics at the University of California at LaJolla. Lee jetted back on New Year's eve day. His parents entertained five couples for bridge that evening to welcome in the New Year.

This Week with PTA

Thursday, Jan. 5, 1961

The PTA of Arlington Heights public schools will present a special program under the direction of the exceptional child committee January 13. The program will be shared by two men who are highly qualified in their fields.

Mr. William M. Rogge, research consultant for gifted children from the state office of public instruction, and Mr. Thomas Marvin, special education coordinator for the northwest suburban area, will be the speakers.

FOR THOSE parents of children in the public schools in Arlington Heights, the topic of Mr. Rogge's speech should hold special meaning. "Intellectually superior children are destined to be our world leaders in scientific and professional areas; thus, an education must be good for today as the past is obviously unsuitable in our present rapidly changing times."

The special study project for gifted children was established in Illinois in July, 1959. Many schools were considered throughout the state for special attention, and Arlington Heights was selected as one of the school systems to be studied.

MR. ROGGE, who holds bachelor's and master's degrees in education from the University of Wisconsin and is currently completing requirements for the doctor of education degree at the University of Illinois, has been working closely with Arlington Heights public schools since September, 1960.

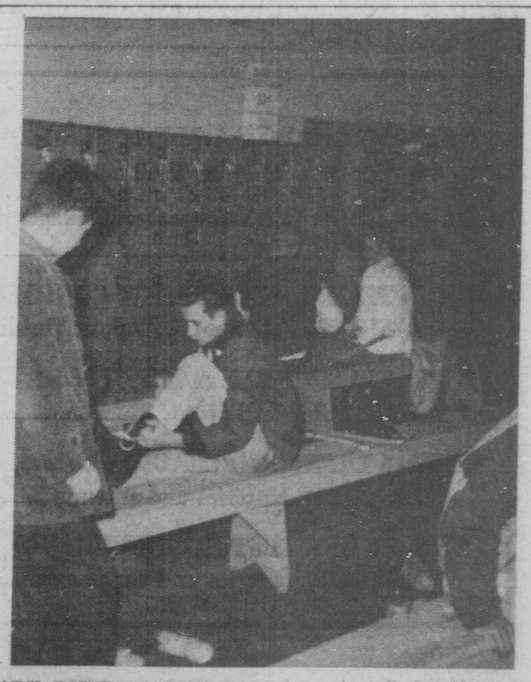
He will speak on information now available relating to the education of gifted children, and present ideas concerning what environments they should be placed in, using their talents to greatest efficiency.

Since the term exceptional child applies to all children who deviate in some way from the norm, there are various special classes in the area provided for these children. The role of the area coordinator for the classes will be Mr. Marvin's topic.

MR. MARVIN has now been employed for two years on a part-time basis by three high school and eleven elementary school districts, including Arlington Heights dist. 25 and dist. 214, as special education coordinator for the northwest suburban area.

Mr. Marvin holds a bachelor's degree from Northern State Teachers college and a master's degree in school administration and elementary education from Northwestern university.

The exceptional child committee invites all parents who are interested in learning about "behind the scene" activities in local schools to attend the meeting Friday, Jan. 13 in South Junior high school Cafeteria at 8 p.m. (A



PARK DISTRICT OFFICIALS have installed self-service checking lockers in the warming houses at the Recreation and Pioneer park ice skating rinks. The lockers are the same as those used in the dressing rooms of the Recreation park swimming pool during the swimming season. Arlington Heights teenage skaters are pictured above making use of the new locker facilities.

$1 Million Suburban YMCA To Be Dedicated January 15

A community dream, first envisioned in October 1953, will materialize Sunday, Jan. 15.

That day, hundreds of northwest suburban residents will herald the dedication of the new Northwest Suburban YMCA.

Opening ceremonies for the new $1 million facility will be held at 3 p.m. in the gymnasium.

Tours of the building will be conducted from 1-6 p.m., by members of the board of directors, women's auxiliary and staff. The 4.3 acre site is located on Northwest highway east of Mt. Prospect road.

Highlighting the 3 p.m. ceremony will be a talk by Niels C. Beck, assistant director, Armour Research Foundation.

Beck will speak on, "Our Wonderful New World of Science—A Challenge and an Opportunity." He has, since 1956, been director general, Union of the Burma Applied Research Institute, an Armour Research Foundation project.

JAMES RADLEIN, 1356 Fifth ave., Des Plaines, of the Des Plaines American Legion post 36, will organize one man from each of the outlying posts to present the flag to the new YMCA. The Irving Park YMCA chorus, directed by Walter Wolodkin, will sing.

A. A. Rose, whose company was general contractor of the new building, will present the key to the building to a representative of the YMCA of Metropolitan Chicago Board of Trustees. He in turn will pass it to Stanley C. Amren, 1611 Blackhawk, Mt. Prospect, chairman of the local board of directors, and vice president of Charles Bruning Co., Inc. Amren will give the key to Barbara Manny, 17, of 174 Ardmore rd., Des Plaines, who will accept it for the community.

Frank G. Anger, YMCA president; L. L. McClow, YMCA general secretary; and Thomas M. Blake, president of Littelfuse, Inc., who was chairman of the YMCA board of directors from 1953-60, will be honored guests. Anger is president of the Chicago National bank.

INVOCATION and Benediction will be given by the Rev. R. Norman Herbert, Community Presbyterian church, Mt. Prospect, and Rev. R. K. Wobbe, Christ Evangelical and Reform church, Des Plaines.

Open house and dedication plans were formulated by a committee headed by Ralph H. Martin, 410 Pinehurst, Des Plaines, real estate broker with the Wm. L. Kunkel company.

According to Amren the new suburban facility features a spacious outdoor-indoor swimming pool, gymnasium, plus recreation, craft, club and all-purpose rooms. Four handball courts, a modern kitchen, a weightlifting and exercise room are other major features.

A business men's club is complete with steam room, private air-conditioned lounge and massage facilities. Outside there is plenty of parking space and an athletic area for football and baseball.

"There'll be something just right for every member of the family," said Amren who pointed to the spacious pool with twin diving boards complete with colorful tile walls and indirect lighting. Sliding glass doors connect the L-shaped pool with a sun deck where a spray pool awaits toddlers.

THE GYMNASIUM highlights an enormous basketball court with adjustable backboards for small fry and is outfitted for volleyball and other sports. The special gym floor adds roller skating to the activity list.

A variety of programs will be offered residents of Des Plaines, Mt. Prospect, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Palatine, Prospect Heights, Wheeling, Schaumburg, Elk Grove Village and surrounding northwest suburban communities.

"Men will find conditioning classes, volleyball and handball among their favorites, while ladies will enjoy Danish gymnastics, weight control and swimming," said Charles McClellan, executive secretary of the Northwest Suburban YMCA. He added that everything from a multitude of crafts courses to a variety of club programs will be available to younger girls and boys. Teen-agers will enjoy parties, dances and plenty of co-ed activities just right for the high school set.

Judo, gymnastics, skin diving, father and son activities, ballet, tap and modern dance will also be offered, along with many other healthy programs.

NORTHWEST Suburban YMCA has operated from 1488 Miner st., Des Plaines, since 1953. In the past, youth programs were conducted at local schools and at the forest preserves. Last year, over 100,000 program attendances were registered.

The $1 million campaign for the new building began in the spring of 1958. Heading up the general campaign was John R. Hickman, 545 S. Hi-Lusi, Mt. Prospect.

Over $550,000 was raised in the northwest suburban area with matching funds of $350,000 supplied by the YMCA board of trustees.

The new YMCA was supervised under Eugene B. White, of the YMCA Architecture and Engineering Bureau in association with Ekroth, Martorano & Ekroth, architects. A. A. Rose Construction co., was the general contractor.

SPACIOUS NEW outdoor-indoor swimming pool has final work completed as the $1 million Northwest Suburban YMCA prepares for the official opening January 15 of its new building at Northwest hwy. and Cambridge rd., between Mount Prospect and Des Plaines. The YMCA facility will serve those suburbs as well as Elk Grove, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Palatine, and other surrounding communities.

WORKMAN PUTS finishing touches on painted lines for squash play in handball court at Northwest Suburban YMCA building. The new $1 million YMCA features four such courts which will be "officially" initiated February 21 with the Midwest U. S. Handball association tournament.

Village Theatre Schedules Play

The Talent Bank of Village Theatre is preparing a presentation of Charles George's "When Shakespeare's Ladies Meet" as a special program for the Northwest Suburban Alumnae association of Kappa Kappa Gamma on Tuesday, Jan. 10, 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Roger F. Dickinson in Mt. Prospect.

The Talent Bank is composed of Village Theatre members who present one-act plays or "cuttings" of three-act plays for various community organizations and clubs, thus affording new talent in the theatre group an opportunity for gaining experience.

ACTORS in the group who have been Village Theatre "old hands" also find this project a valuable means of keeping fresh and alert when they are not appearing in the major productions of the season.

The group has been in such demand that Mrs. Edward C. Hume Jr., chairman of the Talent Bank for this year, has announced that several groups are in rehearsal most of the time to fulfill engagement requests.

THOSE appearing in the cast of "When Shakespeare's Ladies Meet," under the direction of Carol Frederick, are Katherine the Shrew, Carolyn Burkett: Portia, Carol Mooney; Ophelia, Barbara Fahn; Desdemona, Dee Sanders; Juliet, Chris Bauske; and Cleopatra, Betty Randolph.

All of the above actresses are busy wives and mothers who have made Village Theatre a creative hobby. Bill

"RAPUNZEL, RAPUNZEL, so pretty and fair, Rapunzel dearest, let down your golden hair!," chants the "witch," Bob Hawley. Using Rapunzel's hair as a rope, she climbs hand over hand to the top of the tower. This scene is from Village Theatres', Inc., production, "Rapunzel and the Witch," to be given this Sunday, Jan. 8, for 3 performances at 1:30, 3:30 and 5:00 p.m., at the Prospect High School Little Theater. Building Outlook Brighter for 1961

The homebuilding industry will have a better year in 1961 because the quality of new homes and the value per dollar will be greater than ever before.

This was the prediction of the new president of the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland, Don L. Dise.

"The old cliches, such as 'The most house for your money' and 'The most space per dollar' will cease to be just so many words and will become fact," Dise said.

"THESE WORDS will be a true description of the homes built by the HBAC members because of necessity. The crystal ball gazers are looking to the homebuilding industry to assist in moving the economy from the plateau to substantially higher ground. The builders are going to do this for themselves as well as for the entire economy."

"They are out of necessity going to offer more value than ever before with better efficiency, better use of money, materials and methods. The building of homes has ceased to be just a trade and has evolved as a highly specialized industry."

"When the home buying public finds this to be true, they will decide to make their move in 1961. Therefore, we are confident of increased sales in the new year."

Gay Parties Farewell '60 Welcome Bright New Year

An old year, somewhat the worse for wear but "a gude one for a' that", was thoroughly farewelled Saturday night and a bright and shiny brand-new one warmly welcomed at celebrations in every neighborhood in town. Followed this brought forth prayers as well year by a day of worship, New Year's eve, though gay as ever, as the usual wishes for keeping the new year bright and without tarnish.

The tradition of greeting the new year with neighbors prevailed in many local homes Saturday night when those who would closely share the coming year shared the fun of its beginning. A typical neighborhood party was the one in the William Hall home, 1004 W. Miner, where 32 neighborly friends toasted 1960, 1961 and one another at a companionable gathering of everyone on the block.

ON ANOTHER SOCIABLE street there were holiday parties almost every night but New Year's eve when everyone left the 1000 block of S. Dunton for celebrations elsewhere. New Year's day they were all back together again at an annual brunch in the Delbert Dornan home, 1003 S. Dunton. The fame of Mrs. Dornan's New Year's day feast, modestly called a brunch, has grown and so has her guest list which this year included many local friends outside the neighborhood circle.

The 2 to 8 p.m. holiday open house featured the best of the hostess' culinary repertoire which, according to well-fed friends, is unlimited.

The Dornans' Sunday soire climaxed a round of S. Dunton parties that began last Tuesday evening in the William Patterson home, 1011 S. Dunton. Co-hosting the 20-plus couples of the block were Mr. and Mrs. William Vinberg, former S. Dunton streeters now of 825 S. Chestnut, whose partnership helped produce the festive between-the-holidays boost for neighborliness.

HOME FROM Cedar Rapids just in time for the Patterson-Vinberg jollity were Mr. and Mrs. John Kitch, 1032 S. Dunton. The Kitch family spent the long Christmas holiday weekend with the senior Mrs. Kitch in Cedar Rapids and other relatives in the area.

Last Wednesday evening the Calvin Hubers and Edward Leichts co-hosted at a holiday party in the Huber home, 1021 S. Dunton. Fourteen local couples enjoyed the dual hospitality and ended the mid-week festivities over a late buffet supper.

On the day after Christmas Mr. Huber's mother, Mrs. Fred Huber of Chicago, was the guest of honor at a birthday dinner in her son's home. Often lost in the whirl of Christmas activities, Mrs. Huber's day-after-Christmas birthday was in 1960 accorded the individual attention and gaiety a 73rd anniversary deserves. Joining the birthday girl and her family 'round the festive table was a trio of long-time friends, Miss Esther Oberg, Mrs. Walter Steup and Mrs. Edgar Plagemann, all of Chicago. The celebration climaxed the senior Mrs. Huber's holiday stay here with her son and family.

IN THE S. Dunton happy holiday whirl for the first time are the Charles Haydens, comparative newcomers to the block. Their active contribution to the neighborly aura along that street was a pre-New Year's eve party last Friday night. The Hayden home was open to all the neighbors who unconditionally approved the hospitality at 1010 S. Dunton.

The James Masons welcome to 1961 was shared by 50 local, Wheaton, Evanston and Chicago friends, and by neighborhood friends who stopped at 902 S. State en route to other New Year's eve celebrations. Part of the coming-and-going group came and went with the W. R. Pownalls, 722 E. Euclid, who hosted a dozen local couples in their home after the quick toast to friendship and the new year with the Masons.

The Howard Dawson family is home again at 114 N. Forrest after a holiday week's stay with the senior Dawsons in Ypsilanti, Mich. It was the first time home for Richard since he entered the naval academy in Annapolis and his grandparents shared the family pride in their "plebe." Richard returned to Annapolis early this week.

AT 1130 N. Dunton the term "open house" was truly meant and well accepted last week as the new owners opened their home on four successive nights to new neighbors, former neighbors and business friends. Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Sivertsen, most recently of Rolling Meadows, originally of Casper, Wyo. and of a dozen "home towns" between, entertained groups of from five to 15 couples last Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights in their newly-settled home. Part of the newest "settling" process was adding a western touch to their family room.

Two dozen wood carvings, exact replicas of brands used by their families and friends on Wyoming ranches, are a nostalgic reminder of home for the Sivertsens and conversation-makers for their purely midwestern guests. Mrs. Sivertsen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Evans spent the Christmas weekend here with their daughter and family but had to return to Wyoming before the Sivertsen's round of holiday parties.

ANOTHER NEWCOMER to N. Dunton st., Mrs. Desmond McCabe, 1217 N. Dunton, was introduced Friday to a dozen of her new neighbors at an afternoon coffee given by Mrs. Clarence Loechl, 1213 N. Dunton. Mr. and Mrs. McCabe are from Ireland and moved here in mid-December from London, Ontario.

The party mood in the Loechl household was apparently infectious and was caught by Miss Mary who extended the holiday hospitality through Friday evening at a giggle session for 10 neighborhood girl friends. Games, refreshments and a grab-bag exchange of gifts filled the young ladies and the house with that happy feeling.

The George Petersens, 1324 N. Dunton, enjoyed a holiday family reunion that brought together four generations, two coming from Battle Creek, Mich. in the persons of their daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Knockemus and her two sons. Also of the fourth generation and in the area for a holiday visit was their granddaughter, Mrs. Hal Martin of Port Hueneme, Cal.

The Robert Vanek family, 636 S. Chestnut, barely had time to celebrate Christmas before beginning the household-moving task that will finally result in a new residence in Agana, Guam.

They left here last weekend, will spend two weeks in the Chicago area before a January 14 flight to San Francisco. They'll have a few days in Hawaii next, then depart for Guam where they're due to arrive January 20 just in time for Debbie to celebrate the most remarkable of her nine birthdays. Mr. Vanek will serve the military in a civilian capacity in his newly-appointed position in Agana.

MR. AND MRS. James Loudon, 746 S. Dunton, hosted local friends New Year's eve at the gala celebration in the Itasca country club. Greeting the new year via a champagne toast with the Loudons were the Ted Mendls, Jerry Jedds and W. M. Brines.

The Jorgen Pedersens, 1304 E. Miner, honored the tradition of New Year's day hospitality with an open house Sunday for 68 Chicago, local and other suburban friends. Helping out by bringing trays for the buffet table were the hosts' neighbor, Mrs. Robert Bliss, and Mrs. Lawrence Alles of Mt. Prospect.

The junior John L. Frieburg family, 1303 E. Eastman, enjoyed a 10-day holiday stay in Florida, sharing Christmas with Mrs. Frieburg's aunt, Mrs. Robert Graham of Sebring. They returned Sunday evening, understandably in favor of a green Christmas provided it's also warm and sunny as theirs was. The children had a mid-winter swim in the gulf, the family toured Cypress Gardens and Silver Springs, and the charm of snow with sub-freezing temperatures is forever lost on the Frieburgs.

WHENEVER MR. and Mrs. Chet Smith Jr., 1304 E. Eastman, get together with their respective families and the reunion is noted in the news it tends to be confusing to everyone but the Smiths.

The maiden name of the junior Mrs. Smith was Smith; thus the holiday visit in Kansas City, Kan. with her parents and her husband's reunited the junior Chet Smiths, the senior Chet Smiths and the Charles Smiths. The local Smiths returned here Thursday after a week in Kansas City that was unhappily interrupted by the necessity of a flight back here to attend the funeral of a business friend.

The Carl Reitmeyer family, 227 S. Mitchell, returned early last week from a Christmas weekend celebration with the senior Mrs. Reitmeyer in Ingalls' Mich.

The Albert Williams, 750 N. Pine, will climax a happy-hectic whirl of holiday activities tomorrow night with their third annual Twelfth Night party. Adhering closly to Old English tradition of the Twelfth Night of Christmas, the Williams will burn their Christmas tree and each guest will make a wish as he or she tosses a twig of the tree into the fire.

From a wassail bowl, predecessor to the modern day punch bowl, a "wassail!" ("Be well!") toast will be served. The "Twelve Days of Christmas" song, so well-known in recent years, will be "for real" at the Williams party where the partridge in the pear tree, lords a-dancing and all the rest traditionally is the center of attraction.

When the last "wassail" is quaffed and the last twig burnt, the holiday season will be over. It began at 750 N. Pine, with a pre-Christmas cocktail party December 21 when 18 local friends still had a long way to go until the much-anticipated Twelfth Night event.

MR. AND MRS. William and Cheryl spent the Christmas holidays in Sheboygan with Mrs. William's sister and family, the Oscar Langners, and her niece and family, the Carl Jungs. Christmas eve dinner for a large family gathering was in the Langner home and Christmas day festivities in the Jung home, "Driftwood."

Mrs. William remained in Wisconsin for a week's round of social activties with her family and friends, returning here in time for her own New Years day entertaining. Mrs. Jung and Mrs. Langner accompanied her and were holiday weekend guests in the William home, enjoying with 32 local guests, the open house gaiety Sunday.

Silver candles and ornaments of varying sizes on white ostrich feathers against a green and silver cloth served as a conversation piece as well as a centerpiece for the table from which a champagne punch was served.

FORMER LOCAL residents Miss Patricia Ann Tesar, Miss Jacqueline Boehner and Miss Caroline Schwartz, now of San Francisco, entertained Miss Tesar's parents and sister and Miss Schwartz' parents and brother Christmas day in the apartment home of the three girls. The Charles Tesars and Lynne, 728 S. Chestnut, jetted to San Francisco December 21 and were joined in a few days by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Schwartz of Mt. Prospect and their son, Robert of Phoenix, who motored together to the west coast.

The Tesars stayed the week in San Francisco, sightseeing in the area, then returned by jet last Tuesday. Lynne, a recent Alpha Omicron Pi pledge, returned early this week to the University of Illinois where she is in her freshman year.

NEIGHBORS AND friends of Earl Patterson, 632 N. Salem, will be sorry to learn of the death of his sister, Mrs. Dorothy A. Peters, who died in her Lake Forest home the day after Christmas. Services were held December 28 in the Deerfield Lauterburg and Oehler chapel.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Close, 534 Bristol, had a large family gathering Christmas day. Both their college student daughters, Celia and Linda, are home from their respective colleges, the University of Colorado and the University of Iowa.

Among their other guests were Mrs. Close' mother, Mrs. B. F. Martin of Evanston, and her houseguest, Miss Edith Wells of Columbia, Mo., and Mrs. Close's brother and family, the E. M. Martins of Wilmette and her sister and family, the A. L. Tangoras of Evanston.

OUT-OF-TOWN HOLIDAY guests of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jungbluth, 346 Burton, were their parents, the Peter Jungbluths of Ft. Madison, Iowa, and the Earl Wilsons of Letts, Iowa, and Mrs. Jungbluth's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Wilson of Colorado Springs, and their three children.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene D. Lukasik, 526 E. Central, were hosts to 14 family members Christmas day and the same group met again at the Lukasik home for a New Year's eve party.

Holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Robinson, 711 E. Fairview, were his parents, the R. H. Robinsons of Aurora, and her mother, Mrs. Mabel P. Smith of Huntington, Ind. Mrs. Smith will extend her visit for several weeks.

Last Thursday, the Robinsons' eldest daughter, Julia, gave an iceskating overnight party for six high school classmates. They were among the first to skate on the new ice rink in the Robinsons' back yard. A duplicate party was given over the weekend with Julia's younger sister, Jean, as host to six classmates.

MISS MARGARET Anderson of New York City spent four days in Arlington Heights visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Anderson, 616 Bristol. During her stay, Margaret and her parents drove to LaPorte, Ind., for a holiday visit with her grandmother, Mrs. Bernard Gallop.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Peery, 504 S. Beverly, welcomed friends and neighbors at a cocktail party December 23.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Colurn, 535 S. Burton, were "at home" to neighbors and friends Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Dotts, 600 Banbury, gave an open house Dec. 23, for young friends of their daughter, Dotty. Here for the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Dotts, were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dotts of Corydon, Iowa, and Mrs. Dott's aunt, Mrs. William Westenberger of Chicago.

Another holiday visitor was Miss Janet Baker, a Simpson college student who arrived later in the week from Corydon, for a 5-day visit with Dotty.

MISS DEBBY Starnes, 605 Burton, gave a surprise birthday party Friday for Jack Wetheral. Guests included 10 male friends of Jack's, who took over the barbecue to cook the birthday supper.

Roger Rosene, home from the University of Denver for a holiday visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Rosene, 404 E. Fairview, joined 16 area university classmates Thursday for a toboggan party near Genoa City.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward McGrath, 206 E. Rockwell, and their four children were in Philadelphia for the Christmas and New Year holidays, visiting Mrs. McGrath's mother, Mrs. Robert Weaver, and Mr. McGrath's sister and brother, the Harry C. Thayers and the Joseph F. McGraths.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Stark, 538 S. Dryden, and their children, returned home Monday from Strawberry Point, Iowa, where they spent the Christmas weekend visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Matthews.

MR. AND MRS. Franz Burnier and their children, DeLysa and Franz, left Wednesday for their home in Ann Arbor, Mich., after spending a week in Arlington Heights visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Burnier, 516 E. Fairview.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Milliren, 441 S. Windsor, were hosts at a dinner party Monday for their daughter and son-in-law, the Carl Baumans of Kent, Ohio, who were here for a holiday visit, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fitch of Cleveland and the Fitches' daughter and son-in-law, the James Hettlers of Western Springs.

Among the dinner guests were Mrs. Milliren's father, Judge Perry Persons and her aunt, Mrs. L. O. Brockway of Waukegan.

The Millirens' son, Alan, and his wife were here from their home in Peoria earlier in the week for a visit with his parents and sister.

MR. AND MRS. H. Bruce Rasmussen, 202 S. Windsor, were hosts at their annual Christmas day dinner to all their family members, including Mr. Rasmussen's mother, who is here from Burlington, Iowa. The only ones missing from the family circle was their son, Robert, who with his wife and infant son is living in Furth, Germany during his Army service.

The George W. Roses and the C. W. Carlsons of Stonegate combined families again for Christmas dinner at the Rose home, 1300 Mayfair.

Walter Strobel, 1319 Mayfair, and two of his children, Ray and John, spent two days in Kankakee last week attending the Kankakee basketball tournament.

Miss Barbara Bronnan arrived from Cleveland Tuesday to spend several days as the houseguest of Miss Catherine

County School Trustees

Merger for School Districts Approved

The Cook county board of school trustees fixed its stamp of approval Tuesday to a proposal calling for the merger of Wilson school district 24 and Arlington Heights school district 25.

At a public hearing in the office of Noble J. Puffer, county superintendent of schools, the board announced its unanimous approval of an annexation petition filed by the one-school Wilson district.

There was no serious opposition to the merger, though three residents appeared at the hearing to ask questions. Each seemed satisfied with the answers he received.

THE AMALGAMATION of the two districts legally takes effect ten days after approval, or Saturday, Jan. 14, according to Ralph E. Clabaugh, superintendent of district 25.

Residents of the Wilson district will vote in district 25's school board election in April and in any referendums which may be called. For administrative purposes, the districts will merge at the beginning of the new fiscal year on July 1.

The annexation was requested by district 24 in order to obtain vastly improved facilities for its 500 students, two-thirds of whom live in Arlington Heights.

STUDENTS living in district 24 territory, which extends as far north as Hintz rd., will now be able to take advantage of the larger nine-school system's kindergarten facilities, cafeterias, 24-hour custodial service, library facilities, and special programs in fields of foreign language, industrial arts and home economics.

"We believe the annexation will insure the same quality of junior high and elementary education for all children in the community," noted Robert Parsons, superintendent of district 24.

"We are extremely happy with the cooperation we've received from district 25 and its residents, and are also very grateful for the active support given us by our own residents."

More than 88 per cent of Wilson district residents last year indicated approval of annexation to the better equipped district 25. District 24 takes in the Hasbrook and Virginia Terrace subdivisions in north Arlington Heights.

Response To Caucus Is Good

Donald Whiting, chairman of the candidate recommendation committee of the Arlington Heights Caucus, told the Herald this week the committee began interviewing potential candidates for village office Wednesday night.

Whiting said there has been "good response" to the 75 questionnaires mailed to residents before Christmas. He noted that the committee is still eager to receive names of persons qualified to hold village offices.

AT STAKE in April's election are the seats of village president Edward G. Carlisle, trustees Robert Bukows k i, Melvin Kurtz and Wendell Prunty, and village clerk Mildred Pearson.

The candidate recommendation committee intends to conduct interviews into February, and hopes residents will submit names of potential candidates in time for interviews to be arranged, Whiting said.

The 21-member committee will recommend a number of candidates for village posts at a public meeting to be held in February. As of Wednesday, the Herald had received no announcements of slates forming in opposition to the Caucus. (A

Appoint Agent

Arlington Heights trustees Tuesday concurred with village manager L. A. Hanson's recommendation to appoint Thomas DeRiemer, village finance officer, as authorized agent to act in matters pertaining to the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund Act.

Q. What kind of letter can a mother write to an out-of-town girl whom her son wishes to invite to their home for a week-end visit?

A. "Dear Betty: It will give us all great pleasure if you will visit our home on any week-end that you and Tom decide on. We shall be looking forward to seeing you soon. Very sincerely yours, Mary Thomas."

AGGRANDIZEMENT; augmentation; increase; exaltation. "The bachelor enrolled in a dancing school for the aggrandizement of his personality." (A-14

Board OKs Annexation Of Acreage

Arlington Heights trustees Tuesday unanimously adopted an ordinance annexing to the village 30 acres of land lying south of Central rd. between State rd. and High and Highland ave.

Upon reading the annexation ordinance, village attorney Stephen Jurco told trustees the annexation will "put the village in a better position to do business" with developers of the Arlington Heights Gardens subdivision located south of the newly acquired land.

"This annexation gives the village a dedicated right-of-way to lay water and sewer lines to areas to the south," Jurco said.

Village officials and developers of the Gardens project are negotiating the possibility of bringing village water lines to the development. The village denied the subdivision use of village water facilities last September. (A

Moehlings Call Editor Paddock

Stuart Paddock, editor of Paddock Publications who is recuperating from surgery in Charleston, South Carolina, writes he was surprised during the holidays to receive a phone call from Lt. Wayne Moehling of the U.S. air force.

Mr. and Mrs. Paddock regretted they could not accept an invitation to dinner with the Moehlings, who were entertaining their family from Arlington Heights. The lieutenant learned of the presence of the editor in Charleston at a local business firm when both chanced to meet and exchange holiday greetings. (A

Appointment Is Confirmed

Arlington Heights trustees Tuesday confirmed the appointment of Richard Burmann, 25, of McHenry, as a probationary police officer effective Monday, Jan. 2.

A former serviceman and employee of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, Burmann said he and his family plan to move to Arlington Heights as soon as possible. (A

Dryden Street Bids Opened

Five bids for the widening and improving of Dryden st. between Kensington rd. and Northwest hwy. were opened and referred to the village manager for study Tuesday by Arlington Heights trustees.

Manager L. A. Hanson was invested with the authority to act on the lowest and best bid. The bids ranged from $29,083.55 to $29,743.95. (AF

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Stewart, 1154 N. Hickory, announce the birth of, a son, William Arthur, born December 29 in Louis Weiss hospital, Chicago, weighing 7 pounds 10 ounces. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Raffen of Niles and Mr. and Mrs. William R. Stewart of Des Plaines.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Summers, 308 E. Oakton, hosted holiday punch parties Wednesday and Friday of last week. The 30 guests at each gathering included neighbors and friends from Chicago and the suburbs.

Mr. and Mrs. George Demoody of Arlington, Va. were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Roby, 1149 N. Beverly lane, during the Christmas holiday and returned home early last week.

The Robert Bradshaws, 1118 N. Dryden, ended their first Christmas visit back home December 30. They enjoyed several days visiting grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Burns and Mr. and Mrs. John Bradshaw, and other relatives in St. Albans, N. Y.

THE JOHN MUNDELL family of 1123 N. Beverly lane spent Christmas weekend in Arcadia, Ind. with grandmothers, Mrs. Luella Hiller and Mrs. Lulu Mundell, attending a family reunion.

The Stew Sages, 700 E. Oakton, included the Fred Mensches, Bruce Haldemans, Earl Nichols, Mel Hartings, and the Dohertys and Tom Owens of Chicago. The group saw the New Year in at the VFW hall later in the evening.

The George Wotrubas, Jack Summers and the Bob McLeans gathered in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Dahl, 1111 N. Belmont, last Saturday evening for a New Year's eve potluck supper.

Guests at the New Year's eve party given by Mr. and Mrs. Ken Jennings, 1137 N. Beverly lane, included the Ed Korens, John Mundells, Don Schreiners, George Robys, Bill Millers, Bob Lantzes, John Parkins, neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Paul George of S. Evergreen, former Greens residents, and Mr. and Mrs. Russ Bedford of Hawthorne ave.

A 2-week holiday vacation at home ended Tuesday for Michael Zelsmann, 710 E. Clarendon. He boarded a noon plane for Austin, Texas, and back to school at St. Edward's university, where he is a first year student.

Also ending his Christmas holiday at home was Harold Nelson Jr., 705 E. Olive. Before returning to classes at Marquette university, Milwaukee, celebrated his 19th birthday at a family party New Year's day.

MR. AND MRS. William Kelly, 1142 N. Hickory, observed their 22nd wedding anniversary December 30. Joining them for dinner and an evening performance of "Flower Drum Song" at the Shubert theatre were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Henner, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Hurley, Mrs. Kelly's brother, Nicholas DeMetros, and his fiancee, Miss Ethel Anderson, all of Chicago.

The Gene Ryan family, 620 E. Oakton, ended a week's visit to Ohio, their former home, Monday. They visited grandmother, Mrs. Catherine Ryan, and other relatives in Cincinnati.

House guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walt Brown, 1146 N. Dryden, are grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Brown of Roslyn Heights, N. Y. The senior Browns visited a daughter in Indiana for the first half of the Christmas holiday and plan to spend a few days with their son and his family before returning east. (A NORTH MT. PROSPECT November 21, second grade Brownie troop 293 held investiture ceremonies at Fairview school for the following girls: Stephanie Armenakis, Jan Brickwood, Robin Brundege, Theresa Burroughs, Patricia Clancy, Mary Beth Costello, Debbie Dahlquist, Barbara Donahue, Peggy Donahue, Sharon Elmore, Laura Fisher, Lynda Fisher, Carol Holm, Karen Koeder, Barbara Minner, Mary Phillips, Debbie Polcer, Cindy Schalla, Candace Simning and Beverly Walker.

The following girls were invested as Brownies December 12. Karen Ericsson, Peggy Metge, Linda Mehring, Joan Strickfaden and Patty Webb, December 19, Candace Huecker and Bonnie Jean Springs were invested. All are members of troop 293.

They spent the month of December making Christmas gifts and December 20 had a Christmas party at June Brickwood's home. After the party, their leader, Mrs. Brickwood and committee mothers took the troop to the library, where each Brownie hung an ornament she had made, on the Christmas tree.

TROP 555 had a caroling party December 22 in the home of their leader, Mrs. W. MacKenzie. They were busy during December making gifts for their parents. Assistant leader is Mrs. W. McCarter.

December 10, Linda Thompson, Margaret Martin and Linda Tyre from Brownie troop 105, accompanied by their leader, Mrs. D. Tyre, and Mrs. C. O'Brien, visited the Clearbrook School for Retarded Children in Rolling Meadows. They presented the school with picture flash cards which their troop had made as their Christmas service project.

EIGHTEEN Brownies from troop 105 were entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Shoemaker December 21. The troop presented its leaders with Christmas gifts and had a gift exchange. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Shoemaker. After singing carols, the troop went to the library to hang their ornaments on the tree. The brownies were accompanied Tyne and Mrs. R. Lohse.

Troop 566, fifth grade intermediates from Busse school, went to the Bethesda Home for the Aged December 16. Led by the chaplain, Rev. S. T. Sorenson, the scouts and their leaders caroled for the residents. The folks who reside at the home were most appreciative, and it was a rewarding experience for the scouts.

A surprise farewell party was held for Julie Farris at the home of Mrs. J. Engibous December 28. Julie has been a member of troop 566 for a year and will be returning with her family to their hometown of Nashville.

South Mt. Prospect

Neighborhood scouts have spent a busy month making Christmas gifts, enjoying parties and the exchange of gifts, and best of all, doing service to others in keeping with the spirit of the season.

Troop 142, under the leadership of Mrs. Byers, presented the play "The Littlest Angel" at the Magnus Farm convalescent home in Arlington Heights and also sang carols to the residents. The same play was presented before the mothers of the troop before Christmas when the scouts entertained at Westbrook school. Refreshments, including cookies made by the girls, were served.

JUNIOR HIGH troop 369 and its leaders, Mrs. Jewell and Mrs. Appleton, shared their Christmas with a needy Mexican family by taking a basket of homemade cookies and candy, new and used toys and clothing. The scouts worked to earn money and with it bought the food for the holiday dinner. The troop is grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Willis Jensen of Arlington Heights who work with the Opportunity Council and were of assistance with the project.

A Christmas tea for troop mothers was held by troop 557 and leader Mrs. Duffy during the holidays. The scouts created the centerpiece for the tea table, made the refreshments and presented the guests of honor with gifts.

Intermediate scouts in troop 401 prepared all the refreshments for the mothers tea held before Christmas at the home of troop committee chairman, Mrs. Marchetta. At their last meeting before the holidays, the girls enjoyed a gift exchange and then went caroling at each member's home, accompanied by their leader, Mrs. Clark.

SIXTH GRADE scouts from troops 464 and 511 with leaders Mrs. Courtney, Mrs. Broadbent and Mrs. French presented a program of Christmas carols at the Mt. Prospect State bank the Friday evening before Christmas. Both of the troops enjoyed Christmas parties and the making of family gifts during the month.

Handmade ornaments for the library Christmas tree were made by troops 774 and leader Mrs. Murphy, 743, and Mrs. Howe, 212, and leaders Mrs. White and Mrs. Serafine. The brownies all enjoyed troop Christmas parties.

Christmas centerpieces for each scout's family were made by troop. The scouts also baked cookies at various member's homes and then entertained brownies from troop 744 at a party. Gifts were exchanged, songs were sung and several new scout songs were learned.

A DINNER party with the theme "Christmas Around the World" was enjoyed by Junior High troop 499 at the home of the C. E. Hughsons. A scout tablecloth covered the table and a world globe served as a centerpiece. Streamers from different countries to the foreign dish prepared by each scout completed the table. Following the dinner, songs were sung, gifts were exchanged and a court of awards was conducted by Mrs. Montgomery and Mrs. Schimek who presented 63 badges. During the month, the troop presented an exhibit of trees at the public library. This work was done in connection with the tree badge.

Brownies in troop 703 made no-cook candy at one of their pre-Christmas meetings. Assisted by leader Mrs. Moldenhauer, the troop made kissing rings as a family gift.

GIFTS OF stuffed dogs and cats for their younger brothers and sisters were made by Brownies in troop 139. Leaders Mrs. Gallagher and Mrs. Pursell were assisted by Mrs. Morris and Mrs. McAndrews. The scouts also filled a stocking for the son of Mrs. Lederleitner who is recovering from an illness.

Mrs. Whitchurch, troop food chairman, assisted the brownies in the planning of refreshments for their holiday party which was highlighted by a gift exchange.

Attractive house decorations of branches sprayed and decorated with sequins were made by troop 477 for mothers and grandmothers. The scouts also held a Christmas party with their leader, Mrs. Caldini.

Santa Claus candy jars were a family gift made by scouts in troop 543. The girls and their leaders, Mrs. West and Mrs. Shaw, also held a progressive dinner and Christmas caroled. Mrs. Cleven, troop food chairman, assisted the girls with the planning of the dinner menu.

SOUTH ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

Junior High troop 374 and leaders, Mrs. W. W. Knorr and Mrs. E. J. Hennessy, entertained their families at an afternoon Christmas party December 14 in the auditorium at Pioneer park. The scouts made the invitations, Christmas cookies and holiday corsages which were presented to their mothers. A program was presented by the committee, scouts Anne Terhune and Carolyn Hennessy.

December 7, nine scouts of troop 374 modeled during a fashion show luncheon at Villa D'Este, Cary, as a final requirement in a good grooming clinic sponsored by Anderson's pre-teen and junior shop, Arlington Heights. This course was an optional activity for the troop in relation to working on the good grooming badge.

BESIDES ENJOYING all the festivities and goodies of the holiday season, Prospect Heights brownies and scouts have been making gifts for the sick and their mothers and dads.

Troop 23, third grade Brownie troop of Mrs. Maloneys', made its own cookies and put them in tins to be given to their dads at Christmas. Attractive cocktail aprons were made for their mothers to add glamour to their holiday season.

Troop 665, third grade Brownie troop of Mrs. Foran's, have been not only making cocktail napkins for Christmas gifts, but have completed two important service projects. In October they made tray favors for the residents of Rose Weinert's convalescent home and in November they made decorative turkeys for the pediatrics ward at the Northwest Community hospital.

Troop 97, fourth grade Brownie troop of Mrs. Harris', has devoted a great deal of time in making 110 Christmas place mats for patients of Northwest Community hospital, which they delivered in person December 22.

Troop 94, sixth grade Intermediate Girl Scout troop of Mrs. Van Petten's, visited the Rose Weinert convalescent home December 20 and entertained the patients with a Christmas puppet show, and gave plastic bags filled with fruit, cookies and candy.

Annexation Is Approved

County Judge Thaddeus V. Adesko approved Thursday the annexation of Bluett's subdivision in Wheeling township to the Mt. Prospect Rural Fire Protection district.

The subdivision extends from Rand road to Elm street and from Gregory to Thayer streets. Property owners requested the annexation.

The district's commissioners, Alfred Busse, Norman Runge, and Otto Runge, have annexed the site. (ACM

Soldier Is Charged in Accident

Five charges, ranging from driving while intoxicated to driving on a sidewalk, were leveled against a 23-year-old soldier last Friday by Arlington Heights police.

Steven Oman, who said he was stationed at Ft. Sheridan, Ill., admitted he was driving a friend's auto when he collided with a parked car owned by James W. Sutton Jr., 627 S. State rd.

AFTER STRIKING Sutton's car, Oman drove a half block down the sidewalk, back onto the street and around a corner. He admitted drinking earlier in a Palatine tavern.

He was scheduled to appear before Judge Robert C. Buckley Wednesday to answer charges of public intoxication, leaving the scene of an accident, damage to public property, driving while intoxicated and driving on a sidewalk.

Rainbow Girls Set Dance on Saturday

A "Winter Fantasy" dance, sponsored by the Wheeling Rainbow girls, has been set for Saturday, Jan. 7, at the Walt Whitman school gymnasium, 133 S. Wille, Wheeling. Dance time will be 8:30 to 11:30 p.m.

Tickets are being sold by members and will be available at the door. Admission is 75 cents.

Music for the evening will be provided by the Prospect high school dance band under the direction of Edward Volz of the school music department.

THE MELLOTONES, an all-girl singing group of Prospect high school, will provide entertainment.

Dress for the dance is listed as "casual."

The Wheeling assembly 81, Order of Rainbow for Girls, is directed by Mrs. Ruth Weiss, mother advisor. Information regarding the dance is available at LE 7-4404 or CL 3-6326. (ACM

'Outer Island' Tour Sightseer Paradise

Did you ever see a live volcano? A lava "tree?" A black sand beach? A hedge of orchids? A forest of 30-foot high tree ferns?

If not, it's time you did! And the way to see them, and much more, is to join the optional "outer Islands" tour of Paddock Publication's Hawaiian Holiday. The tour takes Northwest Orient Airlines' famous Royal Aloha flight to Honolulu from Seattle-Tacoma on March 12, returning March 26.

ALL OF these natural wonders and more are found on Hawaii, the "Big Island" of the Hawaiian chain. Its residents advertise that they have the biggest island (4,030 sq. miles), the biggest fish (giant Marlin off the Kona coast), the biggest cattle ranch (300,000 acres) and the biggest mountain (13,784-ft. Mauna Kea) in the Islands.

The live volcano is the famed Mauna Loa. It is regarded as a "tame" volcano because its periodic eruptions are more spectacular than damaging and attract thousands to witness the firery pyrotechnics.

GRAPHIC evidence of its last eruption can be found today in the picturesque Puna district South of the island capitol city of Hilo. Here, where the lava pushed through sugar cane fields toward the sea, the crust is still hot to the touch and cinder cones still smoke. Here, too, are the lava "trees" formed when the flow engulfed living trees.

Nearby is one of the most photogenic spots in the Islands, Warm Springs, also known as Orchid Springs, and by its Hawaiian name, Waiwelawela. Once this pool, overhung by graceful Hala trees, was forbidden to all but royalty. Today, it is visited by tour parties and has been the locale for movies. Its waters, warmed by springs, rise and fall with the distant tide. Sometimes thousands of orchids are floated on the waters to make swimming a more glamorous pastime. On the pool's edge is a paviling for picnicking.

A FEW miles distant is the unique black sand beach of Kalapana, where the action of the surf has pulverized lava into a gleaming jet-hued sand. There is a back drop of stately palms.

Back up the slope of Mauna Loa is Hawaii National Park, a region of steaming craters, lava tubes, cones, fern forests and a museum. Chief point of interest is the Halemaumau fire pit of the Kilauea Crater where Madam Pele, Hawaiian goddess of fire, frequently puts on a volcanic show. There is a fine hotel on the crater rim.

Hilo is the Orchid capitol of Hawaii. The lovely little Vanda Orchids are grown commercially by the millions for use in leis and corsages. The nurseries also grow rarer types and Orchid hedges border the green lawns of the residential district.

THE BIG fish are caught off the Kona coast on the opposite side of the island. Fishing headquarters is the tropical little village of Kailua site of many stirring incidents in Hawaiian history and once the playground of Hawaiian royalty. From resort hotels along the sea, sportsmen put out each day on charter fishing cruisers. Catches are frequent and the big ones run up to 1,000 pounds.

First class resort hotels in Hilo, Kailua, and at the volcano, provide headquarters for touring the Big Island of Hawaii.

Economy is price only, the trip will offer jet service round-trip and the finest accommodations and service available for $698 a person, based on double occupancy, with optional tours to the "outer islands" included for an additional $150. A-14

THE BEST SURF-RIDING in the world is in the shadow of Diamond Head. The lazy rollers provide the perfect speed to skim over the blue waters.

'Hawaiian Holiday' Wardrobe Tips Told

Wondering what clothes to pack for that vacation in Hawaii?

Travel advisors have two suggestions for northwest suburbanites and friends planning to take Paddock Publications' "Hawaiian Holiday." Pack lightly. "Go Hawaiian."

Living is informal in the Island, where tradewinds blow and where water and temperatures are in the 70's year-'round. Brilliantly colored flowers and bright blue skies and water form the backdrop for casual, comfortable but striking clothes.

AN AMPLE wardrobe should fit into one bag. You'll find you've taken enough for every occasion, with space left over for the Hawaii-inspired garb you'll want to buy. And if you should run short, you're not in a remote jungle. Honolulu is a cosmopolitan city, and its fine shops sell everything from a hairpin to precious jade.

You'll be outdoors most of the time, so concentrate on beachwear and lightweight things. Women will want a few cottons, or skirts and blouses, a simple cocktail dress or two, a stole or sweater, and comfortable "flats" for walking. If they expect to be entertained formally, a "special" dress should be included. Jewelry should be kept at a minimum. Gloves, hats and hosiery can be left at home.

MEN NEED beach togs, sport jacket, slacks, a business suit, a light-weight sweater. They'll quickly get into Aloha shirts. If formal entertaining is anticipated, a white dinner jacket and cummerbund should be included.

Children live near the water, so plan chiefly for beach things. Include simple dresses for the girls, and trousers and open shirts for the boys.

Northwest Airlines advises its tourists to "go native," sartorially. The Islands have talented designers who create delightful fashions that have become popular at resorts around the world. Color is all-important in this Pacific Paradise, so they use vivid hues and bold, splashy patterns. The rare and exotic flowers which grow so abundantly there inspire many prints.

ALOHA SHIRTS are particularly popular with tourists. They can be worn either tucked into the trousers or outside. Men vie with each other in getting dramatic designs in vivid reds, yellows, greens and oranges.

Women succumb quickly to the lure of the sarong, the muumuu and other Hawaiian garments. The shapeless muumuu, or Mother Hubbard, which comes down to the ankles, was introduced by the wives of the missionaries who arrived there in 1820. Shocked at the slightly-clad natives, they promptly covered them from head to toe in the voluminous muumuu. Later ruffles and trains were added to create the holoku. Women today find them ideal for lounging.

Clothes with a Chinese touch also are popular with tourists -- Mandarin-type gowns, tea-timers, "bankers coats." Indian saris also are fashioned into stunning cocktail dresses.

WOMEN VISITORS can buy ready-made garments or buy fabric by the yard. In addition to Hawaii hand-blocked prints there are rich brocades, silks and pongees from the Orient.

Japanese garments also are popular. Summer kimonos, or yukatas, made of imported cotton, make fine housecoats. The blue and white fabric also makes up into handsome sports shirts.

Accessory-shopping is fun in Hawaii, according to Northwest. Japanese getas -- shoes with a thong between the big toe -- are attractive and comfortable. So are dainty beaded velvet slippers from China. There is unusual costume jewelry made from Hawaiian shells or seed pods, and lauhala handbags and slippers woven from the bark of the pandanus tree. There are all sorts of fantastic ornaments for the hair.

IT'S EASY TO shop in Honolulu, says Northwest, because in addition to beautiful shops, there is a fashion show almost daily at one of the Waikiki hotels. And there's no red tape or tax involved in bringing back purchases to the Mainland.

ANY TIME IS HULA TIME in the Islands. And the energetic dances of the hula type were brought to the Islands from Samoa, Tahiti and other south sea centers. The dances today include all varieties, modern, ancient and comic.

Chance to Learn More About Art Scheduled

By LUCILE ERNST

It is amazing to me how many people are interested in art. Just since I have been writing this column a good percentage of the people I've met have expressed some interest in knowing more about art. Because they don't know a great deal about it, they are timid. Let me assure them, and anyone else who feels the same way, no one knows much about art, and that is what makes it so interesting. There are people who think they do, of course, and they combine the unique qualities of being dogmatic and completely vague. One is never quite sure why they are shaking their heads like that.

The truth of it is if you spend your life studying art, you would know it is like understanding people, infinitely stimulating, and completely impossible. The fun is in the trying. You cease to exist and start to live. You must simply stand back in a childish kind of awe at the wonder all around you. From a more practical viewpoint the place to start is where you live, the time to start is now.

TONIGHT Audrey Owen will demonstrate throwing, glazing and firing of Raku Ware at 8 p.m., Pioneer Park field house, Arlington Heights. You will get a glimpse of another way of life, another form of art.

Art groups in our community are eager for you to join them. This doesn't mean you have to be an artist or that you plan to devote even a small part of your time to art. It means that there is a diversity of ideas being presented and you may well be stimulated by any one of them.

ON JANUARY 19, Bill Wimmer will give a lecture on "Realism, The Painter and the World Around Us," and "Expressionism, The World the Painter Creates." It will be held in Pioneer Park too and will be illustrated with colored slides.

In all honesty, if I knew very little of art and wanted to understand what is happening in the world of art, I would attend. Desite what you hear of modern art, most young artists are expressionist. You will truly understand why our artists are painting the way they do. It will be a deeper understanding than one can obtain by merely looking at pictures.

TRUE education doesn't come from knowing when something happened or simply that it affected us in a certain way, it is knowing why. This is what we tell our children. Try and find out why. Yet it is not the children who forget to ask why something is so. It is the adults. The surest clue to a creative mind is its interest in why something is so.

The most irritating people on earth are those who don't seem to care. They simply exist in a vacuum and would have made splendid serfs. How can they believe they are a product of a self governing community, a government they created with or without their votes.

ART IS not something nice little old ladies approve of. The paradox of the bond between those nice little old ladies who believe nudes should be covered and dirty nailed artists who glory in God's greatest creation has always made me laugh but it shouldn't.

Art is an expression of what we are, as a group, for better and often for worse. It is our history in paint or plastic. poems or music, and has existed as history long after scholastic records are forgotten or discounted.

Not to have an interest in the arts is not to have an interest in what one is, has been, or will be. There is not reason to be timid in admitting it. One should be ashamed only if he doesn't care.

Small Business Course Offered In Night Class

Thomas Shirley, director of the adult education division of high school district 214, this week reminded area business owners and managers that a nine-week course entitled "Practical Problems of Small Business Management" will open January 25.

The course, sponsored by district 214 and the U. S. Small Business administration, will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. on Wednesdays in room 228 of Arlington high school. Registration fee is $25.

"The course is designed to give owners and managers of independent business firms within the northwest suburban area a better understanding of business management," Shirley said.

NINE LECTURE - discussions will include the topics of accounting, record keeping, finance planning, human relations and communications, policies and policy determination, Shirley pointed out.

Sponsors of the course urge early registrations, as capacity is limited. Registrations may be mailed to the Adult Education division, Arlington high school, 502 W. Euclid ave., Arlington Heights. Further information may be obtained by phoning CL 3-0205.

Agencies cooperating in the course are chambers of commerce in Palatine, Wheeling, Mt. Prospect and Arlington Heights, and business and professional men's associations in Prospect Heights, Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows. (B8

City Annexes 275 Acres to Airport

The city of Chicago has annexed about 275 acres of federal reservation lands at O'Hare International airport.

Annexation of the property containing the U. S. Air Force installation was approved by the city council at the request of the federal government.

The annexed lands lie on both sides of Mannheim road. One parcel is located at the southwest corner of Mannheim and the extended line of Devon avenue. It is improved with barracks.

CHICAGO'S law department is negotiating to acquire additional federal land at the airport along Mannheim road for a foreign airlines terminal, says Corporation Counsel John Melaniphy.

The foreign airlines are not being accommodated in the new terminal under construction at O'Hare because they couldn't put up guarantees for revenue bonds financing the project.

The property acquisition program is part of a project to expand the airport eastward, a step involving the relocation of Mannheim road at this point. Relocation of the road will be done by the county. (B8

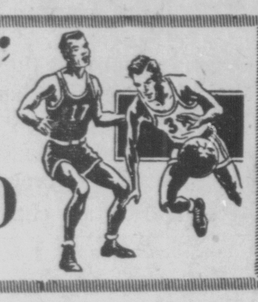
KICKIN' IT AROUND

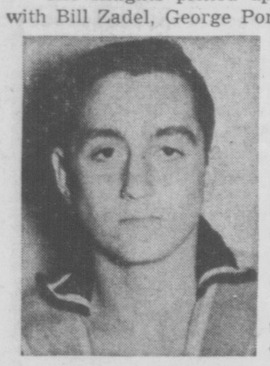


by BOB FRISK

IN KANKAKEE LAST WEEK the whole town was talking about those Prospect boys!

That highly-regarded high school quintet based at 801 W. Foundry rd. in Mt. Prospect stormed into Kankakee with a 10-0 record, rolled over three opponents in three successive evenings, and grabbed off the coveted top prize in the eleventh annual holiday basketball tourney.

The Knights picked up three of the five all-star berths with Bill Zadel, George Pomey, and Fred Lussow honored on the post-tourney aggregation. Dick Palmer was named to the second unit and Fred Empkie gained a third team slot.



BILL ZADEL

Zadel finished as the tournament's top scorer with 53 points and also landed the runnerup spot in shooting with 25 baskets in 42 attempts for a 59.5 percentage. Palmer was third in shooting with a 58.6 mark.

Even the most conservative of the veteran prep cage observers were prompted into singing the praises of Dick Kinneman's unbeaten unit.

Sammy Miranda, head varsity mentor at the host Kankakee school who was an All-Stater at Collinsville in 1947 and 1948, said flatly that Prospect's current outfit "could have beaten my last year's team (winner of 25 of 29) by 15 points."

Miranda went on to say that the Knights are certainly one of the best squads in the state. "I've only seen four of these tournaments," he added, "but I can't see how anybody, even those 1951 Hebron or 1952 Kankakee clubs, could be this good."

Ed Bonczyk, who guided St. Patrick of Kankakee to the championship game, compared Prospect to a capable Bloom team of 1956-57 and finally asserted that the Mt. Prospect standouts appeared to be stronger.

"Prospect is smarter," Bonczyk said. "It doesn't have a weakness, can shoot, rebound, and handle the ball better than any team I've seen."

In initiating his story on the championship game Herb Jannusch, a veteran sports writer with the Kankakee Daily Journal, wrote: "The gallant Knights of Prospect high school today jauntily wear the crown of the eleventh annual Kankakee holiday basketball tourney and most experts agree that never has the Kay classic had a finer champion."

Jannusch praised the "ponderous front line" and effective back-court operators. "Rarely does a team have boys the size of Pomey, Zadel, and Palmer with the maneuverability and shooting eyes this trio possesses. Rarely, too, does a team have a pair of sharpshooting guards like Fred Lussow and Fred Empkie. The Knights, who seem to have no weakness unless it's on their bench, seem to do everything well."

Kinneman was naturally pleased with his squad's performance in both the Geneva and Kankakee holiday affairs, and he stressed that the coaches and squad members appreciated the tremendous support from the fans.

"We got a lot of satisfaction from the way the boys handled the Kankakee stall. Miranda is noted for his control-style ball and they didn't take a shot in the first period.

"Our defense and free throw shooting still need improvement. Against Maine East at Geneva we only hit five of 15 in the first half."

One noticeable item in Prospect's play this season has been the ability of a boy to take up the slack when one of his teammates is experiencing an off night. This was evident in the case of Zadel, the 6-4 senior who was blanked in one game and only netted seven in two affairs at Geneva. Pomey was the top gunner for the Knights at Geneva with 60 points in two nights.

Last week Zadel collected 53 in three games and won the tourney scoring crown.

While he had special praise for the entire starting alignment, Kinneman also tossed in some post-tourney plaudits for the play of key reserves Bob Glaser and Keith Grams. Both boys have played invaluable roles in any success the Knights have experienced thus far this season.

THIS 'N THAT:

The University of Kentucky, dormant in football the past few years, is working hard trying to recruit top stars in Illinois this year. . . . Among those high on the Wildcats' list is Dan Jacobazzi, giant 235-pound All-State tackle from Downers Grove. . . . Jacobazzi made a recent visit to Kentucky but hasn't made any definite decision. . . . The word around the state is that before the prep cage season is over Bryan Williams, Danville Schlarman's ambidextrous 6-5 guard, will become Illinois' most sought college prospect. . . . Williams tossed in 56 points last week against Salem in the Centralia holiday tournament. . . . It may be a tossup between Williams and Geneva's 6-11 Haskell Tison. . . . Another impressive offensive performance last week was turned in by Litchfield's 6-4, 205-pound Ronnie Scharf who poured through 51 in a victory over Lincoln of East St. Louis. . . . Scharf hit 20 of 25 field goal attempts, almost all from the outside.

Nine strikes in one game can produce a score in the 270's and they also can bring a bowler less than 200 pins if the strikes are interspersed with three splits or open frames. That's what happened to a Cleveland bowler recently who collected nine strikes and still finished with only a 192.

Arlington's Jim Clabaugh was named to the all-tourney squad by The Life newspaper in Skokie for his play in the recent Niles pre-holiday invitational hardwood affair. . . . Joining Clabaugh on the first team were Mike Markley and Jim Rodgers of East Leyden, Lester Long and Bill Liskey of North Chicago, and Bob Koseor of Niles. . . . Skip Witt gained an honorable mention rating for the Cards. . . . Waukegan's powerful wrestlers, a pre-season favorite for the state mat crown, lived up to their press clippings last week with an impressive win in their seventh annual holiday invitational. . . . The Bulldogs had three individual champions and six runners-up. . . . LaGrange's varsity cagers edged the school's alumni 79-78 in a recent outing. . . . Heading the Lions' alums was former All-Stater Ted Caiazza who tossed in 24 markers. . . . Caiazza still holds the single season scoring record for the West Suburban with 394 points in 14 games. . . . Bob Taggart, a soph at Beloit from Arlington Heights, gained his varsity letter in cross country last fall and was also named the "Most Improved Runner."

As a closing thought, a scribe with the Boston Daily Record suggests that one baseball record sure to be broken in 1961 is the longest nine-inning game of three weary hours and 52 minutes. "With the new Washington and Los Angeles teams staffed by pitchers who rarely get anyone out," he reflects, "can the four-hour game be far behind the four-minute mile?"

York Here In League Encounter

Arlington will make its first appearance at home in almost a month Friday evening when it hosts a visiting York quintet.

Coach Frank Bohac's varsity Cardinals, engaged in four road tests since December 10 and victorious in only one, will be seeking their second West Suburban decision of the 1960-61 campaign.

Both aggregations will carry 1-3 conference slates into Friday's fray with Arlington owning a win over Riverside in its last loop outing and York boasting a rout of Glenbard West.

The varsity battle will be preceded by a frosh-soph tilt at 7 p.m. with the Cards 1-3 and the visitors 3-1 in the West Suburban standings.

WHILE ARLINGTON was dropping three straight games in the Niles pre-holiday invitational tourney, York was hooked up at DeKalb and Dick Haselton's Dukes slapped Dixon 72-51 and fell to Sycamore 70-67.

Charley Adams, a 6-2 senior who is the squad's second leading scorer in WSC play with 65 markers in four games, tossed in 21 against Dixon and 25 against Sycamore.

Adams dumped in 171 points in 14 league tilts as a junior with 36 in the Dukes' two victories over Arlington.

YORK'S TOP scorer in league play is 6-4 Bob Rudolph. Rudolph is one point behind Dick Ruggles in the loop point chase and boasts 75 in four tilts for an 18.8 per game average. He has a high of 31 against Glenbard West.

Haselton has one other boy who is averaging over 12 points per game in junior guard Wayne Strauch. Strauch has netted 50 in four WSC battles for a 12.5 ppg.

Lee MacCallum, a 5-8 guard who's been bothered with an ankle injury, rebounded with 20 in two DeKalb tourney games. Lee has 33 in league play and 6-1 Don Anderman boasts 31.

YORK IS 6-4 thus far in the hardwood campaign after compiling a 17-5 mark last season. The Dukes stood 11-3 in league play for a second place finish.

Arlington will be out to end a three game losing streak incurred during an uneventful journey to the Niles tournament. The Cards are one game below .500 with a 5-6 standard.

At this stage of the 1959-60 conference campaign Arlington also stood 1-3 with the locals finishing with a 6-8 mark and going on to sweep to four straight victories in tourney competition.

Bohac will work with the same alignment that's been seeing extensive action this season although one forward

Prospect Overwhelms Three Outfits for Kankakee Crown

Prospect high school's flashy Knights buried three opponents, stretching their unbeaten skein to 13 games, and rolled to the championship last week in the eleventh annual Kankakee basketball tournament.

Coach Dick Kinneman's Interim league outfit handled Mattoon by 18 points, host Kankakee by 30, and St. Patrick's of Kankakee by 25 in claiming the tourney title.

The 72-47 championship victory over St. Pat's represented the biggest point spread ever recorded in a title affair. Both Morton of Cicero and Kankakee boasted 23-point triumphs in winning earlier crowns.

Shelbyville's Rams of the Mid State conference gained third place with a 68-54 victory over Kankakee, and Ottawa took the consolation championship with a 57-56 conquest of East Aurora.

FIRING AT a .524 clip in the title encounter, Prospect moved out to a 20-11 first period lead and held a 41-17 advantage at halftime.

With 5:30 remaining in the game Kinneman pulled his starters with Prospect on top 67-32. In a closing flurry St. Pat's outscored the Knights 15-5 in those final minutes.

Each starter scored for Prospect in the opening period with George Pomey and Fred Lussow both rimming six points on three fielders.

DICK PALMER led the second period surge with four baskets and Bill Zadel collected nine in the third period explosion. Reserve Bob Glaser tossed in five in the final eight minutes.

Zadel, the tourney's top scorer with 53 markers in three encounters, finished with 17 to top both teams. Lussow collected 15, Pomey 13, and Palmer and Empkie 10 each as each starter cracked double figures.

PROSPECT opened its Kankakee tourney bid Tuesday evening, Dec. 27, with a 75-57 triumph over Mattoon of the Big 12.

The Knights recovered from a first period deadlock to outscore the Green Wave 24-13 in the second stanza and gain a 38-27 lead at halftime.

With Zadel collecting 20 points on nine baskets and a pair of free throws Prospect had little trouble handing Mattoon its third loss in eight outings.

THE KNIGHTS hit .439 from the field and .773 from the free throw line in posting their eleventh straight victory.

Pomey's eight points sparked the second period assault that netted 24 for the locals.

Forward Jim Proffitt, a 6-2, 180 pounder who was an All-State halfback in football, tossed in 16 markers for Mattoon. Proffitt is the second leading scorer in the Big 12 conference.

THE KNIGHTS solved the Kankakee stall and humiliated the host Kays 51-21 Wednesday evening in a semi-final battle.

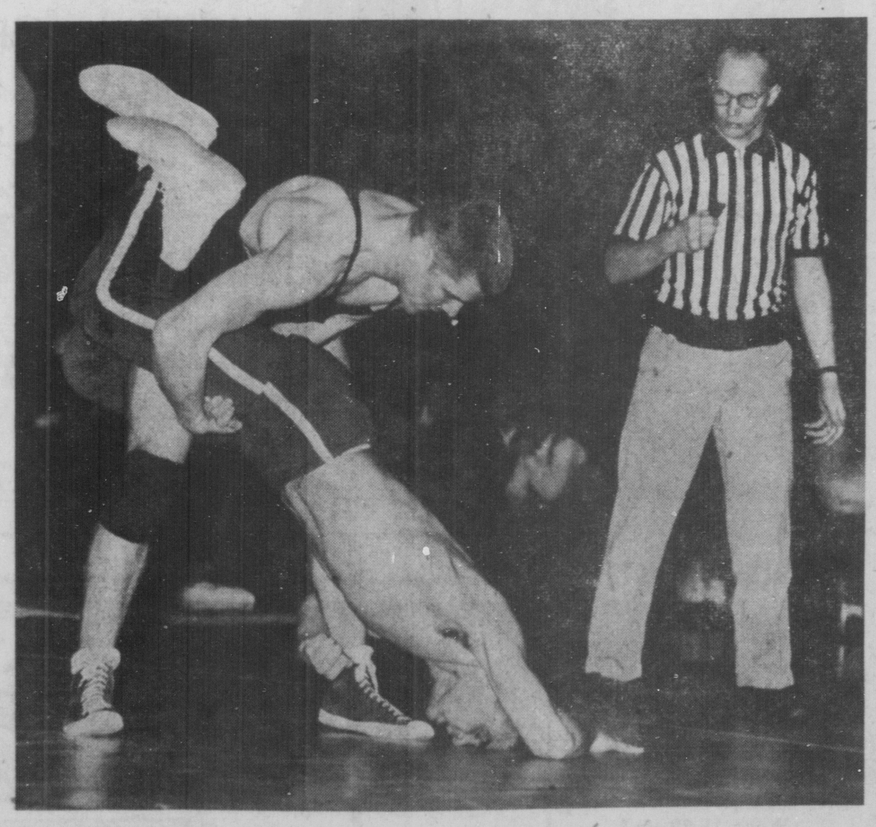
Coach Sammy Miranda's South Suburban entry didn't try a shot in the first period but the stalling tactics didn't work against the aroused Knights.

With Palmer, Pomey, and Zadel leading the first half offensive, Prospect moved out to a 23-11 margin at the intermission. The Knights outscored the hosts 28-10 in the final half for their effortless victory.

Zadel and Pomey both collected 16 for Prospect with Palmer contributing 11, Soph Johnny VanMill tossed in five to lead Kankakee's futile attack.

ZADEL'S 53 points topped Prospect for the three tournament encounters with Pomey netting 41. Palmer chipped in with 40, Lussow with 28 and Empkie with 21 to round out the starters' efforts.

Zadel, Pomey, and Lussow were named to the All-Star team with Palmer on the second unit and Empkie on the third. In addition to the three Prospect representatives, Mattoon's Proffitt and St. Pat's Joe Romary, a 6-0 senior, also made the honor team.



HOLDING THE advantage on Arlington's Hal Selleck in this championship bout at 165 pounds is Crystal Lake's Bob Petrulis. Petrulis decisioned the Cardinals' sophomore 5-2 last Friday evening in the finals of the Palatine invitational wrestling tournament. The Crystal Lake senior had won last year's title at 154 pounds. Palatine took the team title Friday with Arlington fourth.

Prospect, Warriors To Battle

Prospect's unbeaten Knights, one of the hottest teams in the state with the Geneva and Kankakee tourney crowns now on their record, will go on display for the home folks again Friday evening when they host Willowbrook in an Interim league battle.

Back home after two impressive experiences in holiday tournaments, Coach Dick Kinneman's Knights will be shooting for their 14th straight victory and fourth straight in Interim action when they tangle with Jim Toman's visiting Warriors.

The varsity encounter will be preceded by a junior-varsity clash at 7 p.m. in the fieldhouse with Ted Wissen's crew seeking its second win in league play.

Rolling to five more victories in holiday tourney action, the varsity Knights have definitely stamped themselves as one of the state's finest, a team with the class and experience needed in champions.

At Prospect

Prospect			Willowbrook
6-4	Pomey	F	Offill	5-9
6-4	Zadel	F	Bornemann	6-2
6-5	Palmer	C	Sula	6-2
5-9	Lussow	G	Langille	5-9
6-0	Empkie	G	Krafft	5-9

TIME: 7 p.m., Friday
PLACE: Prospect high fieldhouse
COACHES: Prospect, Dick Kinneman; Willowbrook, Jim Toman

BUT BEFORE the talent-laden Knights can look ahead to any more tournaments, they have to play ten regularly scheduled contests, taking the games one at a time.

Prospect learned last year in a tight battle with Fenton that even the lowly can rise up and scare a formidable quintet. It took a basket by Bill Zadel with three seconds remaining to give the Knights a 60-58 win over a Fenton outfit that wasn't given any chance on the dope-sheet.

EVERY TEAM is shooting for Prospect's state-ranked squad and that includes Willowbrook, the Villa Park entry that's been having its troubles in basketball with only two decisions in 31 outings over the past two seasons.

Toman's Warriors boast victories over Glenbrook and Antioch this year with the squad turning in its top performance of the season in handling the Sequoits 65-48 last week in the Fenton tournament.

Willowbrook copped one of three tilts at the Fenton tourney, falling to Fenton and Round Lake.

BILL OFFILL topped the Warriors in the tourney with 39 points and had the high game with 16 in a 74-60 loss to Round Lake.

Fred Langille chipped in with 14 against Round Lake after a 12-point effort against Antioch and soph Bill Bornemann hit 15 in the latter game.

Sophomore Bill Brookhart came off the bench against Round Lake to dump in 14 points and turn in a creditable performance, and he could fit into the starting alignment Friday.

PROSPECT'S Kinneman has no reason to change a lineup that's won 13 straight and will work with Dick Palmer, George Pomey, Zadel, Fred Lussow, and Fred Empkie.

Each boy in the first five turned in clutch performances in the two holiday tournaments with Pomey topping the scoring at Geneva and Zadel at Kankakee.

Pomey has been in the double figures in each of Prospect's 13 decisions this winter and Palmer has reached the mark in the last seven tilts. A 6-5 senior who was used as the top reserve last season, Palmer has played a key role in the Knights' success.

Prospect Matmen In Quad Battle At Maine East

Representatives from the Interim league, West Suburban conference, North Suburban, and Tri-County will hook up in a quadrangular wrestling meet Saturday at Maine township East.

Joining the host Blue Demons will be Prospect high's Knights, Palatine, and Fenton. The bouts will get underway at 2 p.m. with the finals at 7 o'clock Saturday evening.

Point scoring will be the same as in tournaments with 10 points for first, seven for second, four for third, and two for fourth.

PAIRINGS have been set up so that Fenton will battle Maine East and Prospect will meet Palatine at 95, 120, 138, and 165. Fenton will test Palatine and Prospect will meet Maine at 103, 127, 145, and 180.

In other first round bouts Fenton will meet Prospect and Maine East will battle the Pirates at 112, 133, 154, and heavyweight.

Palatine, recent victor in its own invitational tourney, is favored although both Prospect and Maine boast creditable units.

MAC SAYS

by G. A. McELROY

THERE WILL BE NO action in the North Suburban conference cage race this week as teams take on non-conference opponents. Locally Palatine is host to Fenton whom it dumped handily in the semi-finals of the Fenton holiday tournament. Kolze's Pirates have now won four in a row and could make it at least six straight with a win over Fenton Friday and another at Woodstock the following Friday. Woodstock has lost six straight league games.

The winning of two championship trophies the same night was a new experience for Palatine. While the cagers were wrapping up the Holiday cage tourney at Fenton with a record breaking 94-46 victory over Glenbrook, the Pirate wrestlers were taking their own holiday invitational meet with an 82 point total and five individual championships.

It is great to finally have a cage team which can win and one of our most satisfying moments in the year 1960 was when the members of the lettermen's club of Palatine High jumped out of the stands and carried Coach Dick Kolze off the floor following the decisive Pirate win over Barrington. It has been a long hard pull for the former Palatine High star to bring Palatine basketball back to a respectable standing after taking on the coaching job with material at one of the low points in the history of the school. The future looks hopeful and Palatine may have a league championship contender in another year or two.

PALATINE'S SIXTH annual holiday wrestling tournament did not have as good fan attendance as the previous year but with the local cage team playing at Fenton and Arlington's team below par, the turnout was considered satisfactory. Officiating by Fox and Lazier was outstanding, in our opinion. Sportsmanship and cooperation of coaches and competitors hit a new high standard. Athletic director Earl Stutzman keeps in practice for promoting and organizing state district or sectional wrestling tournaments by efficient management of the holiday event. This year Palatine hosts the state sectional with winners and runners-up from the Prospect and DeKalb districts providing the competition for state tournament berths.

The holiday wrestling tourney was a big event for the McCreery family. Brad, a senior, won the 127 pound championship and remained undefeated for the season in 12 matches. George, a sophomore, won the 145 pound championship in a decisive manner. Last year George won the 138 pound title as a freshman. Jim, a former 127 pound champ, was on hand to cheer for his brothers. Jim Nordin, who won at 103 pounds, and Karl Knowles, a senior, who took the 138 pound crown, are honor roll students and had straight "A" averages the past six weeks grading period. Both Knowles and Nordin have lost only once this year as has Norman Schuettner who took the 154 pound title. Schuettner is one of Palatine's finest competitors and a very coachable athlete. Andy Oltyan who was beaten in the finals at 120 by Mellinger of DeKalb suffered his second defeat of the year. In the first round he beat Dorsey of North Chicago, holiday champ of 1959. Oltyan may get another chance at the DeKalb star if he survives the state district tourney.

IN HOLIDAY CAGE tournaments a number of teams established themselves as powers in their respective areas. Prospect without doubt deserves higher rating than 7th or 8th in the state. The Knights entered two tournaments to get some rugged competition and failed to find it as they breezed through at both Geneva and Kankakee. It means Prospect is definitely state tournament caliber. North Chicago lost to East Leyden in a very close final at the Niles tourney but found no real opposition winning the eight team Grayslake tourney. The Warhawks will find little competition in their Tri-County loop this year.

Crystal Lake still looms as the first undefeated North Suburban cage team in the last seven years in spite of a defeat at the hands of Peoria Manual at the St. Edward tourney. Waukegan's showing in the Pontiac tourney, where they took third, indicates they are going to continue as a chief contender in the Suburban League along with Proviso East, winner of the DeKalb tourney.

Carver's winning performance over Marshall, defending state champ, in the Chicago holiday tourney may mean a new city champ by state tourney time. They say that Carver has the slickest ball handling team in Chicago cage history. New state ratings should be a good deal more accurate with tournament play giving better criteria for judging teams.

THE TRI-COUNTY Conference membership troubles are about solved. Word comes to us that the new Crystal Lake high school to be opened in the fall at Cary has joined the Tri-County Conference. Mundelein, the second Libertyville school, had previously arranged for affiliation with this group along with the new Ridgewood high school at Norridge. This makes a 7-team league along with the original members: North Chicago, Fenton, Elmwood Park, and Lake Park. Palatine and Glenbrook were originally in the Tri-County when it formed four years ago but later joined the North Suburban and the Interim Conferences, respectively.

THE STATE HIGH SCHOOL Association has warned member schools that in the state series of tournaments any players grabbing basket rims and causing damage to baskets and bankboards will have to pay the damages. Last year pre-game warmups at tournaments where players had jumping drills resulted in glass bankboards being shattered at two tournament sites when boys grabbed basket rims. This same sort of thing happened at the Fenton holiday tourney. Tagging the rim to show how high you can jump is one thing and grabbing the rim and exerting weight on it is another. We have watched pre-game warmups at Palatine home games with some concern for fear the glass bankboards would be shattered. It is no small task to replace a basket and board.

Knights' Soph Unit Rules Cage Tourney

Prospect high's frosh-soph cagers swept past three opponents last week to annex the title in the St. Charles soph basketball tournament.

Coach Bob Hoese's Knights toppled Dundee, Aurora West, and Willowbrook in claiming the tourney crown.

Libertyville's Kittens took the consolation championship with a 59-36 triumph over Dundee.

Trailing by one point after one period, Prospect turned on the power and raced past Dundee in its tourney opener, 55-48.

THE KNIGHTS rolled up 38 points in the middle two stanzas with Ken Groh chipping in with 15 in those 14 minutes. Groh finished with 22 for his evening's work to top both teams.

Prospect held a 31-24 halftime lead and led 49-34 going into the final quarter, but Dundee rallied and outscored the locals by eight markers in the fourth period.

IN ADDITION to Groh's 22, Jim Hogarty collected 14 and Bob Gerrard netted 10 for the young Knights. Kozuch had 16 for Dundee.

Prospect jumped off to a 16-8 first quarter lead and never trailed as it routed Aurora West 59-41 in the tourney semi-finals.

Hoese's outfit moved out to a 28-19 halftime lead and exploded in the final seven minutes of play, outscoring Aurora 21-11 in the fourth segment.

GROH CONTRIBUTED another 22-point performance to cop game scoring honors. Ken hit four baskets and 14 free throws, 10 of the charity tosses coming in that fourth period.

Hogarty collected 17 for Prospect and both Gerrard and Dennis Mitchell pumped in seven.

Prospect	16	12	10	21—59
Aurora West	8	11	11	11—41

AFTER A CLOSE first period Willowbrook proved to be no match for the young Knights in the title battle with Prospect recovering from 9-all deadlock to gain a 25-17 advantage at halftime.

Prospect held a 38-22 lead after three periods and outscored Willowbrook by one in the final quarter.

Groh again topped the Knights in scoring, collecting 14 markers for a three game total of 58. Mitchell was in the double figures for the first time in the tourney with 10 tallies and Hogarty collected nine.

Fornear topped Willowbrook with 10 pints and Burmester potted six.

Arlington's Gym Outfit Wins Third

Arlington high's varsity gymnasts, held to a tie in their last outing before the holiday break, rebounded with an effortless 81-51 victory Tuesday afternoon over a visiting Waukegan squad.

Performing before the home fans for the first time this season, Coach Gay Hughes' defending state champions outscored Waukegan in four of the six events as they wrapped up their third victory of the 1960-61 campaign.

Junior Jerry Russell captured two events and finished second in a third to top the Arlington competitors. Russell headed the fields on both rings and the parallel bar and landed in the runnerup slot on the horizontal bar.

SENIORS DICK Wetzel and Bill Sayre gave Arlington its two other firsts. Both state champs in their specialties, Wetzel easily ruled the side horse and Sayre topped tumbling.

Sayre also finished second on the Trampoline for 12 team points.

Larry Brousseau gained a second on the side horse, fifth on the high bar, and second on the parallel bar for 12 markers.

JIM LIPPERT gave the Cardinals a third on the Tramp and Len Witter took second on rings. Dave Wollerman collected a third on the parallel bar.

Other finishers for Arlington were Ken Lyons with a fifth on the Trampoline, Jerry Hawkins with a fourth on the side horse, Witter with a fourth on the high bar, and Bill Berg with a fifth on rings.

Arlington scored a sweep on the parallel bar and outscored Waukegan in that event and on the side horse, rings, and in tumbling.

The Cards' varsity and frosh-soph gymnasts will travel to Hinsdale Friday for an evening meet at 7:30.

Deadline January 5 For Entries in Women's Tourney

The women have not been forgotten by the Paddock Publications sports department, with deadline for entries in the Paddock women's tournament slated for this Saturday, Jan. 5.

First place teams of all local women's leagues as of New Year's eve are eligible for this year's Paddock tournament Jan. 21 and 22 at Hi Way Recreation with leading squads of more than 50 women's loops expected to enter.

FIRST PLACE money in the women's meet is likely to be over $110 with second team money amounting to around $75. In addition, five individual trophies will be given the winners as well as the large traveling trophy.

Four squads Sunday, Jan. 22, have been scheduled a 12:30, 3:10, 5:50 and 8:30 with time reservations going fast. Two squads are slated for Saturday, Jan. 21, at 1:0 and 3:40. Team captains no yet scheduling competitio for the tourney are urged t call tourney expediter Ma lan Phillips at CLearbrook 1520 immediately to lea what times are still open.

Deadline for entries, i cluding $19 per five-woma team, are due by this Satu day night, Jan. 5. Bowlin tournament expense and tou ney prize money are all cov ered by the entry fee.

Pirates Breeze to Invitational Mat Title

Tumbling, Trampoline Classes Set

The second session of classes in tumbling and Trampoline, slated for both Recreation and Pioneer Parks in Arlington Heights, will begin Saturday, Jan. 14.

Twelve classes will be staged with ages 6-8 at 9 a.m.; ages 9-13 at 10 a.m.; and advanced at 11 a.m.

Classes are limited to 30 with an instruction fee of $2. Anyone interested should call Clearbrook 3-0620.

Indoor Courts Made Available For Badminton

Badminton enthusiasts may improve their game for those contests with friends and neighbors this summer by calling the Arlington Heights Park District.

Bill Appleby, Superintendent of Recreation for the Park District, announced that two indoor courts will be available in the Pioneer Park Fieldhouse for all those wishing to play badminton.

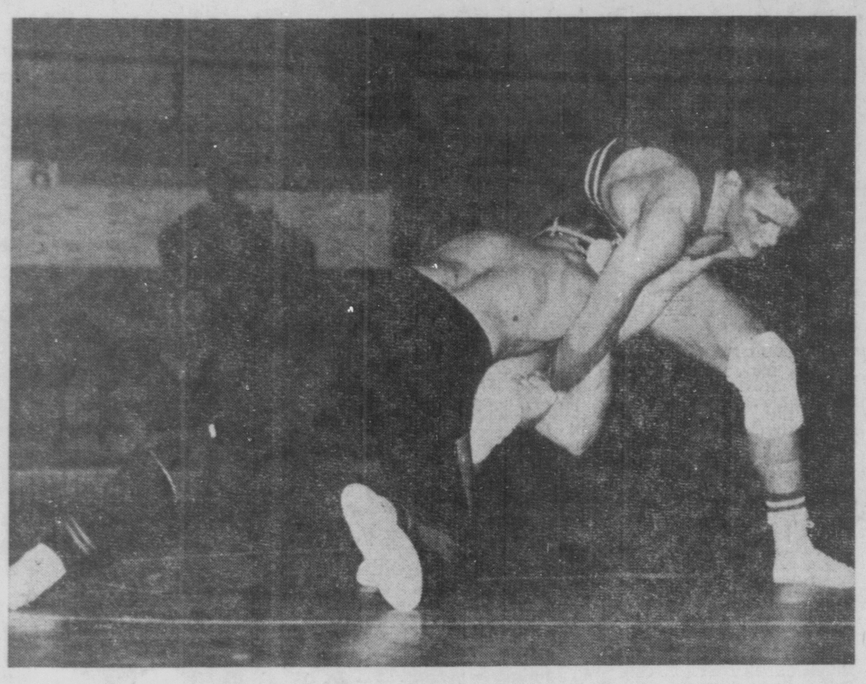
Due to the large number of organizations using the fieldhouse, a regular night cannot be set aside; however, individuals or groups can reserve the courts by calling CL 3-0620.

The courts will also be available during weekday afternoons for housewives who wish to sharpen up their game.

Organize a badminton party and call CL 3-0620 to reserve the courts.

Mat Masters

Michigan State wrestling coach Fendley Collins and his assistant, Grady Peninger, both went undefeated in four years of wrestling at Oklahoma State.



PALATINE'S KARL KNOWLES and John Luhtala of DeKalb battle for 138 pound honors in the final round of the sixth annual Palatine Invitational mat meet. Knowles bested his rival in a thriller, 2-0, to account for one of the Pirates' five individual crowns.

Arlington Ties For Fourth Spot

by DICK GOTTSEGEN

Palatine snatched five individual titles Friday evening and breezed to its own sixth Invitational Wrestling title.

The Pirates outdistanced DeKalb by a comfortable 17 points, 82-65, a far cry from last year's thrilling down-to-the-wire battle between the host school and North Chicago.

Naperville placed third with 58 points while defending co-champion North Chicago and Arlington deadlocked for fourth position with a 34 point total.

Team Standings

Palatine	82
DeKalb	65
Naperville	58
Arlington	34
North Chicago	34
Aurora	32
Libertyville	31
Crystal Lake	25

AURORA WEST (32), Libertyville (31) and Crystal Lake (25) trailed in that order.

Of the six Palatine boys who qualified for the championship round, five came through for Coach John Ellis' crew for titles.

Included in that select group are Jim Nordin (103), Brad McCreery (127), Karl Knowles (133), George McCreery (145) and Norm Schuettner (154).

ANDY OLTYAN also survived unscathed through final action only to lose the 120 pound crown to Chuck Meiley of Naperville by decision, 4-0.

Both DeKalb and Naperville were represented by five wrestlers in the final matches with each finishing with a pair of titlists.

Jim Hanagen nudged Bill Hoyt of Naperville, 8-5, for 112 pound honors while Gene Humes pinned Arlington's Rick Edelblute in 1:09 at 180 to account for DeKalb's two championships.

JIM PHILPOTT pinned Don Morgan of Aurora West in 1:08 for the 95 pound crown and Meiley's win over Oltyan gave the third place Redskins some measure of glory.

Arlington, although eliminated from championship consideration by the time the final bouts rolled around, had three representatives in those final matches.

Each finalist dropped to defeat, however. Crystal Lake's Dick Winter handed Tim O'Gorman his first setback of the campaign, 3-1, at 133 pounds.

SOPH HAL Selleck was decisioned by Bob Petrulis, 5-2, in the 165 pound finale while Edelblute was pinned in his title argument. Petrulis was last winter's 154 pound champ.

Turning once again to the triumphant Pirates, who by the way captured the Fenton holiday cage title on the same night as their smashing mat victory, it was Nordin who annexed Palatine's first crown.

After consecutive easy wins over Rock of DeKalb in the first round and Hines of Aurora in the semis, the sophomore grappler decisioned 5-0.

BRAD McCREERY, the older half of Palatine's brother act, maintained his unbeaten slate with a rugged 5-2 win over Jim Dorsey of North Chicago. Dorsey was the reigning 120 pound champ going into last week's action.

Knowles lost out to Fred Hawkins of North Chicago in the '59 battle for 133 pound honors but bounced back with a 5-2 victory over John Luhtala of DeKalb at 138.

Sophomore George McCreery copped his second Palatine Invitational title in as many years, this time outpointing Aurora's Jim Ramey, 10-4, for the 145 pound title.

McCREERY ruled the 138 pound class previously.

Another runner-up last year moved into the drivers seat after the firing ceased Friday. Norm Schuettner tipped Ben Fagenbush, 4-1, at 154.

Fred Cosby of North Chicago couldn't quite cut the ice at 180 pounds in '59 but came through for a 3-0 triumph over Libertyville's Dennis Hershberger for heavyweight honors.

IN ADDITION to their sparkling performance in the championship bouts, the victorious Pirates also managed to eke out one third place finish out of the three they were shooting for.

In that one, Larry Travis edged Arlington's Tim Smith, 6-5, at 112 pounds. Travis was beaten by Hoyt while Smith lost by decision to Hanagen.

Bob Burm of Arlington was blanked by Truxes of Naperville, 2-0, for third place in the heavyweight division. Palatine's Mike Gluck and Art Abbs also dropped consolation battles.

Cardinals eliminated in first round action were Denny Fitz-Patrick (95), Bob Hoehle (103), Ken Adams (120), Byron Duff (127), Mike Koenig (138), Roy Woodruff (145) and Gar Simmons (154).

Pirates defeated early were Bill Hartman (133), Bill Migely (180) and Bill Smith (heavyweight).

JUST DOGS

Headed South—

Folks are taking off for the southlands in large numbers these days and many of them are taking the family dog along. A new and larger number of places to stay which admit dogs make it possible for you to take your dog along instead of staying behind.

A few passing remarks on the subject might be in order and well worth remembering. Many dog owners will take along an extra thermos bottle or jug of home drinking water to start off the trip. This can be replenished for the dog at a stopover, but the fewer changes of water at the start of the trip the better. Give him a drink when you stop for meals or to exercise him, and remember to leave a window partly open when he is in the car under the warm southern sun.

Mosquitoes carry the dread heartworm which is rather prevalent in the south, so do not let your pet run at large, particularly in mosquito-ridden areas. A blood test when you return home is a wise precaution, since the parasite infection can be cured. Hookworm is another problem as well as ticks, which are just as prevalent in the south as during northern summers. Keep some flea powder on hand and check your dog's skin regularly. These warnings may sound discouraging, but it is better to be prepared. For the most part, these are things which you think about while at home during the summer months up north.

Another aid to folks is the latest edition of "Touring With Towser," the 48 page directory listing around 5700 hotels and motels which will accept well-behaved dogs along with their owners. In addition to the listings, the directory offers handy tips on what to take along for Fido, special state regulations and other useful information. A copy of the booklet may be obtained by sending 25 cents to cover first class mail handling to Gaines Dog Research Center, 250 Park ave., New York 17, N. Y.

That Christmas Pup—

A few added notes on the subject of that new pup brought to mind by some of the friends who have talked to your editor. Don't forget to watch the feeding schedule, expecially if it is a young pup.

For the most part, young pups are on a schedule that requires feeding four times a day, which is cut down to fewer times and the amount increased as the animal gets older. Follow instructions of the person from whom you bought the pup as to what should be fed.

Barks & Bays—

Think it is cold? A dog will share the company of 100 U. S. Army engineers who will spend the winter inside Greenland's polar ice cap as an experiment in survival in case of a nuclear holocaust.

Maine East Tips Zion For Frosh-Soph Title

Maine East exploded in the second half Friday to down Zion-Benton, 56-35, and thereby captured the annual Glenbrook holiday frosh-soph cage title.

Trailing, 12-7, after the initial seven minutes of play, the Park Ridge underclassmen rallied for a 19-17 lead at intermission. The Blue Demons then proceeded to outscore their smaller opponents, 37-18, in the final two frames.

The defeat was only the second of the season in 12 outings for the Zee-Bees of the North Suburban Conference.

RAY WENTZ paced the victors with 18 points; Ed Moore countered with 11 for Zion.

Local entries, Palatine and Arlington, were eliminated in semi-final encounters after capturing first round decisions.

Zion bumped Coach Carl Van Cleave's Pirates, 58-41, behind the all-around play of Clarence Smith. Smith paced all scorers with 14 points and additionally limited Palatine's high scoring Jerry Olson to a single bucket from the field.

MOORE helped Zion along in this battle with 12 tallies.

Paced by Olson's 25 counters in its first round argument with Grant, Palatine advanced to a semi-final berth with a 68-36 triumph over the Bulldogs.

Joe Mueller fired in 16 points to lead Ken Schaller's Cardinal unit to a first round win over Glenbrook in a thriller, 30-27.

TRAILING 20-18 after three periods, the Cards outscored the host quintet, 12-7, in the final seven minutes for the victory.

Arlington jumped out to a 13-6 lead over Maine in the first quarter but wilted under a Demon barrage of field goals to trail at intermission, 21-18.

The Park Ridge five coasted home during the second half, outscoring its rivals, 38-15.

KING TOPPED Maine with 16 points while Mueller chipped in 11 for the losers.

Maine's roughest test was supplied by Fenton in the first round.

Coach Lee Thompson's Bisons held a five point edge with 40 seconds to play only to see the Demons rally for a 49-46 triumph.

KEITH PETERSON and Bill Economus combined to account for 39 of Fenton's total. Peterson was tops with 22 of those tallies.

Dropping to the consolation bracket, the Bensenville crew ran out of steam against Glenbrook and fell to the Spartans, 76-54.

Northbrook Skaters Top Winter Carnival

An estimated crowd of 5,000 witnessed the first annual Winter Skating Carnival Monday as approximately 350 competitors displayed their talents at Lions Park in Mt. Prospect.

A full program of winter skating was presented with the Northbrook club copping top honors with 77 points. U.C.T. of Champaign was runnerup with 68.

The local Mt. Prospect skating club, host for the holiday spectacular, picked up eight points for a seventh place finish. Coach Helen Joy Lutsch gained a second, third, and fourth in the senior women's events.

Miss Lutsch took her second in the 440 yard event and was third in the mile attraction. She finished fourth in the 1/6 mile event.

OLYMPIC SKATER Ed Rudolph (left) of Northbrook is presented with his trophy by Bob Paddock of Paddock Publications after copping the Paddock Trophy Mile in the Senior men's division of Monday's Winter Skating Carnival. Approximately 5,000 fans witnessed the ice spectacle at Lions Park in Mt. Prospect.

OLYMPIC skater Ed Rudolph of Northbrook took the top spots in all three senior men's events with Keith Meyer of Glen Ellyn second in the trio. Meyer was also a member of the United States Olympic team.

Rudolph gained the Paddock Trophy Mile in a clocking of 2:59. The Northbrook standout was presented his trophy by Bob Paddock of Paddock Publications.

Mary Novak of Lilacia, another Olympic performer, headed the senior women's division with three firsts, winning the 1/6 mile, 880 yard, and mile events.

DOUBLE winners in the meet were Ray Novak of Lilacia in the juvenile boys division; Larry Carlson of Northwest in midget boys; Holly Blatchford of Northbrook in juvenile girls; Linda Baacke of Peirce in midget girls; and Lynn Moore of UCT in pony girls.

Also scoring in the top four for Mt. Prospect in addition to its coach was Pat Lutsch in the pony girls 1/12 mile. A consistent point winner in the pony girls class, Pat is a student at St. Raymond's grade school.

The Mt. Prospect skating club was encouraged by the response shown for the first annual Winter Skating Carnival.

With its first holiday attraction now a matter of record the local skaters still aren't through for the season. Several other tests on outdoor ice are slated for the club.

Jeffery Lanes To Meet Steve's In Special Match

Jeffery Lanes of the Paddock Classic Men's league vs. Steve's Restaurant of the Paddock Women's Classic.

That's the lineup for a special bowling match this Saturday night, Jan. 5, at Jeffery Lanes when the two teams square away with the honor of Wheeling at stake.

The match is slated to start at 9:30 p.m.

THE WOMEN'S aggregation will be playing host to the entire Paddock Womens Classic, starting at 6:30 Saturday evening. The men will be bowling in the Paddock Classic Traveling League position round, ending the first half of league competition, at Ten Pin lanes in Barrington at 6:30.

The men will then hurry home to meet the ladies in this special match, scheduled by Bud Miller, proprietor of Jeffery Lanes in Wheeling.

PERSONNEL of the men's team includes Chuck Gibson of Bensenville, Capt. Bill Harris of Wheeling, Hec Healey of Northbrook, Ed Melton of Northbrook, Buck Perkins of Arlington Heights, and George Stone of Wilmette.

For the ladies it will be Alice Alten of Mt. Prospect, Janice Crovetti of Highwood, Capt. Delores Harris of Wheeling, Catheryn Jennings of Deerfield and Dona Reynolds of Northbrook.

Cozy Start

Michigan State's first track field, laid out in 1899, extended around the women's gymnasium and two women's dormitories in the center of campus.

EXCHANGING AWARDS for Paddock Publications' women's bowling tournament are Dick Gottsegan (left) of the newspaper's sports staff and Chick Williams of Tile Terminal, Inc., last year's champion in the women's division. Williams is holding the placque which becomes permanent possession of the winning unit while the traveling trophy will go to the 1961 titlist. The women's tourney is slated for Jan. 21 and 22 at Hi-Way Recreation in Palatine.

Local Girl In Forensic Tournament

Miss Carol Berthold, 1512 N. Prairie, Arlington Heights, will participate in the 29th annual invitational forensic tournament at Illinois State Normal university January 6 and 7.

Some 500 representatives from 54 colleges and universities in eight states expect to participate in three rounds of oratory, two rounds of extemporaneous speaking and oral interpretation, and six rounds of debate in three divisions.

DEBATERS WILL discuss the proposition that the people of the United States should adopt a program of compulsory health insurance for all citizens. Orations are to be original. Topics for extemporaneous speaking will be in the area of current national and international affairs while material for oral interpretation will be lyric or narrative poetry.

The tournament starts at 1 p.m. on January 6, following registration, and closes with the luncheon on January 7, when awards will be distributed and certificates presented. (CC

Students Sing With Illinois AFROTC Wing

John Boehner and Dennis Gaul of Arlington Heights are members of the 72-voice "Singing Squadron," a unique glee club within Southern Illinois university's air force ROTC wing.

Members of the squadron are selected on singing ability, but none of the group are professional musicians and only a few are music majors. Director Donald Canedy, who is also head of the Saluki Marching band, opens the audition doors to all freshmen and sophomores in the AFROTC program (Squadron membership is limited to these two classes).

A LONGSTANDING tradition of the 1,700 man cadet wing at Southern, the Singing Squadron has appeared at high schools, conventions, radio and television stations and public meetings of all kinds throughout the region. Commanding Officer Col. George Blase says the Squadron's most important function isn't Air Force public relations, but providing the cadets an "opportunity to display their musical ability and giving them a media for self-expression."

The group appears in dress blues and white gloves. Their repertoire ranges from the traditional "Air Force Song" to Broadway musical hits, spirtuals and sacred classics. As far as Air Force ROTC Headquarters Command can tell, it is the only such singing organization on a U. S. university campus. (CC

Week's Best food buys

General retail price steadiness keynotes food markets this first week of the New Year.

Two successive short work weeks, out-of-kilter supply and distribution channels, and a post-holiday apathy tend to put all levels of the market in the doldrums.

In terms of consumer value opportunities, economy meats, staple vegetables and demand- item groceries offer the better buys, according to the University of Illinois consumer service weekly survey for the period ending January 7.

BARGAIN rated on the U of I yardstick are: economy meats, such as beef pot roasts; staple vegetables, potatoes, onions, carrots, cauliflower, and demand groceries, sugar, flour, coffee, tuna fish and peas.

The longer range fresh fruit and vegetable outlook sees shorter supplies, slower rate of movement, and higher trending prices than year-ago, citrus being one major exception.

The January calendar of produce values offers these selective opportunities during the month (* indicates peak supply month):

Fruits—apples, grapefruit, oranges (smaller sizes), kumquats, pears, tangerines (twice as many as last year).

Vegetables—broccoli, brussels sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, chinese cabbage*, endive, greens (collards, kale*, mustard turnips), horseradish, mushrooms, onions, parsnips, potatoes, radishes and rutabagas*.

Local cattle receipts were off 10 per cent on a short-week basis with live market quotes generally steady. Wholesale beef supplies were moderate but adequate for demand, with most action on chucks. Prices were generally unchanged. This offered some retail pricing drops for economy stewing meats and pot roasts, while tags remained unchanged on better cuts. Ground beef and stewing meats ranged 49-69 cents; most steaks unchanged from last week's widely ranging quotes. Steak values noted last week are largely eliminated. In roasts, blade cut chucks range generally 39 - 59 cents with some few stores asking as high as 65 cents, round bones 50-69 cents, rump and sirloin tip 89-98 cents, better cut rib roasts 79 cents and up, the rougher rib portions mostly 69 cents.

Hogs are in seasonal decline at live markets, down 25 cents to 50 cents generally and as much as $1. This is the second week of low demand for dressed pork, fresh boston butts the most wanted at wholesale to sustain a price level. Heavier loins are dragging in movement at lower prices. Other fill-in and general orders gave the rest of the wholesale pork market a slight increase.

At retail, promotional activity is limited by generally meager supplies. General retail quotes show rib roasts 49 cents (35-39 cents promotionally), loin end roasts 59 cents (45-49 cents promotionally), fresh bostons and spareribs each 49 cents and both offering a dealer's choice situation. Center cut chops range 95 - 98 cents generally (69 - 75 cents promotionally). The processed pork market is stronger, but despite this first line bacon quotes a steady 69 cents, second lines 55-59 cents and 2-pound thick slice $1.15 to mostly $1.25.

Lamb had the strongest activity at live levels, pricing up 50 cents to 75 cents on dressed kinds. Wholesale reacted to climb $1 early week and then tapered by late week. Retail quotes jumped on active demand, leg roasts showing mostly 69 cents and shoulder roasts 49 cents. Shoulder chops ranged the widest but generally show 69-75 cent tags, rib chops topped at 98 cents, and loin chops mostly $1.25 - 1.29.

Little movement of fryers is noted as shipping points closed off for the holidays. Prices at wholesale are weak, and at retail a steady 35-39 cent prevails, with some 29 cent tags noting promotion levels. Grade A large eggs are in local heavy volume, irregularly priced, some as much as 2 cents lower. But retails of 61-69 cents continue in the stores. Medium sizes are a bit shorter supplied and are being bid up.

Produce markets are essentially quiet. The newsmakers include carrots which for the first time in some weeks offer promotional opportunities on general market weakening and lower prices. Cauliflower, too, is off sharply in price and is expected to show a continuing decline. Tomatoes are much cheaper on a generally declining market. Cucumbers take the real high priced notes this week on generally shorter supplies. Sh

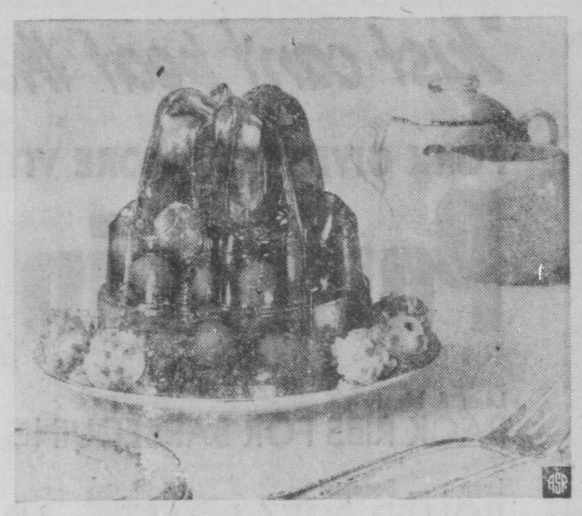
Bing Cherry Bounce



This bright and flavorsome cherry dessert with its bounty of bounce and good eating is sure to bring smiles of approval from the whole family. A delicious combination of luscious bing cherries, cherry-flavored gelatin and cola beverage, it's a perfect choice for holiday menues.

You'll find it easy to make, too, with the family size fruit-flavored gelatin.

CHERRY BOUNCE

1 can (1 pound 14 ounces) pitted bing cherries
1 cup boiling water
1 family size package (6 oz.) cherry-flavored gelatin
1½ cups (two 6-ounce bottles) cola

Drain cherries, measuring juice. (If necessary, add enough water to cherry juice to equal 1½ cups.) Combine with 1 cup water and bring to a boil. Remove from heat. Add gelatin, stirring until it is dissolved. Cool slightly; then add cola.

Chill until slightly thickened, then fold in cherries. Pour into a 1½ quart mold and chill until firm. Unmold. Serve with cream cheese balls which have been rolled in chopped nuts, if desired. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Vienna, Sauerkraut Meal Is Budget-Wise 'Booster'

Need something new flavorwise to boost appetites? Something to stretch the food dollars until pay day? About this time of year most people need such a menu booster, and Viennas With Sauerkraut is the lucky find. Beef flavored tomato sauce and Vienna sausage go well with the tanginess of sauerkraut to make a first-rate main dish. To round out the menu, add baked potatoes and apple, crushed pineapple and nut salad, letting it do double duty as dessert.

Viennas With Sauerkraut

2 cans (4 oz. each) Vienna sausage
¼ cup butter, or margarine
1 large onion
2 cloves garlic
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon sugar
½ cup canned condensed beef broth
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
1 can (1 lb. 11 oz.) sauerkraut

Brown drained Vienna sausage in butter; remove sausages. Cook chopped onion and minced garlic in butter until tender. Stir in flour and sugar. Add beef broth and tomato sauce; cook until thickened, stirring. Mix drained sauerkraut into the sauce and arrange sausages on top; cover and heat slowly a few minutes. Four to six servings.

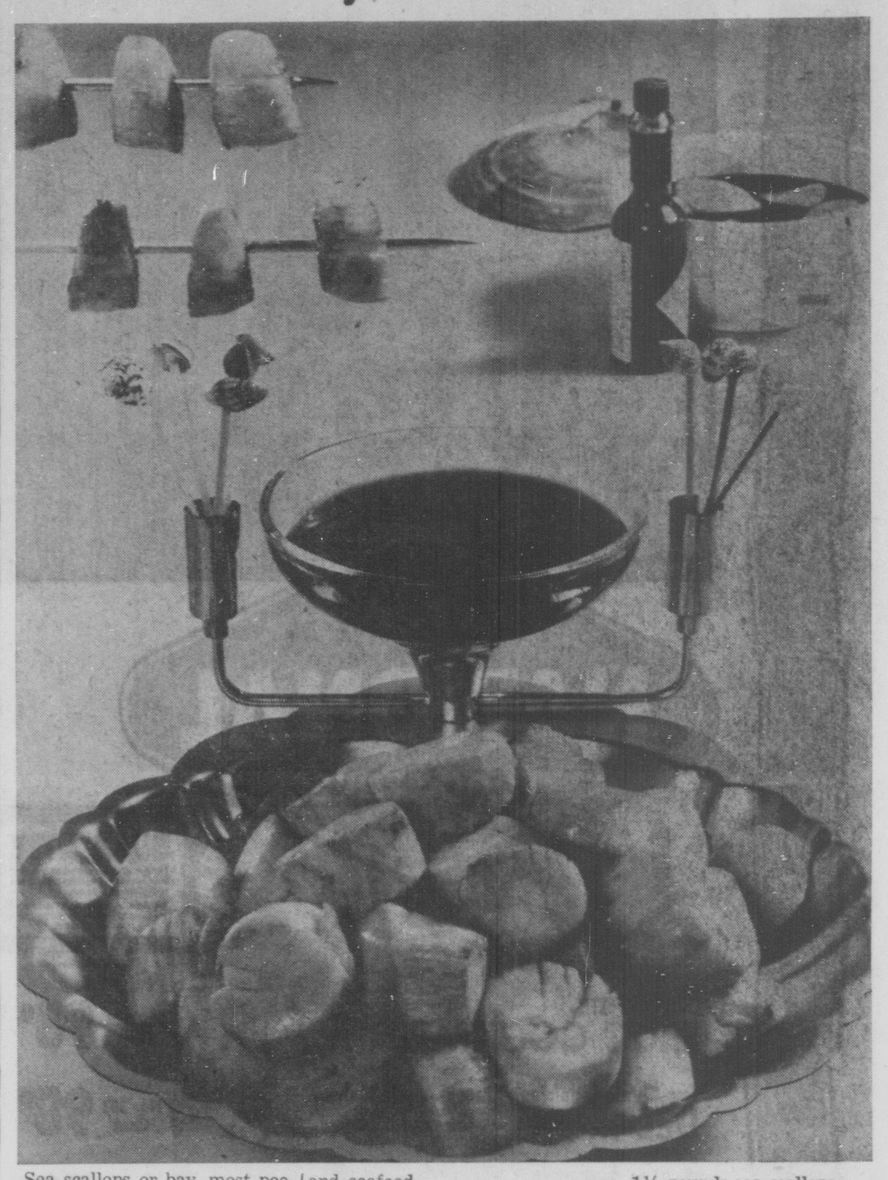
Q. When a Protestant accompanies a Catholic friend to church, should he remain seated during the entire service, or should he attempt to follow his friend's lead—standing, sitting, and kneeling when his friend does?

A. He would probably be less conspicuous and in better taste if he attempted to follow his friend throughout the service.

Q. Can you suggest a message of condolence one might send by telegram?

A. "Deeply saddened by your loss. All sympathy and love. John."

Scallops Supreme Sparked With Savory Tabasco Dunk



Sea scallops or bay, most people love them any way! One of the many ways scallops can be enjoyed is marinated; then broiled and served on picks as an appetizer or hors d'oeuvres. More readily available, thanks to freezing methods, scallops are no longer the exclusive treat of seaside folk.

Scallops, like most seafoods, are bland and can use a bit of pepping up. Tobasco, a pepper seasoning derived from the macerating and aging of fine red peppers in a process similar to that of winemaking, seems to be just the thing for use in marinating, cooking and serving fish and seafood.

TABASCO IS an important ingredient in the marinade recipe that follows, and happily, no additional serving sauce need be prepared for the scallops. The marinade is so good it's just heated again and served with the broiled scallops as a dunking sauce!

SCALLOPS TABASCO

½ teaspoon Tabasco
½ cup dry vermouth
1 teaspoon ginger
1 garlic clove, minced, optional
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1½ pounds sea scallops

Combine Tabasco, vermouth, ginger, garlic and soy sauce. Add scallops. Marinate 2 to 3 hours. Place marinated scallops on skewers or in shallow baking pan. Broil under moderate heat, 5 minutes, turning once and basting with marinade. Turn into serving dish. Heat remaining marinade; serve with scallops.

USDA CHOICE

All Jewel Beef Is U.S. "Choice"

Even when buying a more economical cut like Pot Roast, you want it to be lean and tender cooking! That's why Jewel buyers follow a strict policy in selecting only U.S. Choice grade beef for you.

All Jewel beef must be graded U.S. Choice by Inspectors of the Department of Agriculture. (This grading is based on the amount and distribution of fat . . . and firmness and texture of the lean). Then Jewel buyers make a further inspection themselves. They carefully choose only the "best" of this one high grade of beef.

No wonder Jewel Blade Cut Pot Roast is so delicious!

Versatile Home maker Shares Luncheon Menu For New Year

A lovely luncheon menu has been shared with us this first week in the new year by a talented and versatile woman.

Not only is Mrs. Newman S. Cryer Jr. an enthusiastic and capable cook, but she is also a writer and is active in organizational work as well.

Dorothy Cryer is known to many as the Ridge Park - Sherwood columnist for Paddock publications. Creative writing, however, is her primary interest.

"I'VE BEEN LUCKY enough to have some of my work published, but I have a pile of rejection slips as well," she laughingly admits.

Certainly no one would reject her excellent luncheon being featured today. It is Dorothy's favorite, and would please the most discriminating gourmet.

A unique Crab Casserole plays the starring role on this menu. "This recipe is simple to prepare and takes less than a half hour to make," Dorothy said.

It combines flaked crab with green pepper and cream of potato soup, is seasoned with sherry wine and topped with shredded cheese. Baked for only 15 minutes, the crab is served in patty shells.

AS accompaniments for this delicious dish Dorothy serves Potato Rolls and an Apricot Whip Salad.

"The potato roll recipe is the best yeast roll recipe I have ever made," she said. "Instant mashed potatoes can be used in this recipe, and the rolls are very white and fine grained as well as light-textured. They can be made either in muffin tins or formed into crescents."

The apricot whip salad is a delightful combination of canned apricots, orange jello, whipped evaporated milk, mayonnaise, chopped pecans and celery.

With this refreshing molded salad Mrs. Cryer serves a delectable and unusual dressing which is flavored with honey and lemon juice with whipped cream and coconut folded in.

And for dessert the piece de resistance, French Cheese Pie. Made in a vanilla wafer crust, this elegant chiffon-like pie combines a delicate lemon custard with softened cream cheese. Stiffly-beaten egg whites are folded in, and the pie is refrigerated until served.

DOROTHY garnishes the pie with pineapple wedges to resemble a flower. Not only is this dessert attractive to look at but it is superlative to taste.

In addition to her culinary and journalistic endeavors Mrs. Cryer is a Bluebird leader, a Sunday school teacher and chairman of the MYF suppers at the First Methodist church.

The Cryers moved from Nashville, Tenn., to their home at 1007 N. Kennicott in Arlington Heights four years ago. They have two children: Paul, 13, and Cathy, 7.

MEASURING THE FLOUR for her favorite yeast rolls is Mrs. Newman S. Cryer of Arlington Heights, an expert cook as well as a neighborhood columnist for Paddock Publications. Dorothy Cryer serves these feather-light Potato Rolls as an accompaniment for a tempting luncheon which features a unique and delicious Crab Casserole.

Crab Casserole

½ cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons butter
1 10-ounce can frozen condensed cream of potato soup
½ to ¾ cup milk
1 cup cooked flaked crab, drained
1 tablespoon sherry wine
¼ cup longhorn shredded cheese

Cook green pepper in butter until tender. Add frozen soup and milk, heat slowly until the soup is thawed, stirring often. Stir in flaked crab and season with sherry wine.

Pour into a one-quart casserole and sprinkle top with shredded cheese.

Potato Rolls

1 cup lukewarm seasoned mashed poatoes
1½ cups warm water
1 package dry yeast
2/3 cup sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
2/3 cup soft shortening
2 eggs
7 to 7½ cups sifted all-purpose flour

Prepare potatoes as directed on Instant Mashed Potato mix package for two servings. Dissolve yeast in water; stir in sugar, salt, shortening, eggs and potatoes.

Mix in flour by hand until dough is easy to handle. Knead on lightly-floured board until dough is smooth and elastic, 8 to 10 minutes.

Place greased side up in a greased bowl. Cover with a damp cloth and place in the refrigerator. Punch down occasionally as it rises.

SHAPE DOUGH into 2-inch balls. Place each in well-greased muffin cups. With a scissor cut top of each ball in half, then in quarters. Cover and let rise until double in bulk, 1½ to 2 hours.

If kitchen is cool, place dough on a rack over a bowl of hot water and cover completely with a towel. Heat oven to 400 degrees; bake 12 to 15 minutes. Yield: about 4 dozen rolls.

This recipe can also be used to make crescent rolls. The dough should be divided, then rolled out into rounds. Rounds are brushed with melted butter and cut in pie-shaped wedges. Wedges are rolled to form crescents, then placed on greased cookie sheets to rise. They are also baked in a 400 degree oven, 12 to 15 minutes.

Apricot Whip Salad

3½ cups canned apricot halves (29 ounce can)
1 package orange-flavored gelatine
1 cup undiluted evaporated milk
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/3 cup mayonnaise
½ cup chopped pecans
1 cup chopped celery

Drain apricots and reserve one cup syrup. Dice apricots and reserve. Heat syrup to boiling. Pour over gelatin and stir until dissolved. Chill until thick and syrupy.

Chill evaporated milk in refrigerator tray about 20 minutes. Whip until stiff, about one minute. Add lemon juice. Whip very stiff, about two minutes longer.

Add mayonnaise, pecans celery and apricots to gelatine mixture. Fold into whipped evaporated milk. Turn into mold and chill until firm. Yield: 6 servings.

Island Honey Dressing

3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
¾ cup strained honey
3 tablespoons lime or lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lime or lemon rind
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 cup whipping cream
1/3 cup flaked coconut

Combine all ingredients except cream and coconut. Cook over very low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Chill.

Just before serving fold in the whipped cream and coconut. Store in refrigerator until used. Yield: 3 cups dressing.

French Cheese Pie

1 package lemon pudding and pie filling
½ cup sugar
1 cup water
2 egg yolks
1 cup light cream
2 egg whites
4 tablespoons sugar
1 8-ounce package cream cheese, softened
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine pie filling mix, ½ cup sugar and ¼ cup water in pan. Add egg yolks and blend well. Add remaining ¾ cup water and cream.

Cook and stir over medium heat until it comes to a full boil, about five minutes. Cool only five minutes, stirring once or twice.

BEAT egg whites until foamy. Add four tablespoons sugar, two at a time, beating after each addition until blended. Continue beating until mixture stands in peaks.

Fold cooled filling into cheese, blending well. Sometimes this mixture has to be strained as it must be very smooth.

Add vanilla and mix well. Fold into meringue and pour into cooled 9-inch pie crust.

Chill one hour and garnish with pineapple rings cut in thirds and halved to make thinner. Place between filling and edge of crust. Place four wedges and crumbs from the crust in the center to resemble a flower.

Crust

1¼ cups vanilla wafer crumbs
3 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup melted butter

Combine crumbs and sugar. Add melted butter and mix well. Press firmly, using back of a spoon, on the bottom and sides of a 9-inch pie pan.

Bake 5 to 8 minutes in a 375 degree oven. Let cool.

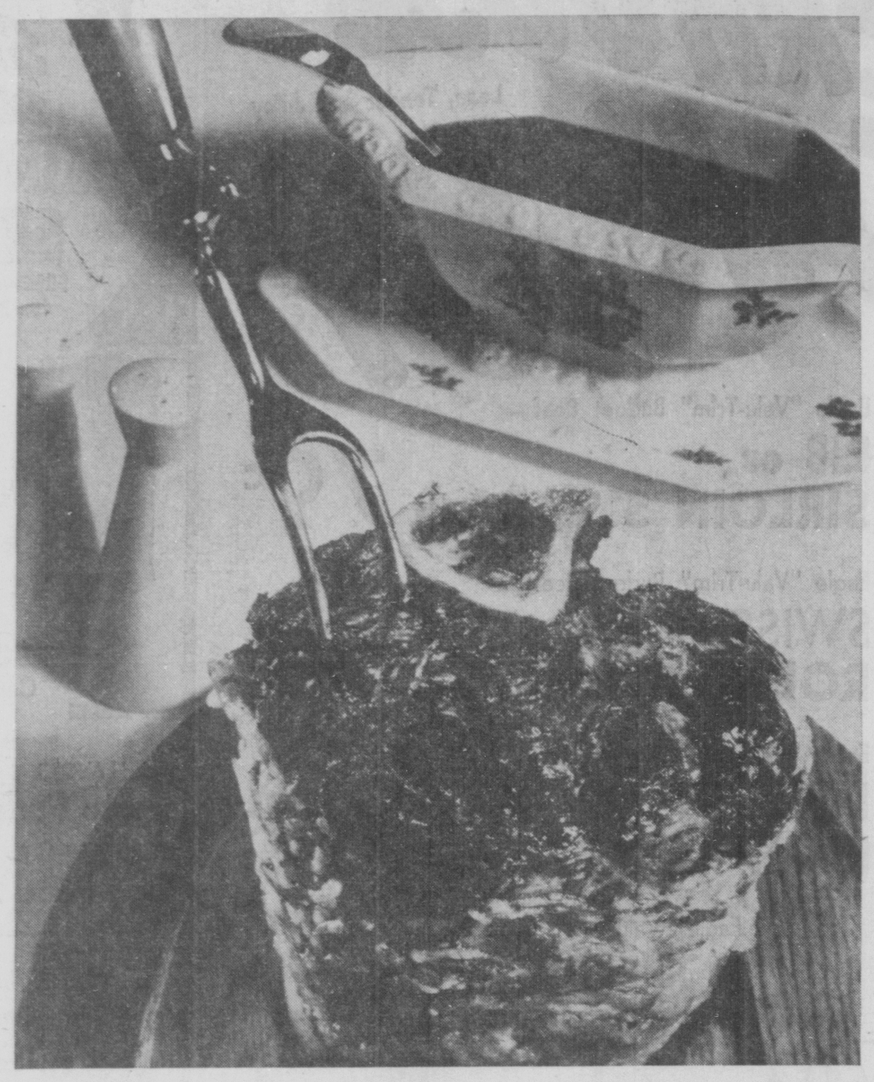
Oil Marinated Beef Shank Is Inexpensive, Succulent



Tenderizing is not a modern invention. Marinades have been used for centuries as a method of tenderizing and flavoring meats simultaneously. The Spanish have used their olive oil to make even the tough meat of bulls juicy enough to roast.

Take a beef shank, a cut usually sold for soup or stew meat. This has a marrow bone running through the center or at one side; it is usually found in supermarket counters in cuts 2½ or 3 inches thick. Choose the meatiest you can find and at home punch holes through the meat with a large skewer and into the holes pour olive oil.

A good Spanish olive oil is preferred; it helps to soften the muscular tissues of the meat and points up the full meaty flavor without any perceptible taste of the olive oil remaining in the cooked meat.

WHEN THE MEAT is to be roasted soon after purchase, add the olive oil at least an hour before roasting, several hours if possible. If you buy several shanks at a bargain price to keep in your freezer, give them the olive oil treatment before freezing. Instead of the plain olive oil, for variety you may want to blend herbs and seasonings with the oil plus a little vinegar or wine.

However, the olive oil alone will do the trick. To roast, insert a meat thermometer through the meaty portion without touching bone, set the oven at 300° and roast until the desired degree of doneness is indicated on the thermometer. Or without a thermometer, allow 25 minutes to the pound for rare.

Yes, it can be served rare, and you will find the meat of the shank has even more flavor than round. What's more, the marrow in the bone melts down into the pan juices and this will give you simply superb gravy.

THIS METHOD of turning a hind shank of beef into an oven roast has been tested with shank cuts of different grades and found to be successful even with cuts graded U. S. "good." For a shank of U. S. choice grade, the meat will be even more flavorful and tender. Naturally this is not in the same class with a rib roast, but then the price is about one-third that of a standing rib.

Chuck or Round Roasts can be tenderized in the same way, although some "bargain" meats, which are likely to be of good or commercial grade, need moist heat—that is, they must be pot roasted or cooked covered in the oven. A chuck roast or bottom round of choice grade can be successfully tenderized with olive oil, however, to be roasted just like a rolled rib in an open pan. Since these are usually boneless and rolled, they are easy to carve and virtually waste-free.

For a speed-up job, combine olive oil with powdered commercial meat tenderizer: the olive oil helps the powdered papaya to penetrate more deeply and more evenly into a roast, especially when you punch holes through the meat allowing the oil mixture to go down into the center.

SHANK ROASTS have one disadvantage. They are small. In many cases, the roast will serve only two persons. But for a small household, this is an advantage. You can have a roast beef dinner every Sunday at a cost of about 50 cents. For the average-sized family of four or five persons, just buy two shank roasts, cook them at the same time, in the same pan.

Always slice these roasts diagonally across the grain of the meat, as thin as possible, with a well-sharpened, long-bladed knife. Keep the shank bone for soup later—you can still have a soup out of it after the roast beef is finished.

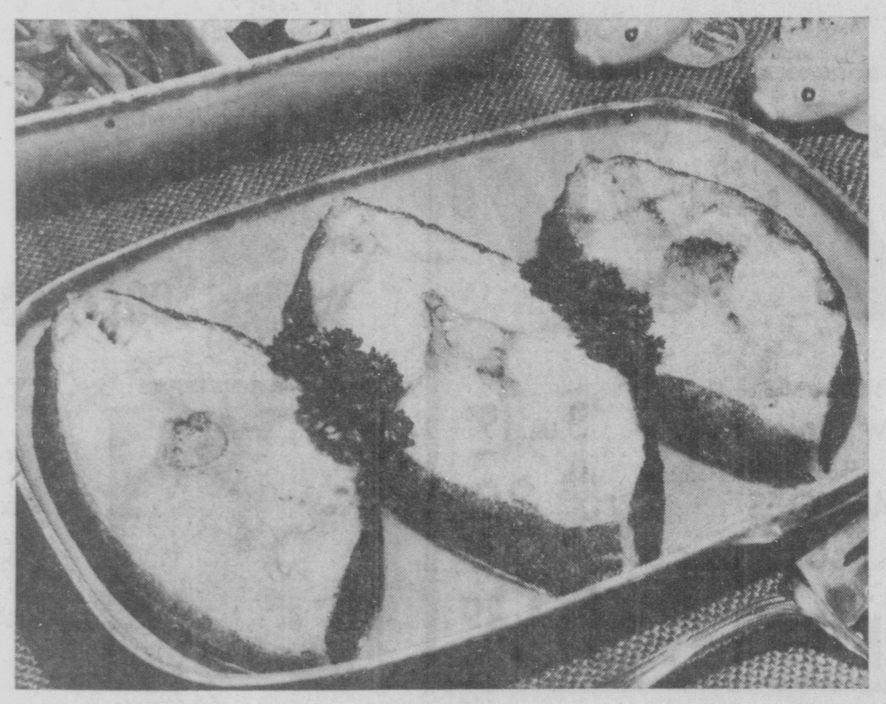
Delicious Halibut Steaks Score High In Food Value



Among the world's most delectable fish is the halibut, fished from the cold waters of the North Pacific and North Atlantic. Most halibut comes from our West Coast, but modern methods of freezing, packaging and distribution have made it available throughout the United States, and it is sold chiefly in steak form.

Broiling and baking are both recommended for this tender white-meated fish. The broiling recipe that follows can be used not only for halibut, but also for other firm-fleshed fish steaks like cod, haddock, swordfish and salmon.

STEAKS ARE practically a no-waste food as there is only the backbone to throw away. According to the National Fisheries institute, one pound of fish steaks will serve three people.

BROILED FISH STEAKS

Place 3 or 4 fish steaks in preheated broiler pan. Brush with sauce made by mixing together 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Place pan in broiler 2 inches from heat and broil 3 minutes. Turn steaks, brush again with sauce, and broil 3 to 5 minutes longer, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork.

WORD STUDY

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

DISSEMBLED (adjective); disquised or simulated. "The swindler ingratiated himself with dissembled interest."

PERPETRATE; to commit, as an offense (usually in a bad sense). "It took a morbid sort of person to perpetrate such a deed."

ATTENUATE; to slenderize; reduce; weaken; dilute; rarefy. "It was necessary to attenuate the original strand to obtain such a fine filament."

CONJURATION; involving; use of magic. "The rainmaker's conjuration was deemed to be a hoax."

DURESS; imprisonment; also, constraint; compulsion. (Pronounce dyu-ress, accent first syllable). "His confession was reputedly made under duress."

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by Edward Rentz

Barbecuing is fun for everyone. Here are a few hints for making it easier for the cook:

When selecting meat, let your meat man know you are choosing meat for a barbeque. A sirloin is your best bet if you are looking for steak, but no matter what kind, it should be cut evenly from one and one-half to two inches. The steak should be at room temperature. It is ready to turn when juices come to the surface of the uncooked side. TURN ONLY ONCE, always using tongs because forks pierce the meat and let the juices escape.

For a little different flavor, put several cloves of garlic on the briquets during barbecuing.

'Garden Spot' Country Club Sports Colorful, Controversial Background

Suburb Club's Fate Debated

by MELDA LYNN

The Mount Prospect Country club has had a checkerboard type of history since it began in 1925. Its present and future status is following the same pattern, with actual moves proceeding at a slow pace and rumors flying fast and furiously. The next move in the game of ownership and operation is anybody's guess at the present time.

The club started as an outgrowth of a long range plan to make Mount Prospect "a home city, second to none, with parks and community playfields, a model community center planned for social get to-gethers, bowling greens and tennis courts."

This discription of the plan was taken from Paddock Publications' May 8, 1925 Cook County Herald.

IT SHOWED a picture of the club's developer, Axel Lonnquist, a Chicago real estate man. He purchased 650 acres of farmland. The article ran under the head "Promises to Make Mount Prospect a Beauty Suburb."

Lonnquist described the property as being "acres and acres of old farm land with a charming brook, spring fed, running through the land." The charming brook he referred to is evidently Weller creek. The subdivision was to be "The beauty garden deluxe of the Chicago suburbs."

LONNQUIST OFFERED a membership in the Northwest Hills Country club, now the Mount Prospect Country club, for each lot buyer. He developed a number of the homes and opened a nine hole golf course in the summer of 1926.

The club was a part of the promotional plan. The golf course was increased to 18 holes the following years. It was on a 110 acre plot of ground.

Lonnquist also built the club house and a small house next to it. Called the Hansel and Gretel cottage, it was to serve as a playhouse for the children in the prospective neighborhood.

It was completely decorated to look like candy canes, cookies and other sweets. The house was never used to any great extent but served as a novelty in the neighborhood for a number of years.

THE GOLF COURSE was used on a daily fee basis mostly by residents of Chicago and Arlington Heights because those who did buy lots did not immediately build on them.

When the Depression hit, many of the original purchasers lost their lots and Lonnquist, in turn lost the property.

In 1931 the acreage was purchased by a Mount Prospect real estate man, the late Harold Willson. Willson remodeled the clubhouse and developed many of the lots around the course. Other real estate men purchased lots in the original Lonnquist development.

FROM 1940 until 1942 Donald Florence, an Arlington Heights real estate man, became associated with Willson in the development of the area and management of the club.

The club was operated as a semi-private one. The public was able to play on the course on a fee basis. Club membership was $60 a year.

The property was sold in 1951 to Henry Sophie, of Chicago, the owner of the Fireside Bowl. Sophie and two of his sons, Raymond and Kenneth operated the club. The Hansel and Gretel house was used for a caretaker's cottage and for other help around the course.

THE CLUB by this time had become a popular place, and the golf course one of the most successful in the northwest suburbs. It drew heavily on Chicagoans and residents of Arlington Heights.

In January, 1959 Sophie sold the club to a colorful young man who had played on the course in his teens, Richard Hauff.

Hauff, the story goes, was a homeless waif found by a group of American engineers wandering in the deserts of Iran. They took him in and eventually brought him to America with them. He was adopted by a Mount Prospect area family and grew up near the golf course.

HE BECAME an amateur golf star. His interest in the game gave him the incentive to want to own the club and develop it into a championship course.

Where Hauff got the money to buy the club has been a mystery and a source of interest to residents and village officials. He left the Mount Prospect area and went to Las Vegas, apparently not flushed with money.

While in Las Vegas, he says, he organized a multi-million dollar corporation which put up a 21 story hotel and gambling casino. When he returned, he bought the club for a reported $100,000 and immediately launched an expensive remodeling and redecorating plan. He had one of America's foremost golf architects redesign the course.

He added a new west wing, dining rooms, cocktail lounge, dance floor and other improvements. He offered memberships into the club which was to be run as a private club.

IN JULY, 1959, the Master's golf tournament for women was held at the club. America's top women professional golfers vied for prizes totaling $20,000.

This was the first major professional golf tournament held in northwest suburbs. Patty Berg, Betsy Rawls, Mickey Wright, Beverly Hanson, Barbara Romack, Kathy Cornelius and other world wide champion women golfers participated in the tournament.

Hauff held it as a part of his ambitious plan to make the name of the club known across the nation and attract other national tournaments.

While the tournament was a success, the club evidently did not have the amount of success needed to keep it in the successful financial column of the ledger.

AUGUST 26, 1960, the Mount Prospect Country Club, Inc. went into bankruptcy.

Hauff, according to records, is president of the bankrupt corporation, but claims he himself is not bankrupt and that he owns the actual property.

The Mount Prospect park district held a referendum October 15, 1960, to raise $1.1 million to purchase the club property and property on the north side of the village for a park. The referendum was defeated. It was to be used as a municipal course and recreational center.

Hauff was drafted into the army in October. He has been ordered back to Chicago several times, by the court, to appear at bankruptcy hearings. At the last hearing, referee Wallace Streeter gave Hauff and his attorneys additional time to work out financing and a pending sale of the club.

AS REPORTED in the Herald, October 13, 1960, a rumor stated the club was to be bought by a group of northwest suburban doctors. This rumor is still the leading and most plausable. The doctor reported to be the head of the group, Dr. Gustav Soltz, Arlington Heights, has appeared, according to reports, at several of the bankruptcy hearings and has been seen in conference with Hauff.

If a plan, offered by the bankrupt club, to pay 25 cents on the dollar to creditors and former employees and the government in full, the club could then be sold.

Hauff stated in an interview December 18 that he would definitely sell when the bankruptcy hearing is cleared up.

"I am sick of the club and want nothing more to do with it. I will not give it away though. My price is $1.1 million."

PRICE MENTIONED during the December 19 bankruptcy hearing was $955,000.

Hauff owns the land on which the club stands. Court records show that he is paid $5,000 a month rent from the club. He, in turn, has been paying the mortgage payments of $5,000 to the former owner, Henry Sophie.

In spite of the fact that his rent cancels out his mortgage payment, he has been living in O'Hare Inn and spending money in a manner which belies the fact that his only visible additional income is $85.80 per month from the army.

If the club is not sold to the doctors, what will be the next move in the checkerboard history? Will it be run eventually as a private club? Will it be subdivided? Hauff claims it is possible under the R-1 zoning.

Will one of two other rumors be carried out? One is that the University of Illinois wants to buy the course. Another is that the Evanston Country club wants it.

Or will Axel Lonnquist's dream come true?

Will the property eventually be a community center helping to make Mount Prospect a village envied by others because of its outstanding reecreational facilities, fine homes and even balance of commercial enterprises? (A-13

THE BACK OF the Mount Prospect Country clubhouse shows the addition built when Richard Hauff remodeled the building.

THE HANSEL and Gretel house on the Mount Prospect Country club grounds is now used for a caddy house. It was originally built as part of a promotional scheme to develop a community center by Axel Lonnquist in 1925.

RICHARD HAUFF BECAME an amateur golf star, even while in Arlington High school. Above he is shown when he was a senior with the trophy he won in the 1958 Jaycee annual golf tournament. He is now notorious, not for golf fame, which he could have had, but because of his reported dealings with the underworld and for the financial failure of the Mount Prospect Country club.

Indonesia Subject Of Travel 'Talk'

Exotic Indonesia is the next stop for the Travel and Adventure Series enthusiasts of High School District 214's adult education program.

Noted traveler and photographer Phil Walker will narrate a colored film of the 3,000 islands which have been described as the "girdle of emerald flung across the equator" Tuesday night, January 10, at 8 p.m. in the Prospect high school Little theater.

AMONG THE many high points covered in the film are the large main islands of Java and Sumatra, the fantastically shaped Celebes, and the Paradise island of Bali, with the superb artistry of its ancient and intricate dances.

Walker who originally studied for the theatre, was an actor and director before joining the National Broadcasting company as an announcer. In 1953, after a varied experience with NBC and in the production of his own television programs and films, he chose his present occupation as cameraman and film lecturer.

This is the fifth in a series of 10 film-lectures. Remaining on the schedule are Switzerland, February 7; Hungary, February 28; Splendors of Persia, April 4; and The Mighty Mississippi April 18.

Tickets for individual lectures may be purchased at the door for $1. (ACM

College-Level Courses Planned for Night School

Five college level courses will be offered as part of high school district 214's evening adult education program next semester.

One course, labor relations, is a non-credit offering sponsored by the University of Illinois and scheduled to begin Thursday night, Jan. 12. According to the university, the course will consider "problems common to labor relations between management and union."

Such topics as labor laws, negotiation of contract, grievance handling, and rights and responsibilities of members and officers at local union level will be included. The eight session course is designed for management and union personnel. Tuition for the class, which will meet Thursdays, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., in room 230 of Arlington high school, is $12.

OTHER UNIVERSITY of Illinois offerings include accounting procedure 105, which considers "relation of business documents to the accounts, fundamentals of partnership and corporation accounting, business forms and records, payroll accounting, single entry, and financial statement analysis." Prerequisite for the three credit hour course is accounting 101. The class for which there is a $24 tuition, will meet in room 209 of Arlington high Tuesday nights, 7 to 9:30 p.m. beginning January 17.

Principles of economics 103, offered as a continuation of economics 102, will involve "monetary theory, national income theory, and international economics; public policy arising out of the problems of the structure of industry, economic stability, monetary and banking institutions." Tuition is $24 for the three credit hour course, which meets Monday nights, 7 to 9:30 p.m., beginning January 16.

A refresher course for professional engineers is also offered by the university. The non-credit class, designed for engineers who wish to prepare themselves for the state examinations for the professional engineer license, will meet Wednesday night from 7 to 10 p.m., beginning February 1 and extending 11 weeks.

Northern Illinois university will offer a three hour credit course, government and politics in the Soviet Union, which begins February 6 and has a $24 tuition. The class will include a study of the development, structure, and functioning of government and politics in the Soviet Union including issues concerning present day politics.

The group will meet at Arlington high school Monday nights from 6:30 to 9:10 p.m. Registrants for the NIU course are instructed to mail directly to the Director of Extension at DeKalb.

TUITION FOR the other courses may be paid after the first class meeting.

Night school director Thomas Shirley urges all interested adults to contact the high school.

General registration for adult education courses (with the exception of the college credit courses) will be January 16 and 17. Second semester classes begin Jan. 23-26. (ACM

Jaycees Announce Plans For '61; Express Thanks

Local support of the Arlington Heights Jaycee Christmas tree sales project was praised by the board of directors at its Christmas meeting Dec. 28. In addition, the junior chamber of commerce announced its activity schedule for the first half of 1961 and asked for continued support of the members and village residents.

The Christmas tree sales project was entirely successful, all trees being sold by Dec. 21, the board reported. This was the group's major moneymaking project for the year, with most of the remainder being non-profit or deficit projects.

The success of this year's sale ensures the project's return, again featuring low prices and quality trees. Only the wholehearted support of the people of Arlington Heights made this project possible and the Jaycees are sincerely grateful, the board concluded.

AS PREVIOUSLY announced, the major Jaycee project for this year is community development. A comprehensive questionnaire is in preparation and will shortly be distributed to all village residents as the project moves into its final phases.

The first 1961 project to be completed will be the awarding of the annual Distinguished Service award to a man of Jaycee age who has distinguished himself by his contribution to the welfare of this community and its citizens during the past year. It is hoped that the final selection will be made by a committee of well-known local citizens.

The Junior Golf tournament will be held during May or June for golfers under 18. This project drew 29 entrants last year. The winner goes to the state and international tourneys, won in the past by such golfers as Gene Littler and Doug Sanders.

A Junior Olympics will be held during the late summer. This affair includes numerous events and also leads to further competition.

AGAIN THIS year the Jaycees will roam the city filling sandboxes shortly after the winter snows melt. During last year's three-week project, over 20 tons of sand were distributed at cost to prepare hundreds of sandboxes for summer fun.

All young men from 21 to 35 are urged to join the Jaycees. The next dinner-business meeting of the Arlington Heights Junior Chamber of Commerce is on Wednesday, Jan. 25, at 7 p.m. in the Old Orchard country club. (A

Skating Party

A roller skating party at the Hub will be the highlight of the January 8 gathering of members of the Northwest Suburban Young Adult fellowship. Those planning to attend will meet at 6:45 p.m. at First Methodist church, Des Plaines.

All young adults between 18 and 35 are invited and may make reservations or by calling Edie Helfers at CLearbrook 3-1876. (AM

Progressive Dinner Honors New Members

To bring its new and older members together, the Christian Church of Arlington Heights sent most of its congregation hunting for dinner with an old-fashioned progressive dinner December 30. Two separate groups converged on nine different homes in search of appetizers at one, salads at another and on through main course and dessert.

To cap the evening, all participants dropped in on Rev. and Mrs. Don Jones for coffee at the church parsonage, 306 N. Stratford.

The food safari was directed by Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Phillips and began at 6:45 p.m.

NEW-MEMBER guests included the Tom Housers, John Faklarises, Don Joneses, Charles Lins, L. V. Dennises, Joe Joneses, Richard Smiths, A. E. Petersons, Forrest Smiths and Mrs. M. E. Long.

Hosts for the various courses were the Joseph Barthels, I. B. Franklins, Charles Lins, Carroll Carters, Edison Lyles, Harry Johnstons, Guy cCords, E.E EED.E E EPE, McCords, E. D. Phillipses, C. E. Parsons, James Robertses, James Teacheys, Ralph Slaters, Don Joneses, W. L. Millirens, Joseph Brysons and Miss Ann Phillips.

CHARTERED ONLY two years ago, the Christian Church of Arlington Heights, Disciples of Christ, now has a membership over 160. The church has purchased a parsonage and property for its proposed sanctuary at Buffalo Grove rd. and Oakton st., Arlington Heights. The first unit is scheduled for 1962.

The Christian church meets each Sunday at 10:45 in the auditorium of Miner school, Arlington Heights. Church school begins at 9:45 and child care is provided at both services. (A

Rentschler to Address Women's Republican Club

The Wheeling Township Women's Republican club will herald the new year with a program that should interest all zealous Republicans—male and female.

On Tuesday, Jan. 24 at 8 p.m., William H. Rentschler will address the group in the community room of the Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan association building, 25 E. Campbell. This meeting will be open to all area residents.

Rentschler, who ran for U. S. Senator in last April's primary election, is recognized as an outstanding young businessman and civic leader.

He has worked in the Republican party from precinct to the national level. His 15-point plan for overhauling the GOP in Illinois was recently published in a metropolitan daily newspaper.

THE MONTH OF January will also mark the beginning of two workshop groups, the first to be conducted on Monday, Jan. 16, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Novotny.

On Friday, Jan. 20, board members of the Wheeling Township Women's Republican club and their husbands will gather in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Coughlin for the first of three consecutive weekly workshop meetings.

The Republican workshop movement is an auxiliary of the Republican party designed to educate men and women in the mechanics of the American system of party politics. Each workshop group meets in the informal atmosphere of a neighbor's house to discuss party politics at a series of three two-hour sessions under the guidance of a trained Republican workshop leader.

The program is concerned chiefly with party principles, purposes and structure. It is not a campaign organization. However, theworkshop points out where and how its members can most effectively ally themselves with other Republicans for action.

If these initial discussion groups are enthusiastically accepted, the Wheeling club hopes to become instrumental in expanding the workshop movement throughout the area. The club's membership chairman is Mrs. A. J. Baugous, CL. 3-8027. (ACM

Bridge Lessons Start on January 10

The Arlington Heights park district's second session of bridge lessons will begin next Tuesday, Jan. 10. The second of three sessions the district will offer this winter will consist of instruction for those with intermediate or average playing ability. (The third session scheduled to start in March will be for advanced instruction.)

Chester Rumpf, master bridge player, who is well known to many bridge enthusiasts in Chicago and suburbs, will again conduct the classes. Rumpf said many of those who were in the beginning classes will move into the intermediate classes. However, there will be plenty of room for all new students.

THE course will consist of eight two-hour lessons starting January 10 and continuing every Tuesday night through February 28. The classes are held in the Pioneer park fieldhouse located at 500 S. Fernandez st., in Arlington Heights.

The classes start at 7:30 p.m. An $8 registration fee is charged for the eight lessons. All those wishing to register or obtain further information on the course may call CL 3-0620. A

Feehanville PTA Plans Film Fare

The January meeting of the Feehanville PTA will be held Tuesday, Jan. 10, at 8 p.m. in the school.

The program includes a film from the Illinois Education association office entitled "Right Angle," to be followed by a panel discussion on "The Relation of Home to the School Program by Teachers and Parents."

THREE TEACHERS and three parents will participate on the panel. Mr. Short, the principal, will act as moderator.

Also at this meeting the committee for nominating PTA officers for next year will be elected.

Refreshments will be served after the meeting with the fifth grade parents acting as hostesses. (ACM

Despite 1960 Decline

Metropolitan Area's Economic Base Sound

Metropolitan Chicago maintained a sound economic base throughout 1960 while general business in the nation showed a moderate decline, according to a report from the research and statistics division of the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry.

The report showed increases in almost all phases of commercial and industrial interests, including sales, investments, production, and employment.

Chicago area steel mills produced an estimated 19.2 million tons of steel in 1960, the fifth highest tonnage ever recorded in the area. While it was 2¼ million tons less than the all-time record set in 1955, it exceeded 1959's production by 2½ million tons.

GROSS SALES of Chicago manufacturing establishments showed a slight increase over last year's figures. Estimated sales of manufactured products amounted to $24.2 billion compared to 1959's figure of $23.2 billion.

The report points out that the increase in sales is not entirely due to increased output of physical units, but is due in part to increased prices of the finished product.

Primary metal industries ranked first among the industry groups, followed by food and related products, nonelectrical machinery, electrical machinery, fabricated metals, chemicals, printing and publishing, and transportation equipment.

THE AREA'S wholesale sales in 1960 are estimated at $21.8 billion, up slightly over record-breaking 1959 sales of $21.7 billion. Similarly, retail sales exceeded 1959's record, although final results will depend on December's figures.

THE DECENNIAL census of 1960 showed 6,794,461 persons residing in the metropolitan area, an increase of more than 1,200,000 persons over the 1950 figure of 5,586,096. This represented a 21.6 per cent increase in the total population, equivalent of adding the total population of the cities of Baltimore and Wichita to the 1950 population of metropolitan Chicago.

Registered births for the year amounted to 165,000, some 3,000 fewer than recorded in 1959. Deaths numbered 66,000 for the year, 1,000 more than 1959's total.

Checkbook spending, as reported by the daily average bank debits, amounted to $777.8 billion in 1960, compared to $732.3 billion in 1959.

ONLY THE housing industry, which estimated that between 39,000 and 40,000 dwelling units were started during 1960, compared to 47,600 units started in 1959, reported a decline. This total is divided into approximately one-third apartment units and two-thirds single family dwellings, with many more apartment units started in 1960 than in recent years.

A considerable number of apartment buildings were erected in the suburban areas.

A total investment in industrial buildings in metropolitan Chicago amounted to $224 million for 375 separate projects, including new plants, industrial warehouses, expansion of existing plants and warehouses, and acquisition of lands and buildings for industrial uses. The 1959 total was $332 million.

Of the 28 large plants announced in 1960, 22 were for manufacturing operation currently located in the Chicago area, and six were for firms moving into the area for new production.

COMMERCIAL developments, largely made up of motels, shopping centers, super markets and office buildings, amounted to $368 millions in the first 10 months of 1960 compared to $279 million in the same period of 1959. In 1960, some 36 office buildings, 22 shopping centers, 32 motels, and 10 bowling alleys were announced.

Average civilian employment in 1960 amounted to 2.9 million persons, some 11,000 more than 1959's average. Unemployment in the first 10 months of 1960 averaged 141,900, compared to 180,000 for the first 10 months of 1959.

Bell Telephone Promotes Tosch

Virgil Max Tosch, 21 N. Main street, Mt. Prospect, has been promoted to plant supervisor of building and motor equipment for Illinois Bell Telephone company in Springfield. Tosch was previously staff supervisor in the assistant general manager's department.

A native of Forest Park, Tosch joined the telephone company in Oak Park in 1928 as a station installer. He has held a number of plant department jobs including central office maintenanceman, testman, and wire chief before being named division staff supervisor in 1947. He has served in his present position since March, 1960.

TOSCH IS AN active member of St. Paul's church in Mt. Prospect and has served on the village planning commission. He is also a member of the Telephone Pioneers, an organization of active and retired telephone company employees, with 21 or more years service, who devote their time to helping their community.

Woodworking and general home repairs occupy much of Tosch's leisure time.

MRS. TOSCH is a former Illinois Bell employee, having worked in the Oak Park business office.

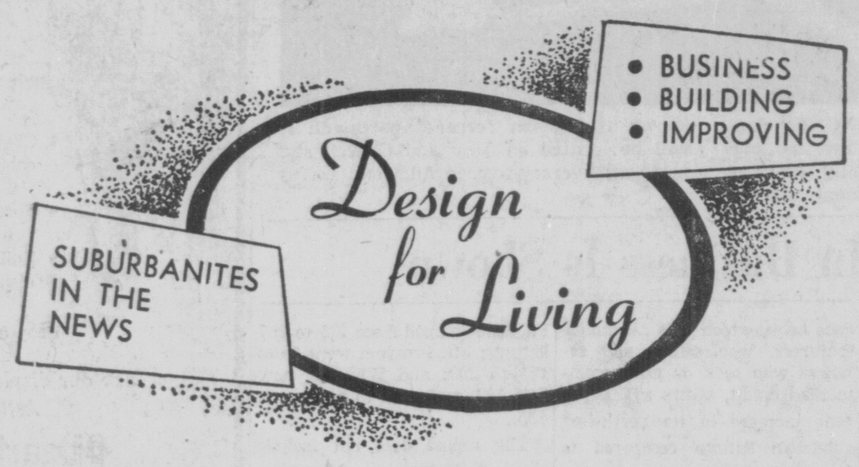
Mr. and Mrs. Tosch have a son, Gregory, 9. The family will move to Springfield in the near future.

Attends Education Confab

Robert Stacey, 1525 N. Kenicott, Arlington Heights, attended the 107th annual meeting of the Illinois Education association in the Hotel Sherman, Chicago, December 27-29. He is a member of the Prospect high school faculty.

Stacey teaches 11th grade English at Prospect and is district 214 representative to the Lake Shore division of the association.

The assembly which met last week considered problems in school finance, state aids, and other matters directly related to the profession of teaching.



ABOUT 175 Northern Illinois Gas company employes who are union officers in the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) heard NI-Gas President Marvin Chandler and other gas company executives review the company's progress during 1960 and tell of plans for the future. The day-long conference was held December 20 at the River Forest Country Club. Among those in attendance were (l. to r.) Elmer A. Wolff, 209 N. Eastwood, Mt. Prospect; Wayne Tripple, 8836 LaCrosse, Skokie; Harvey A. Schaefer, 217 N. Maple, Mt. Prospect; and Roger P. Streetz, 22 S. Elm st., Mt. Prospect.

Prudential Agent Attains $1 Million Mark in Sales

George E. Keough, 3404 Oriole lane, Rolling Meadows, an agent in the Prudential Insurance company's Palatine district office, has passed $1,000,000 in sales for 1960. Announcement of his achievement was made by Henry C. Bauer, Palatine manager.

GEORGE KEOUGH

KEOUGH NOW stands 14th in Prudential's president's trophy race among agents throughout the nation. The trophy is awarded each year to the leading agent in the sale and service of life, sickness and accident, and group insurance among the company's more than 20,000 district agents.

A native of Evanston Keough joined Prudential in November, 1948 as an agent in the company's Lakeview office. Prior to entering insurance he was in charge of sales and service for the Singer Sewing Machine company.

A 1945 graduate of Loyola academy, he also attended Loyola university for one year. During World War II he served with the United States Marine corps aboard the USS West Point. (BB

Pay Record Dividends To Savers

Oak Park Federal Savings and Loan association has announced that the $110 million firm paid $3,184,470 in dividends to savers during 1960.

Recapping the past year's savings activity, President John P. Domeier said, "The association continues to grow. Nearly 15,000 new savers joined the Oak Park Federal savings family. More than $38,000,000 in new savings were deposited during the year.

"With continued emphasis placed on the safety and profitability of savers' funds, and the convenience of saving by mail, we expect another year of swift growth in 1961!" (BB

$1 Million Addison Project Gives Ownership Advantage

Ground has been broken this week for a new $1,000,000 multiple dwelling development aimed at combining two principal advantages of owning real estate.

The 24 one-story, ranch-style four-flats, which will be known as Addison Terrace apartments, are designed to provide the pleasures of a private home along with the financial benefits of investment property.

ADDISON Terrace apartments will occupy some four and one-quarter acres of land with frontage on May and Church streets, north of Diversey ave. in the Village of Addison. Buildings and apartments will be for sale or rent.

Sponsors of the project are Eugene Matanky and Associates, Inc., realtors at 5305 N. Broadway, Chicago, and Marilyn home builders, Inc., of Bensenville.

The Matanky firm not only is acting as sales and rental agent, but was instrumental in determining the highest and best use of the land and in organizing an investment group for the initial financing.

Eugene Matanky, president of the realty firm, said the type of building to be constructed was created for the twofold purpose of offering home ownership and an investment opportunity.

ALL BUILDINGS, according to Arnold Arnoff, president of the construction corporation, will be of solid face brick masonry construction with basements and parking space in the rear. Each multiple unit will have one two-bedroom apartment and three one-bedroom apartments.

Apartments will be individually heated by gas and will have provision for air conditioning. All will feature colored bathroom fixtures and color co-ordinated refrigerators and built-in ovens and ranges. Floors will be hardwood.

Target date for completion of the first building is early spring. (BB

NEW MULTIPLE DWELLING development for Addison will feature 24 one story ranch style, four family flats as shown above. The development will be known as Addison Terrace apartment. It will be located on May and Church sts. north of Diversey ave. in Addison. (BB

Bensenville Man Will Assist With Global Symposium

Fred L. Hilton, 718 Algonquin st., Bensenville, has been selected to help guide the fifth national symposium on global communications, to be held May 22 through 24, in the Hotel Sherman, Chicago.

The conference, sponsored by the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, and the professional group on communications systems of the Institute of Radio Engineers, will be one of the most important gatherings of electronics communications experts in the country during the year, according to officers. It is expected to attract over 1,000 engineers, scientists, and managers from here and abroad. In professional jargon, it is known as GLOBECOM V.

FRED L. HILTON

Hilton, who is manager of the environmental test and standards department for Motorola, Ins., is serving as chairman of exhibits, assisting Dr. William L. Firestone, also of Motorola, who is general chairman.

Lawrence Institute of Technology granted Hilton the degree of Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering in 1941. He was engaged in the development of Navy radar and communications equipment at the Naval Research laboratories in Washington from 1941 to 1945. He then moved to Raytheon Mfg. Co., in Chicago, designing FM radio transmitters. He joined Motorola in 1947, first working on transmitters, then receiving his present position in 1957.

He has been active in professional society affairs, serving on committees or as an officer of the Institute of Radio Engineers, the Electronic Industries association, and the Society of Automotive Engineers. A Senior Member of I. R. E., he is presently the secretary of the Chicago chatper of its professional group on vehicular communications. Some of his technical writings have been published by the societies.

He has taken special executive training at the University of Chicago. He resides at 718 Algonquin st., Bensenville.

Area Growth In Business Is Shown

The growth of the business population in northwest suburban Cook county during the past year is reflected in statistics released this week by J. W. Hight, district manager of the Chicago office of Dun and Bradstreet.

The Dun and Bradstreet reference book, which lists all manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers who seek or grant commercial credit, shows a 13.4 per cent increase in its northwest suburban listings compared to last year's figures.

ARLINGTON Heights added 51 listings and now totals 403; Palatine jumped from 235 to 267 listings; Mt. Prospect went from 173 to 202; and Wheeling now lists 162, compared to last year's 135.

The report does not include some of the service and professional businesses such as beauty and barber shops, security dealers and real estate brokers.

New Policy Is Offered By Company

Country Life Insurance company has announced a new health insurance program offered to Illinois residents. Country Life Insurance company writes insurance exclusively for Illinois residents.

According to William J. Kuhfuss, president of the company, the decision to enter this field stems directly from the tremendous need. "Today's family must have protection for hospital, doctor and medical bills when sickness or accident strikes in this modern age," Kuhfuss stated. "Going into this field of protection is a giant step for an insurance company to take, but our surveys show the need is great for all families and we intend to do our best to fulfill that need," he concluded.

Who Are Illinois' 8 Elite Autoists?

Eight automobile owners moved into the elite group of Illinoisans sporting license plates below the number 100, according to a report on 1961 license sales released through the Secretary of State's office.

The numbers are ordinarily reassigned to last year's holders, providing the registrants take advantage of the reassignment provision of the law.

LICENSE NUMBER 15 was issued to Mayor Richard Daley's wife in Chicago, and one persons, Oscar W. Ellis of Moline, moved up the line from 60 to number 8. The other six changes added up to what was termed "an unusually large turnover," falling one short of tying at least a 25 year record of nine, set in 1958.

The list of "the 100" includes the Catholic Bishop of Chicago (1), Edna Austin of Oak Park (2), Mrs. Charles F. Carpentier (3), Mrs. Shirley Stratton 6), Dr. Preston Bradley of Chicago (9), Edward Barrett (21) and Jeanne Barrett (22). (BB

More Value in Home Dollar Seen in 1961 by Builder

"Value plus" will be the key benefit home prospects can expect to see in the 1961 home market, according to a leading Northwest suburban builder.

"Prices and interest rates won't come down, but builders will be putting more value into their homes than ever before in order to compete," according to Albert E. Riley, president of Hasbrook Construction Co., Inc., Arlington Heights.

Riley reported his firm is anticipating a 20 per cent sales increase in 1961 over its 1960 performance.

THE BIG TRICK for the builder in the coming year, Riley said, is to build in greater value without increasing the cost to the buyer or shaving his own already thin profit margin. To turn the trick, the builder has several choices:

—He can alter the basic design of the house to provide larger rooms, at the same time doing away with space that is not absolutely essential.

—He can build on lower-cost land, thus shifting the house-land cost ratio in favor of the house.

—He can put more emphasis into certain rooms of the house which will be important to families in 1961. Riley believes these areas will be the kitchens and bathroom. In 1960, the focal point was the patio and outside living areas.

"Buyers will find more cabinets and more built-in equipment, like can openers, in kitchens in 1961, in keeping with this trend," he said.

—Finally, the builder can take advantage of production efficiencies by seeking to enlarge his operations. (BB

Plant Chief For Eastern Telephone Co.

James A. Holmstrom, native of Bensenville, has been transferred from the Richmond, Va., office of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company to Williamsburg, Va., as plant wire chief.

He had been in the engineering department of the Richmond office for the past four years, the last three of which he also attended the University of Richmond. His work in Richmond was with large dial office and switchboard equipment.

HOLMSTROM was previously with the sales and servicing department and the plant department of the company.

A graduate of Bensenville public schools, he is a veteran of four years in the Navy, is married and the father of three children. His mother, Mrs. Lina Holmstrom, resides at 16W436 Grove ave., Bensenville.

47% Gain in Year

Illinois Toll Road Revenue Increasing

JACK D. HUGHES, 620 S. Pine, Arlington Heights was recently presented an Outstanding Honor placque by Brownie scout Debbie Box and Cub scout Bruce Koeppen on behalf of the 3,500 girl and boy scouts in the city of Des Plaines. Hughes served as campaign chairman of the Des Plaines Community Chest drive. He is an executive vice president of Littlefuse company, Des Plaines. (BB

Now nearing the end of its second full year of operation, the 187-mile Illinois tollway has recorded a 47.5 per cent gain in net revenues over its first year's operation.

Total net revenues for 1960 are estimated to be $15,144,516, representing a gain of $10,264,820 over 1959 net revenue of $4,879,696. This is based on a gross revenue estimate of $20,791,900 as compared to 1959 gross revenues of $14,945,830 or 39.1 per cent, the largest growth of any of the major toll highways for second year operation.

Charles L. Dearing, executive director of the Illinois State Toll Highway commission, said that this year's revenue would approximate $20,065,000 in toll revenue, $665,534 in concession revenue, and $61,366 in interest and miscellaneous income.

REVENUE FOR the tollway for 1961 is estimated to be $25,140,000, an increase of 20 per cent over this year's revenue, Dearing said. This anticipated revenue will provide a coverage of 106 per cent of interest costs and maintenance and operating costs. During 1960, net earnings were approximately 88 per cent of interest and operating costs.

A. H. Knauerhaze, finance officer-comptroller, reported that the commission's interest reserve account would contain approximately $24,000,000 by the end of this year and would be reduced to approximately $15,300,000 as of January 1, 1961, after payment of the January 1, 1961, interest coupon of $8,593,981 on the $441,279,000 bond obligations.

During the latter part of the year, the tollway gained valuable connections with the opening of the Northwest, Edens, and Congress street Expressways to complete the integration of the tollway-expressway system in the Chicago area. In addition, the direct access ramps from the tollway to O'Hare airport provided additional entrances and increased the tollway's attractiveness. In Indiana, the Tri-State expressway was extended to Broadway (Indiana 53) in Gary, improving the connection with the Indiana toll road.

A total of 31,115,000 vehicles traveled more than 884,000,000 miles on the Illinois tollway during the past year. Peak days of travel were July 31 and August 21 when traffic revenues exceeded $100,000. The year's low in traffic revenue was $21,880 on February 10. Average daily revenue for the year was $54,822. Commercial traffic revenue for the year will aggregate about $3,870,000 or 19.3 per cent of total toll revenue.

A TOTAL OF 17 persons lost their lives in traffic accidents on the Illinois tollway in 1960 to establish a fatality rate of 1.9 per 100,000,000 vehicle miles of travel. This compares with 1959 fatality rates of 2.8 for all toll highways and 5.4 for all U. S. roads, including toll roads.

Despite a 40 per cent increase in traffic, assistances rendered by the tollway patrol to stranded motorists were about the same as in 1959.

Merwin Shurberg, director of operations, said that the tollway patrol, a special detachment of the Illinois state police, assisted 22,000 motorists in 1960 as compared with 21,000 in 1959.

Shurberg attributed the percentage drop in the number of motorists requiring assistance to a growing awareness on the part of the motoring public of how to drive on limited-access expressways.

"We find, for example, that many more motorists are now checking their tires, gas supply, and mechanical condition of their cars before using the tollway and other expressways in the Chicago area," he said.

DURING 1960, the tollway patrol made 9,017 arrests of which 3,800 were for speeding violations.

George L. Jackson, chief engineer of the tollway, said that the commission was especially proud of its excellent record of highway maintenance despite severe snow storms in January and February of 1960.

"Since the tollway opened to traffic in 1958, none of the 187 miles of mainline pavement has ever been closed because of weather conditions," Jackson said.

Elmhurst Bank Will Honor V.P.

Otto A. Popp, vice-president of the Elmhurst National bank, will retire January 3, 1961 after having completed 51 years of service.

Donald M. Carlson, president of the bank, stated that the directors, officers and employees will honor Popp at a luncheon December 31 at the Elmhurst National bank.

A resident of Elmhurst since 1907, Popp has observed the growth of both the bank and the city. In 1909, on the day after Christmas, he began work as a teller at the bank, which then had a staff of three; a cashier, a bookkeeper and himself. The population of Elmhurst was somewhere around 3,000 and it was easy to know "almost everybody," he said. He also served the bank as assistant cashier and cashier before becoming vice-president in 1951.

BORN ON a farm near Mannheim rd. in Cook county, Popp spent most of his early life in Churchville. Before joining the bank staff he worked with a wholesale fruit house on S. Water st., Chicago.

During World War I, he served with the Illinois National Guard, 33rd division for a year in this country and about a year in France. He is a charter member of Post 187, American Legion, and has served the post as finance officer.

A member of St. Peter church, Popp served as secretary of the church council for ten years. He bowled for many seasons with the Good Fellowship league and also is a member of Elmhurst lodge 941, AF & AM.

He and his wife, Amanda, live at 140 Pine st., Elmhurst. They have two sons, John, of Elmhurst and James, of Villa Park and four grandchildren.

Gardens of World Will Be Featured In McCormick Place

A walk through gardens of the world will be one of the major attractions at the third annual Chicago World Flower and Garden show, sponsored by the Chicago Horticultural society, in McCormick Place from March 11 to March 19.

According to Harold O. Klopp of Palatine, show designer, who plans to take full advantage of Chicago's immense new $35,000,000 Exposition Center, the basic landscape designs of France, England, Spain and Japan will be incorporated in the largest flower exhibition ever presented in this country.

MASSES OF red and white tulips surrounding a French grille will be one feature of the formal pattern of design in the tropical garden of France.

Top prize winning roses of 1960 will be one attraction of the garden of England. It also will feature two levels - a pool on the upper level and an array of heliotropes and primulas on the lower level.

Blending a mosaic design in an array of potted plants demonstrates the use of the patio in the garden of Spain.

"SHIBUI," THE word for the "highest level of beauty" is the description of the contribution of Japan. This Japanese garden represents natural scenery complete without the aid of flowering plants.

Klopp states he has planned the Chicago World Flower and Garden show with the thought that the touch of the far away will present new ideas that Chicagoans have been looking for. (BB

Center Offers Courses for Teachers

Northern Illinois university has announced the opening of an Extension center in Lombard, Ill., where evening courses will be offered for the purpose of training college educated men and women to qualify for teaching certificates in the state. The education courses offered will provide 16-semester credit hours necessary to teach in the elementary or secondary schools.

The first two courses to be offered in the series will be Educational Psychology, starting February 9 at 6:30 p. m.; and Teaching of Art in the Elementary School, starting February 7 at 6:30 p. m. Both classes will meet one night a week at Lombard Junior high school, 200 W. Madison.

DR. JOSEPH Clettenberg, Director of Extension, will be at the Junior high to register students on January 16 at 10 a. m. Additional information may be obtained from Mrs. Joseph Koach, MA 7-0491, or Mrs. Frank Beckwith, MA 7-2935.

NIU established the extension center because of the overwhelming response to the pilot program which began in February, 1959. The Lombard project was instrumental in providing 40 new teachers. Enrolled were 154 students coming primarily from DuPage county, but residents from nearby Cook, Will and McHenry counties took advantage of Lombard's centralized location.

The courses serve three groups of people: those who have degrees and wish to teach now, those who have family responsibilities and look forward to entering the teaching profession in the future and teachers now on provisional certificates who seek the necessary courses to qualify them for regular certificates.

Moberg Is Promoted With Bell

ALFRED R. MOBERG

Alfred R. Moberg Jr., 269 Pleasant Hill, Palatine, has been promoted to district engineering manager, Chicago south division, Illinois Bell Telephone company.

Dun and Bradstreet List Reflects Business Gains

Statistics released today by J. W. Hight, district manager of the Chicago office of Dun and Bradstreet, reflect the growth of the business population in suburban Cook county during the past year. Figures obtained from a physical count of the Dun and Bradstreet Reference book for January, 1961, totaled 17,256 manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers in this area as compared to 16,626 in January, 1960, an increase of 3.8 per cent for the period.

The Dun and Bradstreet Reference book lists all manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers who seek or grant commercial credit. It does not include some of the service and professional businesses such as beauty and barber shops, security dealers and real estate brokers.

USING THE Dun and Bradstreet Reference book listings as a guide, it is interesting to review what has happened in four northwest suburban communities during the past year, showing impressive gains represented by new shopping centers, auto dealers, service businesses and industrial concerns.

Arlington Heights' listings in the Reference book increased from 352 in January, 1960 to 403 in January, 1961, a gain of 51.

Palatine has registered 267 as of this month, a gain of 32 over last January.

Mount Prospect's total listings in the book are 202, whereas in January, 1960, the total was 173, showing a gain of 29.

Wheeling's gain is 27, according to the January, 1961 listing of 162 over last January's listing of 135.

Wins Award

For the second consecutive month and for the sixth time this year, Melvin R. Thomas, special representative in Wheeling, for the Franklin Life Insurance company, Springfield, Ill., has won monthly production honors in the firm's national sales organization.

Ranking among the company's 25 leading producers for November, he will again be awarded membership in the Franklin President's Club.

Library Features Books about Aged

Thursday, Jan. 5, 1961

The White House Conference on Aging this January will focus national attention on the problems confronting the nation's older people. Subjects to be considered are all part of the basic problems—economic security, health, housing, and full, productive living.

Helpful books on all aspects of these problems are available at the Arlington Heights Memorial library, according to Mrs. Evelyn Stadelman, librarian.

A NUMBER of volumes, including I. Salmon's "Retire and Be Happy," urges conscious planning ahead, while specific problems of retirement are discussed in such books as "The Golden Years," by Thomas Collins, and "Retirement," by Gifford Hart, which gives a new outlook for the individual. "When Your Husband Retires" by Mollie Hart, compliments her husband's book with a "feminine look at the picture of a man in the house all day long."

Suggestions for making the later years richer and more productive are given in "How to Retire and Enjoy It." by Ray Giles, "Save It, Invest It, and Retire," by Donald T. Rogers and Marguerite Ickis' "Handicrafts and Hobbies for Recreation and Retirement."

Still another book, Julietta Arthur's "How to Help Older People," is a practical guide which treats all phases of planning for a family's older members. A

'Swiss Family' Is Top Family Fare by Disney

by JIM PHILLIPS

One thing about Disney -- when he creates for the whole family, he doesn't fool around "Swiss Family Robinson" is excellent in every detail -- from ostrich-riding to pirate-chasing.

Done in the usual light-hearted, but exciting Disney vein, "Swiss" is attractive in its color and use of Panavision. The stars come off well as "real-lifers," thanks to able direction and production by the gang from Culver City, California. You'll find John Mills in the role of the father, Dorothy McGuire as Mom Robinson, and Tommy Kirk, Kevin Corcoran, and James MacArthur as the boys. Janet Munro portrays an attractive edition of a caught-in-the-clutches-of-pirates English girl. Everybody appeared to have had a whale of a good time doing this picture -- it shows from the acting.

IF YOU'RE IN doubt about whether you can place the story -- this is the tale of the family which sets out to sea and gets shipwrecked on an island. I know this sounds crudely trite, but that is the basic story.

It's what happens after the shipwreck that really makes the whole affair enjoyable to watch. The family sets out to tame the wilderness, build a home starting from scratch, and live on the fruits and plants of their new jungle address.

Those of you who have read the original novel will notice some changes in the plot, (a la Disney) but most of them are easy-to-take, especially the comedy.

The kids will like the wild-animal scenes, and the minutes devoted to the rescue of Janet Munro from her pirate captors are good, old-fashioned harem-scarem.

Sessue Hayakawa is again a good bet as villain of the year. He's a capable pirate leader, family-style (if there is such a thing!). Taking animals, plants, shipwrecks, pirates, and occasional family frustrations into consideration, "Swiss" will prove worth your money at the box office.

Capsule Comment: "Swiss Housekeeping Seal of Approval."

HIROSHIMA, MON AMOUR:

"You are Hiroshima!" gasps our heroine (Emmanuele Riva).

"You are Nevers!" gasps our hero (Eiji Okada).

And that's the end of the picture (Zenith International). Critics raved, tossed bouquets, talked about the symbolism in the movie as if they knew what each little split-second cut from one scene to another meant. The movie won awards all over the place. The only question is: awards for what? The black-and-white photography is excellent, yes. Award-winning? Well, that's another story. The acting isn't bad—but?

THE MOVIE is producer-director Alain Resnais' idea of how to get on the international bandwagon for peace -- how to outlaw the A and H-bombs. He shows you the scars of Hiroshima and its people, and tells you it shouldn't happen again -- but in the middle of all this "March of Timeness" comes a very weird, if not entirely ridiculous love story.

A French movie actress comes to Hiroshima to make a movie about the horrors of that city's experience. She becomes involved with a Japanese architect, he becomes involved with her, you become involved as soon as you encounter the English subtitles against the French audios and visuals. The opening scene (if you haven't heard already) shows the two lovers in a passionately-naked embrace. And what does our heroine talk about while all this is going on? The horrors of Hiroshima, her experiences in a French town called Nevers (she played footsies with the enemy, had her hair cut off, and spent the better part of her young life in a dingy, dewdrop-drenched cellar.)

Also, while making love in this opening scene, our heroine is giving out with philosophical meanderings about war, heroics, the past, the future, and -- well, we're back to Hiroshima again! At any rate, what could have been two clearly-defined movies turns out to be a political potpourri of love, Japanese beer (the heroine can really put it away!) and symbolism which I'll bet my last pint of Suki-Yaki only the producer can explain.

"HIROSHIMA, Mon Amour" is a mediocre effort with an undefined idea. Or is it ideas? Anyway, I can tell you what one woman said as she walked out of the theater: "War should be outlawed, but how can it if the only people worrying about the subject are making love in Japan?"

If there are groups of people in Paddockland who are setting up film festivals and are interested in completing their programs, "Hiroshima, Mon Amour" will not only guarantee a strange finish, but will probably have audiences wondering whether they should come back for a further dose the following year!

'CinderFella' New Jerry Lewis Farce

Once upon a time there was a fairy tale called "Cinderella." That was "once upon a time."

Beginning Friday the Catlow theatre, Barrington, will present the modernized version of that legend, with more than a few changes necessary to tailor the tale to the fantastic talents of Jerry Lewis, who will be seen in the title role of CinderFella."

The Technicolor comedy with music was produced by Jerry Lewis himself, for Paramount release, and co-stars Ed Wynn, Judith Anderson, Henry Silva, Robert Hutton with Count Basie and his World Renowned Band featuring Joe Williams—and Anna Maria Alberghetti as "The Princess."

NOT only has Cinderella been transformed into a Fella, but Fairy Godmother has become Fairy Godfather, personified by the lovable Ed Wynn who, with this role, returns to his original forte—comedy, after having proved a tremendous success as a dramatic actor on television and in motion pictures.

The ugly stepsisters become mean stepbrothers, played by Henry Silva and Robert Hutton. Only the wicked stepmother retains her original sex and she is portrayed by the acknowledged first lady of classic drama, Judith Anderson.

The role represents quite a switch for the star who played Medea and Lady Macbeth, among other tragic ladies of literature, but since it requires her to be cold and aloof, she is still able to retain her dignity in spite of the pandemonium that swirls around her.

The Prince of "Cinderella" becomes the beautiful Princess in "CinderFella." She is played by Anna Maria Alberghetti, who returns to movie work after a two-years' absence during which the petite singing star made nightclub appearances and did dramatic work on television. Bill

At The Catlow Tomorrow

FAIRY GODFATHER ED WYNN waves his magic wand and wonderful things begin to happen to "CINDERFELLA" portrayed by none other than Jerry Lewis. The sparkling musical-comedy opens Friday for a five day engagement at the Catlow Theatre in Barrington. Judith Anderson portrays Cinderfella's wicked stepmother, and Anna Marie Alberghetti stars as the princess.

PALATINE: Ray Wilson says he is not to blame for the windy weather and he wishes the people to realize that he has not enough newsboys employed to hold every man's paper until the customer comes and gets it. If they will have a hammer and nail outside the door, Ray will see that the papers are nailed to the doorstep . . . A cloud of sorrow was cast over Palatine's New Year's celebrations when news of the sudden death of Mr. Ed Timmermann was passed around. He was a young man, born Dec. 14, 1874, baptized in 1878, and married Jan. 23, 1897 to Sophia Tegtmeier. He leaves to mourn, his widow, and five children, the last two being twins and only 17 months old. Besides his family, he leaves his father and mother, three brothers and a step brother and step sister.

ITASCA: Miss Clara Goeddeke and Mr. Frank Slanker, two of our popular young people were united in marriage New Year's Eve. They will make their home in Itasca.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS: Messrs. Robert Reed, Charles Sigwalt and William Humphrey, three surviving members in this locality, of the 88th Regy. Illinois Volunteers Infantry, are reminded every New Years of the awful battle at Stone River near Murfreesboro, Tenn., in which they participated Jan. 1, 1863. Rosecrans is reported to have lost one third of his army in the varying conflict of several days of defeat and victory; but finally drove the rebels from their strong position in the woods.

Every gent should give his lady a delightful sleighride these lovely moonlight nights.

Lots of cold among the Presbyterians; the Methodists seem to have escaped so far. Illness is reported from all over the community.

Community: Farm Advisor C. E. Durst has gone to a bigger job and resigned as farm advisor in this area. He has gone to the Illinois Agricultural Society to have charge of the truck marketing problems. He will remain as farm advisor until his successor is found.

Arlington Heights: Wilmette and other suburbs are arguing about robbins. Ours stay here all winter.

The New Year comes smiling in with a first rate brand of real California weather—what more do you want?

Mrs. Dyas who was appointed to have charge of placing and distribution of Red Cross seals, sent in her report of work completed by the schools and other interests, which netted over $200. Now wasn't that a splendid report.

Changes in the business section of town: Mr. James Reese sold out his grocery store on account of poor health. The stock was taken over by other merchants, mostly by the Davis Co. U. A. Reese sold out his undertaking business to Arthur Lauterburg and Mr. Oehlers of Des Plaines. By their gentle manner and quiet efficient service these gentlemen have won high praise from all who have had need of them in performing the last offices for the dead.

Petterson & Kehe sold their garage to Wetterman; Kolling Brothers sold the building in which for so many years they had their machine shop and made corn shredders and other instruments. Mr. Crofut purchased the property and plans to open a manufacturing business of his own. He has a little device, which it is claimed is in great demand, a hand stapler, which he intends to produce as soon as the property is remodeled and he can perfect his affairs in the city.

You who have been purchasing diamonds, especially the newlyweds, will know all about our new firm of enterprising jewelers—Redekers.

Mrs. Wiesenbach's lunch room is now carried on by Mrs. Olah, who does skillful things to satisfy your appetite. Then there's Sadecky's grocery store in the old Busch building. Fresh fruit and vegetables just as in Chicago markets. In the Reese Bldg. we have the new firm of The Gage Motor Sales Co. They will sell you new motors, or massage or osteopath and make entirely new our old ones. They are managed by Rolly (J. R.) Wilke. L. B. Wayman & Sons have moved their electrical supplies and machinery into the old Arlington Hall recently purchased by Mr. Wayman. Another change or selling out of a business, was the Nichols dairy route, which was taken over by Herman Nebel. Mustn't overlook the new concrete block and cement works carried on by Fred Neuman and Grandt. Kreft is preparing to enlarge his works, having additional space on the Dietman ground, recently purchased. In that group is the Volz Co., W. B. Beardsley plant. Shillo pickle works, Kreft's block works, and to be added the E. W. A. Rowles Co. And Dr. Sanford has quit boring holes in our jaws and is going to bore holes in the ground to get oil to light the doctor's way in to the millionaire's class. Observer's Notes. Arlington Heights State bank can boast of something that probably no other bank in the state can, namely both state representatives(the 7th district) members of the same board of directors.

Bensenville: News Monday morning that the corner between Ehler Bros. business block and Railroad avenue has been purchased and that a mammoth business block is soon to be erected, startled the populace of this fast growing suburban town.

Bensenville and Roselle tie in fast hockey game. Playing for Bensenville, Wolfe, Kolze, E. Rehe, Landmeier, Korthauer, Behrens, and for Roselle: Pahlman, Biesterfelt, Karner, Yoder, Page and Hattendorf. Spares for Bensenville, Hedges, Schoppee, and F. Reber. The water for this bond is furnished by the Village Board; everybody is welcome to skate there. The Flashes are keeping the ice in shape, and they are the ones who banked up the lot and leveled it out so that it could be possible to have a skating pond in Bensenville.

Roselle: Died, Mary Siems, nee Hitzemann, born in Barrington township, April 14, 1859, baptized May 1, 1859, confirmed in Rodenberg, and on Feb. 24, united in marriage to Henry Siems. Four children were born to this union. Death occurred January 5, age 71 years, 8 months and 21 days. Deceased leaves three sons, one daughter, three brothers and one sister. Burial in Trinity Cemetery at Roselle.

Arlington Heights: With a busy state highway passing through the center of Arlington Heights, the police department found plenty of reason for arresting motorists, who paid fines totalling $3,300 during 1940. None of this money goes to the police department directly as it is credited to the general fund of the village. However, the receipt of that much money has a beneficial effect to the general finances of the village.

Responsibility for collection of business licenses also rests with the police department, which according to the final report for the year totaled $2,194.50 for 80 business firms and contractors. Village vehicle tags were sold to 1,483 local residents, bringing in $4,563. Incidentally, the police car used one gallon of gas for every vehicle tag sold. The hospitality of the police showers were extended to 237 hoboes during the year, who had the opportunity of a shower bath with soap and towels included.

Supt. Luehring reports $945 profit in the village service dept.

Rev. R. J. Kalwitz, after serving St. John Evangelical church for the past four and a half years, has accepted the position of associate pastor of Tabor Evangelical church of Milwaukee.

Schaumburg: Funeral services will be held Sunday at Schaumburg Lutheran church for Louis Kastning, prominent farmer of Schaumburg township.

Some of the politicians are the proud recipients of the gold embossed invitational cards to the inaugural ball to be held Monday, January 13 at Springfield.

Palatine: Spring Signs: This may seem to be a queer time to be talking about Spring. What with the Hackbarth cactus and the old timers' ember days having quite a scrap these days as to whether it is going to be a real winter or an open one, spring discussions normally would be far away. But right after New Years the first signs of spring appear in the post office with the advent of the first seed catalogue. When one looks at those pictures of luscious red tomatoes, great big potatoes, tempting sweet corn, crisp radishes and healthy spinach, he forgets all about the snow storms the cactus is trying to promote and the dark damp days that the ember days forecast. SWINGIN' SQUARES

Tomorrow night, ushers in the first dance of 1961 for the Arlington Heights Swingin' Squares, who invite all area square dancers to come out and get into the do-ci-doings of this growing club. Officers announce an increase in membership as the new year begins and, although everyone is welcome at club dances at any time, they encourage would-be joiners to get on the membership roll.

Further information may be had by contacting the John Mengels, 118 S. Phelps, Arlington Heights, Cl 5-6528.

Tomorrow's dance will be from 8:30 to 11 p.m. in the Recreation Park field house, 500 E. Miner, Arlington Heights, where Don Finfrock calls the turns. An hour of sociability over refreshments will wind up the evening. It's the same time, same place, each first and third Friday of every month and guests are always welcome, no reservations necessary.

THE THIRD Friday this month is designated "Old Timers Night" and a fine program of some of the older calls is being planned. Club officers say, "If you haven't square danced for several years, come on out and live a little!"

The Swingin' Squares Christmas party dance was one of the largest of the season with 23 guest couples joining members for the holiday fun. Caller Don Finfrock's beginners classes were among the guests and enjoyed with the veterans the fine program of square and round dancing.

Don and his wife, Kay, engaged the group in the mixer "Jingle Bell Rock" and the field house rocked accordingly. Everyone also participated in the grab-bag drawing and between rocking and wrappings the hall looked like a dress rehearsal for Christmas eve. (B9

'Barber Shop' Concert Slated

The Chicago No. I, Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, will present its 18th annual concert Saturday, January 14, at 8 p. m. at the Civic Opera House, Madison and Wacker dr., Chicago.

Featured on the program will be four of the country's finest quartets and the Wilmette North Shore Barber Shop Chorus.

Musicians Perform At Home for Aged

Highlight of the Christmas season for the National Music association was entertaining at the Arlington Lutheran Home for the Aged.

roup ae residents Christ-bgvg

Members of the choral group gave residents Christmas packages of cookies and candy which had been donated by the Eagle Food store, Rolling Meadows.

Residents joined the NMA to sing traditional carols. Among those presented by the choral group were Fred Waring's "Night Before Christmas," "My Two Front Teeth," "Christmas Music Song," in German, "O Holy Night," with Mrs. Ellen Janda taking the solo part.

THE GROUP also met for a Christmas party before their December 21 program to rehearse and enjoy dinner and a grab bag. The party was held at the home of Mrs. Rose Pfeiffer, Palatine.

New members are welcome to the group which is directed by Anthony Citrona. For information persons may call General 8-7493, Clearbrook 9-3257, or Flanders 9-0891.

Newspaper Must Assume Leadership in Suburbs

Problems Face Growing Areas

by CHARLES HAYES

The "beautiful dream of suburbia" will wither on the vine unless suburban newspapers assume and keep a position of responsible leadership in the community.

"If suburban newspapers are to survive as business enterprises and as part of thriving communities, facing and meeting problems, they must go into more than surface treatment of the news," declares Dr. Curtis D. MacDougall, professor of journalism at Northwestern university.

Stressing that complex suburban subjects cannot be tackled without sub-surface reporting, MacDougall said standard reporting does not get to the roots of the problems which threaten suburbia's future -- problems such as water supply, overlapping jurisdiction between governments, economic boundaries no longer coinciding with political boundaries.

MACDOUGALL was major speaker recently at an editorial conference of 40 suburban editors representing member newspapers in the Suburban Press Foundation, Inc. The meeting was held in the offices of Paddock Publications, 217 W. Campbell st., Arlington Heights.

One of the nation's top experts on newspapers and public opinion, MacDougall has concentrated on suburban research in the past few years. He told the editors that there "probably has never been a subject about which more sense and nonsense has been written in such a short time as the so-called suburban situation."

"It is to me utterly fantastic the extent to which the professionals ignore their own evidence in attempts to create a stereotyped image of suburbia," he said. Invariably this image emerges as an area of wide open spaces, expansive green lawns, power mowers, swimming pools, two-level houses with picture windows, lots of fresh air and no slums, no juvenile delinquents or organized crime, and no Democrats.

Such a caricature of reality may make a book into a best seller, and it may enable smart real estate men to dispose of their wares, said MacDougall. "But if it is taken seriously by an appreciable number of those with leadership responsibility in the alleged Utopias, it can lead to self hypnosis, paralysis of progressive effort, stagnation and disaster."

HE EMPHASIZED the responsibility of the emerging suburban press to dispel the recurring "myths" and "nonsense."

"The exploding population is no myth," explained MacDougall, "but it has created more problems for the suburbs than it has solved.

"The explosion has occurred so suddenly and violently that it has left anyone who tries to understand its implications reeling. The situation, furthermore, changes so often and so rapidly that it is difficult even to study it, and by the time the results of any survey are ready, new changes have occurred to make the earlier conclusions obsolete," he continued.

"There are many business, civic and other leaders who have not yet discovered many of the answers which they have got to find. And gentlemen, it is no longer idealistic or academic to try to get a broad view in perspective regarding what is happening. Rather it has become a matter of survival. Not only is there no such thing as a typical suburb, but the very definition of what constitutes any suburb needs re-examination."

TO ACHIEVE this needed perspective, MacDougall urged editors to apply techniques of reporting-in-depth.

"Interpretative journalism, as I define it, is socially responsible journalism," he explained. "I am pleading not for social idealism but for what has been proven to be good business sense.

"Prestige and reputation are the backbone of a paper's power. Every section of a newspaper must have integrity. No inferior product, at which people sneer, can long survive. Smug complacency is short-sighted and suicidal."

Dr. MacDougall paid tribute to the newly-chartered press foundation by describing it as the "most significant event in our field in many years," adding that suburban newspapers are the "most important future area of American journalism."

CHAIRMAN OF the day-long conference was William L. Dulaney, managing editor of Paddock Publications' 14 newspapers.

Dr. MacDOUGALL

WILLIAM DULANEY

C. K. HAYES

He told editors they were opening a new frontier in journalism -- "and as with most frontiers, our position as suburban journalists presents both an opportunity and a challenge."

"Our opportunity to prosper and grow should be obvious in the fact that our combined circulations are already reaching a half million persons in the Chicago suburban area," he said. "And this is just the beginning. In a nation that was once predominantly rural we have moved to an 85 per cent suburban concentration."

He said that we are in another tremendous population shift, not back to the farms, but to a point in between -- the suburbs.

"It is calculated that by 1965 suburban residents of the area will outnumber those in Chicago," declared Dulaney. "If our opportunity is obvious, so is the challenge with which we are faced: to define a role in this exploding growth, to make it clear to advertisers and readers just what our function is and why it is indispensable."

THE executive director of the Suburban Press Foundation, Chester K. Hayes, called upon publishers to show how suburban newspapers have kept pace with the dynamic growth of suburbia and that they are a virile and effective contact with that market.

A noted business-consumer communications expert, Hayes said the foundation would seek to "build a new, distinctive image for progressive suburban newspapers and establish suburban journalism as the new communication power, meeting the changing demands of this modern era of decentralized living."

The foundation was organized last year as a non-profit, cooperative research and development endeavor. Its president is Robert Y. Paddock, vice president of Paddock Publications, Inc.

The Way We See It

Local Govt. Is Hurt By Partisan Politics

With the smoke hardly cleared from November's elections, northwest suburbanites are faced with the prospect of another political battle whose results may bear frightful consequences for every phase of local government.

For the first time in the history of our suburbs, the much neglected township and justice of the peace offices are being seriously eyed by regular Republican and Democratic organizations.

Of little interest to persons living in incorporated communities, the archaic township unit of government, a holdover from rural days, ironically may serve as a fuse to ignite partisan political struggles over such vital areas as schools, municipal affairs, and parks.

Both Democratic and Republican leaders in the area have expressed concern that if the township and justice of the peace election in April is fought with party labels, it is but a matter of time until such labels will be found in other local elections, including school boards.

But while there is substantial agreement that party politics should not be injected into local government, there are accusations from both Democrats and Republicans that the other group has taken the initiative and is at fault.

Perhaps with the growing political potentcy of the suburbs, it is inevitable that the regular political organizations seek ways to strengthen their ranks and generate interest in party activities.

We oppose, however, any move that would threaten the outstanding schools, parks, and municipal governments that most of our communities have achieved by avoiding national party labels in local elections.

Nor do we feel that there is a Republican or Democratic way to repair township roads, as is the responsibility of the road and bridge commissioner. Nor is there a Republican or Democratic way of assessing or collecting taxes, jobs that fall in the township category.

Ideally, perhaps, would be a nonpartisan township caucus to nominate, after careful screening, the best men available for the justice of the peace and township offices. Such a caucus, however, would require a great deal of organization and planning. Some feel that such a venture would not succeed because of the lack of concern of homeowners with matters outside their immediate communities.

There is also talk of a coalition, with the two major parties putting up their best men.

We have no answer. The matter is complicated by personal ambitions of local politicos, incumbent "old timers," and independents.

We would, however, urge both parties to weigh carefully the consequences of attempting to strengthen their organizations at the expense of local institutions which have been built up and nutured to render outstanding service without resorting to partisan politics.

'Where's Our Township? How Do I Know Where You Put It—Whatever It Is?'

What's Behind Proposal To Appoint Rep. Hoffman?

Sometimes things that seem to be flattering turn out to be unflattering.

Such is the case with newspaper stories suggesting that Du Page county's representative in Congress, Elmer Hoffman, will be named to the powerful House rules committee. This committee acts as a traffic cop for legislation, deciding which bills get a green light, and flashing the red light for proposals it doesn't like.

It seems flattering that Du Page's congressman should be considered for membership on such a powerful body. Rep. Hoffman's committee assignment in the last Congress—merchant marine and fisheries—seemed quite inappropriate, since both fishing and navigation on Salt Creek, the Du Page river, and other local streams are at such a low ebb. It's probably been years since anyone caught a fish in Salt Creek.

The unflattering part of the Hoffman-for-rules-committee speculation is the innuendo that the congressman is peculiarly fitted to perpetuate a Republican alliance with mossback Democrats on the committee to block bills which might be passed if anyone in the House had a chance to vote on them.

If that is actually the intent of the powers that be, Rep. Hoffman should tell them that DuPage county has more to contribute than thwarting the will of the majority by parliamentary maneuvers.

State Financial Crisis Commands Top Priority

Illinois faces a critical emergency in revenue.

Governor-Elect Kerner has said that $265 million in additional revenue will be necessary in the 1961-63 budget period. Of that, nearly $200 million will be for school aid — maintaining the present level of state support with sharply increased public school enrollments.

In addition, common school aid under present law will have to be increased by $100 million if any reasonable attempt is to be made to match teacher-retirement contributions. Requests for net-operating-expense needs of the state universities total some $60 million more for the coming biennium.

It is also reported that requests for welfare and public aid may be increased by as much as $100 million for the next spending period.

All this adds up to Illinois' urgent need for new and additional revenue sources for the state treasury on an immediate basis. The Governor and Legislature should act swiftly to propose an amendment to the state Constitution that will permit real and substantial revenue reform.

'Shape of Death' Is Subject of New Study

by MARTIN E. MARTY

As we begin a new year of editorializing based on books, I am reminded that people often ask where the books discussed can be purchased.

Any book on a general topic can ordinarily be ordered from the large department stores or the major book stores such as Kroch's & Brentano's and Main Street.

I keep hoping that in the new shopping centers springing up northwest someone remembers or hopes that a market area of 250,000 people ought to be able to support a book store.

Well, religious books: books of Roman Catholic interest could be found at St. Benet's or St. Thomas More or any of the others; booksellers are glad to order out-of-stock books. Often the books we review are too new to be on shelves as yet.

Protestant books can be ordered from any of the denominational houses ("see the yellow pages") such as the Methodist Book Concern (today's book).

NOW TO today's book, and a serious but brief one it is: "The Shape of Death" (Abingdon, $2.25). Its author is Jaroslav Pelikan of the University of Chicago, whose "Riddle of Roman Catholicism" was so much discussed a year ago.

Despite the sound of the title in modern ears, the book is not morbid. It begins and ends with the theme: The core of the Christian faith is pessimism about life and optimism about God, and therefore hope for life in God.

The book studies "the shape of death" in five early church thinkers. This will be unfamiliar territory to most readers but Mr. Pelikan has a smooth, geometric way of talking about "the arc of existence," the "circle of immortality," the "triangle of mortality," the "parabola of eternity," and "the spiral of history."

Those are the chapter titles, but in case anyone thinks I only skimmed them for this review they are wrong. At the turn of the year all of us who have our heads above the table ought to use the time to reflect on the passingness of things and ourselves. What is more, I had lost a very good friend to death and all of us know how we need all the resources we ever knew to cope with the familiar unwelcome guest. So I read these pages carefully to see what was there for our time.

"OUR TIME" is not a good time to talk about death. Death as represented in the television westerns and mysteries is merely a technical fascination with gore and violence that has nothing to do with our ultimate fact. Death as whispered about by friends when it touches their circles is evaded terminologically: he 'passed on.'

Religion is so concerned with positive thinking and other evasions that modern people often turn the sequence around, to their detriment: "The core of modern life is optimism about life (we pretend there aren't any bombs) and pessimism about God, and therefore hopelessness in general."

"The Shape of Death" is a help within careful historical limits.

LIKE MOST of today's Biblical scholars, Dr. Pelikan is careful to show that the Christian hope and doctrine of the future has little to do with the idea of the immortality of the soul, though he is less critical than some ("We can learn from the Greeks as well as the Bible," he suggests).

As a Christian of any denomination would, he finds what answers there are in the cross of Jesus Christ. It might be a good idea to start a year with his last paragraph:

The cross leaves many questions unanswered, much of death uncharted. Men have pondered the mystery of their own death and wondered about the unknown. All the clinical information about death at our disposal only makes this wonder more haunting. The Christian view of death is not intended to supplement this clinical information with additional data about the human constitution. It is intended to give men the faith to live in courage and to die in dignity, knowing very little about the undiscovered country except that, by the grace of his cross, our Lord Jesus Christ has changed the shape of death. That is all we can know, that is all we need to know.

SUMMARY: but I've kept you too long this time, back among the ancients. The next two weeks we'll be modern and talk about health and bombs.

Letters to the Fence Post

High School Teachers Face Cost of Living Pressures

In reading your issue of the Rolling Meadows Herald of December 22, I came across a letter in the editorials from a "resident of Arlington Heights" concerning the low morale of the teachers in the "high school district."

It is quite true that both high schools voted to have a representative of the American Federation of Teachers Union speak before the faculties at a future date. The fact that a majority of the faculty voted for the meeting should not be surprising in that most of the teachers are inquisitive and like to hear how they may improve their position in life. Over 80 per cent of the combined certificated faculties within district 214 have a master's degree or better. Therefore, let us not assume that this vote was not neccessarily as a result of low morale.

THERE ARE other reasons for the majority of the faculties wanting to hear from a teacher's union. It is a practice of our district to make available to each member of the faculty a stipend of 50 dollars for professional organizations. However, of this stipend, the dues for the National Education Association and Illinois Education Association are automatically deducted. There are many teachers who would like the privilege of choosing their memberships into the NEA and IEA because they are best represented by these organizations. Perhaps this was a reason for some of the vote.

Some of the faculty members are quite disturbed over the rising costs of living in the area as opposed to the salary schedule. Although it is true that teachers salaries have gone up tremendously in the past decade within the district, the costs of living have climbed faster. In my hometown in the southern part of the state, the teacher's salaries range from $4200 for a master's degree to $5700 after 15 years of teaching. However, this income represents the average of the community. On the other hand, a beginning teacher in this district starts at $5000 and goes to $8700 after 15 years of teaching. This is the range for an area which has an average of almost $10,000. This places a person with a masters degree, or probably more, at the bottom or near the bottom of the area salaries. It is rather discouraging to a person with this background to have to pay the same prices for milk, eggs, butter, bread, haircuts, repairs, medicine, clothes, automobiles, insurance, furniture, appliances, and homes, as the majority of the residents who are making anywhere from 1/3 to 3/4 more income. Perhaps some of the vote was against this situation.

I WOULD LIKE to add that the vote was not an overwhelming majority. Although it was not as close as the national election, the vote was not unanimous. There were some of the faculty members who did not vote for the meeting because there were individuals who felt that whatever ills were responsible for the vote could be cured with time and patience.

Let me conclude by assuring the "resident" that all is not black within the high schools. By all means attend the PTC meetings, the board meetings, the schoolrooms, and whatever other public educative facilities that are open to the public. However, it is public apathy toward an honest effort and honest standard of living that causes low teacher morale. If these ills can be cured, I will almost guarantee the highest level of teaching the area could possibly desire.

Paper's Help Is Recognized

Now that the village hall referendum is behind us may I, on behalf of the Citizens Committee, say "thank you" to the Arlington Heights Herald for the fine coverage given to the work of the committee. This contributed significantly toward informing the people of Arlington Heights of the need for a new village hall.

Our special thanks to Bruce Ladd and Bill Dulaney for their efforts in developing the facts and presenting them clearly and concisely.

We are also deeply grateful to the League of Women Voters for all of their excellent assistance.

'Poor' Wins Praise of IPAC Chief

Your recent series of articles on "The Poor" in Illinoisr represents an extremely noteworthy and highly commendable publishing venture. It is heartening to find this kind of socially alert journalism in the Paddock publications with their widespread suburban coverage.

For, too frequently, we who are charged with responsibility for mitigation of the plight of the poor encounter attitudes of indifference or resentment toward this unfortunate group. Your enlightening series should do much to foster an awareness of the problem and recognition that attacking the causes of poverty and dependency is the only sound solution.

With deep appreciation for this expression of conscientious journalism.

Suburbia's Merits Weighed by Expert

Suburbia shouldn't be viewed as a sign of national decadence, declares Amos Hawley, chairman of the department of sociology at the University of Michigan.

He says those who think conformity exists in the suburbs forget the conformity of the past and of the congested city.

"The conformity of the manicured lawn, the charcoal grill in the back yard, and the do-it-yourself movement point, at least, to constructive uses of leisure time," Hawley explains, "and critics who view these trends as symptoms of a classless society, ignore the great proliferation of civic theaters and community orchestras, and the enormous increases in book sales in recent years."

"The real problems of the suburbs are earthy, technical and immediate," Hawley continued. They include increased demand for sewers, water, and other direct public services, he said.

WITH THE growth of suburbs, central cities lost most of their high income families and are subject to "absentee control" by civic leaders who live beyond their borders, Hawley said.

"Most of the leadership group who move away from the central city do not relinquish their leadership positions," he explained. "They continue to influence and often determine policies that have a major impact on the central city—policies that control employment, the volume of industrial production, the expansion or relocation of plants and fiscal matters in many areas of interest." News Story Raises Reader's Ire; Charges Misinformation

I am very displeased with an article published in the Rolling Meadows Herald. On the front page, 27:5 square inches was wasted news print. Why wasted? Because it was written by an uninformed person who is interested in selling papers, not in helping the people.

TVI is a little understood and much talked about subject. Many people suffer because of lack of education on the subject. Who then have the responsibility to give out the word? The F.C.C. has too many problems of their own to take time out with each complaint. Their efforts are then restricted to publishing an article which most have missed. The F.C.C. in the Chicago area put on a TV show explaining the problem and how to cope with it, but too few saw or even knew that the show was put on or another show was more interesting and the F.C.C. was turned off.

The TV manufacturer? Why should he speak up? It will cost him better engineering or the addition of a filter at greater expense to the product.

The "Ham"? Most people either refuse to listen or hurt themselves by not even letting him know that they have troubles. Amateur radio operators want to know of the interference and he is willing to help, if the complainant is willing to help the ham help him. The only way is to present it to the people in mass and hope that they will grasp and absorb the information presented.

THE BIG question: Where then is the burden of responsibility? Only a foolish one would say that a blanket rule is the answer. Each case is a problem of its own.

If the TV set is of good engineering design, is properly shielded, and the addition of a filter does not clear up the problem—the responsibility is on the shoulders of the Ham. If the TV set is of good engineering design and properly shielded and the addition of a filter does clear up the problem the responsibility is either the manufacturing company of the set, depending on company policy and warranty period, or the set owner. If the set owner refused to accept or even listen to the solution to the problem, or is hostile, then the burden of responsibility is on him, self inflicted.

To go into technical explanation would be the wrong approach as only the few with the background to understand such language would be able to understand and this would be unfair to the non-technical minded people. To go into a layman explanation would take much too much space. These are some of the reasons that it is difficult to reach those who honestly want to have the problem solved. Those who refuse to listen or are hostile in nature don't want the problem solved; if they did they would take time out to cooperate.

THE STANDARD counter encountered is "So what if the TV Company will supply the filter free? Who is going to pay for having it installed?" In the first place the installation is not more difficult than putting a new plug on an extention cord which most people have done at one time or another. For those who feel that a service man should put it on rather than themselves, they elect to spend the money of their own free will.

Where should the education have started? Before the purchase of the set. A filter could have been demanded at no expense and no TVI would ever be experienced. No one can honestly say that they didn't buy a product without trying their best for a good deal within the limits of their knowledge of the product. We have all ended up on the shot end on some purchase at some time because "we didn't know."

Story Was 'Disgrace' To Press

Your article " 'All American' Boy Returns" was a disgrace to the newspaper business. More important than that, it is an insult to every American that ever served his country, and especially those Americans who gave their lives for their country.

After having been given every opportunity to serve his country and after exhausting all peaceful means of drafting your "All American Boy," the federal government drafted him in handcuffs as the only way to get him to serve this great country.

THIS COUNTRY was not born nor built nor could it long survive with this type of American. The word American has no significance when we use it with so little discretion.

Anyone reading the Chicago newspapers of the past few months would know the complete story of how this boy was inducted into the army. Far too many good and loyal Americans have died for their country to let such articles go unchallenged.

University Bond Issue Aid Cited

It has been greatly encouraging to all of us at the University of Illinois that you and so many other civic-minded citizens brought such vigorous support to the Universities Bond Issue.

The universities are strong in proportion to the public understanding of their mission. If, as America believes, the education of youth and the discovery of new knowledge are at the heart of the future of our country, then we have a continuing task of the greatest importance in the public interpretation of educational affairs.

On behalf of the university, I thank you sincerely for your personal participation in the Universties Bond Issue effort and for your interest in the larger cause represented by that project. Those of us who are professionally engaged in the educational task hope to merit your continuing confidence and interest.

Amateur Radio Is City Controversy

Some years ago, as most will remember, automobiles had instruments on the dash that now have disappeared. Some of these corner-cuttings of the manufacturers can be see, some cannot. This makes for a product at a lower cost to the people. All products have had corners cut in one way or another.

Why, may I ask, should a private citizen be required to subject himself to the abuse of other private citizens as well as officials, not only in his own community, but from surrounding communities simply because some manufacturer saw fit to cut corners in their product and the public was willing to buy it? If he were connected with the company in some way and received compensation from them, I could see some justification to his hearing about it, but I do not see why he should receive abuse when there is no connection.

THE SUBJECT is TVI due to amateur radio activities. The Rolling Meadows Herald asked for material concerning this problem and it was supplied. The Herald did not publish these public informing facts to help the people, but published hogwash that solves no problem except maybe help sell papers with an eye-catching article. The F.C.C. is very clear with their regulations and where in each case the responsibility lies. There is no controversy if the facts are known.

All devices such as electric trains, razors, food mixers, sewing machines, vacuum cleaners, automobile ignitions, electric drills, saws etc., give forth electromagnetic radiation (radio waves) which cause interference on high frequency communications including TV. All of these are subject to F.C.C. regulations. How many of you are breaking a Federal law without even knowing it? Even the noise from power lines is under the fire of these regulations and must be fixed when reported that they are causing radio interference.

We are adult civilized people, let us act it. Why should the kettle call the pot black because of lack of education on the true problem. To say, and I quote the article, "Does a person have a right to pursue a hobby at the expense of others?" shows clearly that the law is not known by the author and that it implies a defective Federal law is in effect.

Reviewer Deceived By Packard

RE: Reader Jean Flaxman's article on the "Waste Makers."

Mrs. Flaxman, not unlike many prominent reviewers, has been hoodwinked by the author - profiteer, Vance Packard. What she, and they, have failed to realize is that this book is a mere collection of (quite possibly true) anecdotes. Most readers, like yourself, infer that these anecdotes represent industry, and more specifically advertising and marketing. A collection of anecdotes can be assembled for every profession or trade, and I suppose there will always be those who infer that they represent the facts about the profession or trade.

IF ONE ACCEPTS the basic premise of modern capitalism - that people are entitled to demand (and manufacturers to make for them) whatever pleases their individual tastes, even when these tastes offend the canons of aesthetics and efficiency - Mr. Packard's charges have to be dismissed as irrelevant.

Do this, Mrs. Flaxman, and all others who feel that Packard has the answer: read "The Spenders," a scholarly and factual rebuttal to the "Waste Makers" by Prof. S. H. Britt of Northwestern university. (McGraw-Hill, 1960)

Roselle Reader Ruminates On Life and Its Foibles

Just as the fingerprint is unique in itself, for not once have the experts found one to be exactly like another, so, too, are the ideas, theories and sometimes unshakeable beliefs which an individual builds up within his painfully short span of life. Some say that it is these differences that "make the world go round" and admit that it would be a truly monotonous world indeed if we all thought alike.

Such being the case, and, of course, I am assuming that, being entitled to my turn on the soapbox, I will not be sent sprawling by a barrage of overly ripe tomatoes, I would like to submit herewith the sum of my observations and studies over a span of three-and-a-half decades.

SOME I PRESENT with tongue-in-cheek, but most with all seriousness, knowing full well that most of you good readers will rise up on your feet, your faces beet-red and your chubby little cheeks puffed out in indignation.

This is all well and good, for with many of us that big, hollow cavern wherein we store our undeveloped brains is slowly, yet inexorably, being cluttered up with worthless miscellany, trivia, rust, intricate cobwebs and those priceless traditions and ideas handed down from generation to generation. To such ones, I say "Think," and what say you of the following:

The most priceless of commodities known to man is human life itself. It follows then that not even one single life should be sacrificed on the altar of man's alleged progress. One example is that monster the automobile, which kills approximately 40,000 people annually in this country alone. Abolish the automobile, revert to the horse and buggy days and even though it may take us a day or two to get to work just think, all we would have to worry about is our miles per bale of hay.

FAILING THIS, why not reduce the maximum speed from 65 mph to 35, and, in addition, place unmarked patrol cars in strategic places or blended with traffic. Speeders are criminals just as are kidnappers and arsonists, so why should the law be handicapped by revealing its presence. Besides, is it not true that the life of one tiny youngster is much more important that the howls of anguish generated by the speeders themselves?

Speaking of the common cold and who isn't these days, is it not possible that the reason it stumps the so-called medical experts is that it is actually a boon to mankind, and not a curse. We bombard and belabor our poor bodies with a daily hodgepodge of starches and sugars, and overly rich, creamy concoctions that may well be just a wee bit too much for our systems to dispose of through normal procedure. So what happens? Nature — I use the word only because of its common acceptance — pulls the trigger, and we hear the first triumphant and musical sneeze.

Back in November, several ruddy-cheeked, smiling, friendly politicians knocked timidly upon our door and implied that it would be to our gain, in a variety of ways, to vote for their candidates. I disagreed. "Why?" they ask.

THE ANSWER is so simple that most will scoff.

And now the tongue is out of the cheek, and I speak in all seriousness, Mr. Reader, for, believe it or not, the answer is a matter of life or death. Look, if you will, in your Bible, the fourth chapter of James, and you will find the warning that friendship with this world is enmity with God. Remember, too, that Satan is the God of this system of things. Else how could this archdeceiver take the Son of God to a mountaintop and there offer to him all the kingdoms of this world?

With this in mind, is it really wise to mingle in or have a part in, the realm of politics? Think again!

ONE LAST, perhaps incendiary, yet thought-provoking thought is this: Strive as I will, I cannot find much similarity between the Holy Scriptures and the great religions of Christendom. Study it closely, nay, microscopically, and you will find that no matter what version you pick up, the word Trinity is never used; the only Scripture that might begin to support it never appeared before the 15th century, and, more convincingly, one Scripture after another refutes this bewildering doctrine.

And what of the immortal soul? The word immortal is used six times in the Bible and then only in conjunction with God or His Son. Not a single scripture tells us that man's soul is immortal. On the contrary, in Ezekial we find that the soul that sins will die. Romans tells us the wages sin pays is death. In other instances we find that the wicked will be destroyed or annihilated, or cut off. And isn't hell just the grave?

SET ME straight, my fellow reader; enlighten me if you will. And while you are busily taking me to task, answer me this. If Christ Jesus were to walk amongst men on a December 25th, the day of his birth, yet admittedly not, would he be pleased to observe the gluttony, the greed, the commercialism, the drunkedness, the lie called Santa Claus, the pagan tree with its garish ornaments? Is it not true that he never commanded us to celebrate his birthday?

The couple is planning a June 1961 wedding.

Home Bureau Agenda Has Double Lesson

"Sandwiches for the Crowd" provided the menu and the first lesson for Mount Prospect Home Bureau unit for November and December held at the home of Mrs. F. D. Pfeffer, 403 MacArthur. Marie Ryan and Connie McMillan demonstrated and prepared the sandwich combinations and salad.

This was an all day gathering, the pre-luncheon period being devoted to this lesson subject, followed by the regular business meeting for December and final planning for the Christmas party luncheon. The second lesson subject, "Your Money's Worth in Furniture," presented by Lorraine Thorne and Florence Potter, covered facts to keep in mind when making purchases which are expected to give service for years to come. Also, considering new colors for 1961, members were told that black pearl, butterscotch, peony pink and Bristol blue will be in vogue.

DECEMBER 14 was an important date for Home Bureau members and their guests who met at Holloway House for the Christmas party. Luncheon was served in the private dining room. Merriment prevailed during the hat making contest as each "milliner" created a chapeau for her "model." Winners were acclaimed by applause.

The report of the nominating committee was read and accepted unanimously, re-electing Mrs. Robert Maxwell as president for the ensuing year and naming Mrs. Carl E. Anderson as vice president, and Mrs. A. J. Thorne as secretary-treasurer.

JANUARY 18 will mark the next meeting of the unit, to be held at the home of Mrs. H. L. Rasmussen, 2 S. School st. Mt. Prospect, assisted by Mrs. A. L. Potter. "Color for the Individual" will be the topic, given by Mrs. Claradehl Upham, home advisor. (S

H. Millers Mark 50th Anniversary

A family tree with pictures of their five children and many grandchildren was one of the decorative highlights of the Haywood Millers' golden wedding observance held December 28 in the Brandt's restaurant, Palatine.

The family tree had been painted by the couple's son, Richard, who with his brother, William, and their families of Morris, Ill. helped receive the 250 guests from 4 to 8 p.m.

THE CELEBRATION took the form of an open house with a color scheme of yellow and gold. A 3-tiered wedding cake, along with hors d'oeuvres, meat balls. petits fours, punch, coffee and tea were served. Musical background for the affair was provided by Miss Helen Bannon of Evanston, harpist.

The Millers moved from Chicago to 19 S. Kerwood, Palatine, in 1954. In 1959 Mr. Miller retired from the Morris Paper Mills, where he had been employed for 39 years. He is now serving as assistant to the treasurer of the village of Palatine. S

Q. When invited to someone's home and the hostess has small dishes of potato chips and peanuts placed on tables, is it proper for a guest to help himself without being asked?

A. Since obviously these dishes are there for the guests, it is quite all right to help yourself.

Just Around the Corner from Patty McArdle

Return to the Rinks

Dear Peg:

The girls finally won out and I agreed to go ice skating with them. They have been having the most winderful time during their vacation, often skating both in the afternoon and night, but every time I'd take them over to the ice they'd want to know when I was going to skate too. There was no use telling them that I didn't know where my skates were—they'd already seen them in the box with all the other skates that we brought from our last house.

Even though it's been a while since they've seen me on skates (it seems that each winter during the past couple of years I've been about to have a baby or just getting over having one), they could remember and for some reason were terribly anxious to get me out on that cold slick stuff again.

So, the other day I said O. K. I'd go with them that afternoon and sent Megan down in the basement to get my skates. From the kitchen I heard her moan, "Oh, no!" and called down to ask what the trouble was.

"Captain has chewed the heel of your skate and there's even a little hole in the back of the shoe," she exclaimed.

This dog is either going to have to be shot or have his teeth pulled. He chews up everything he can put his teeth into—including such unlikely objects as my washing machine cord (why he didn't get electrocuted I don't know) and the clothes waiting to go into the washing machine. This made me mad. It appeared that after making up my mind to go and even imagining myself as a sort of aged Barbara Ann Scott I was not going to be able to show my daughters how really young in heart the poor old mother is.

"Well, bring them up any way, maybe I can still wear them," I called down the steps.

"Oh mother, you can't wear these," Megan insisted when she reached the kitchen. "Look at them!"

I must admit I'd forgotten how worn out the things were. Besides the chewed heel, the skates were pretty battered looking and there was hardly a piece of shoe string without a knot in it. This was my last pair of ice skates, purchased for me in the eighth grade, I believe, so you see that makes them pretty old.

I could see that Megan was torn between wanting me to go and not wanting me to embarrass myself (and her) by sitting in the warming house and putting on these ragged chewed up things amidst all the new and shiny Christmas skates. "Now, Megan, I'll just put them on in the car and walk out on the ice and as long as I keep skating no one will be able to see what my skates look like."

This seemed to satisfy her and we were soon on our way. Ice skating is a little like bicycle riding—once you learn you never forget. Although I wouldn't say I exactly swept onto the ice, I did manage to stand up and take a few wobbly little glides across the pond. Each of the girls took my hand and the three of us started around in a circle.

"Faster, Mom," they urged. And faster we went—until I hit a rough spot and involuntarily sat down.

"Well, that's enough, girls," I said smiling weakly, "I just love skating, but I think I've had enough for now."

And do you know what those monsters did? They refused to let me off of the ice—insisting that when you fall down you have to get up and skate some more so you won't be afraid of it (I think they were confused with horse back riding).

At any rate it wasn't until one of my knotty little shoe strings broke that I was allowed to leave the ice and at that, I think if we could have found one tiny place to tie it again I wouldn't have been pardoned yet.

They're going to the store to get new shoe strings tomorrow—oh dear . . .

My love,
Patty

Judith Donovan Becomes Bride of Jerome Moreth

Baskets of butterscotch carnations and copper cushion mums complemented the sunburst orange and cocoa brown silk organza gowns of the attendants who preceded Miss Judith Donovan down the aisle of St. James Catholic church, Arlington Heights, for her marriage to Jerome Moreth October 8. The service was double ring and took place at 3 p. m. with Fr. George Roth officiating.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jean H. Donovan, 312 Hatlen, Mt. Prospect, wore a white peau de soie gown with lace bodice and chapel-length train. A fingertip veil and a cascade of miniature white roses with ivy completed her ensemble.

The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moreth, 1201 N. Chestnut, Arlington Heights.

ATTENDANTS to the bride were Miss Janet Donovan, in orange, and Judith Halvorson in brown. The bridegroom's attendants were Donald Clark of Arlington Heights as best man and David Karstens and Henry Moreth of Arlington Heights as ushers. Mr. Donovan gave his daughter in marriage.

White gladioli decorated the church for the ceremony, which was followed by a buffet reception for 125 in the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Donovan received in a plum velveteen dress with corsage of pink cymbidiums, while Mrs. Moreth chose a royal blue acetate dress. Her corsage was also of pink cymbidiums.

THE COUPLE honeymooned in Rockton at the Wagon Wheel and since October 20 has been residing in Fayetteville, N. C., where the bridegroom is stationed at Ft. Bragg. He was graduated from Arlington high school and his bride from Grant Community high school, Ingleside. Until her marriage, she was employed by a Chicago insurance company.

Orientation Week Here

I, for one, am mighty glad that the holidays are over. Oh, I realize that Washington and Lincoln will have their birthdays one of these days. And Valentine's Day will be coming along too. But none of these cause the havoc that the Holiday holidays do.

It seems to me that as the young feel the return to school getting more and more imminent, they become more and more foul disposition wise. I like to think that subconsciously they really are looking to the return to the good old routine. However, I truly feel that is a great big lie. They hate the good old routine.

What they really want is to stay up late night after night for the rest of their lives. They want to stay up late, eat constantly and unwisely, and arise at the crack of 11:30 a. m. from now on. Fortunately for my sanity and nerves, this is not to be.

All through this vacation, breakfast has started at our house around 7 a. m. and sometimes it gets to be around 1 p. m. before the last long-legged monster has dragged herself from her downy couch and partaken of her daily ration of Wheaties. This has made lunch and breakfast sort of blur together. I've come to the point where I can hardly tell one meal from another.

It's played havoc with the dinner hour too. Those who breakfasted and lunched on time have a sort of gnawing feeling around the regular time. Those who finished lunch at 5 p. m. aren't exactly ravenous by 6. But, boy, are they hungry by 10.

The whole thing has me in a state of constant confusion. Undoubtedly, this next week will be one of complete reorganization. I must remember that breakfast is morning, lunch is noon and so on. And, that really efficient people do not wash clothes at midnight, go to the store on Sunday and make the beds just before they are to be used.

I hope I get used to walking through the living room without breaking my neck on Christmas presents too.

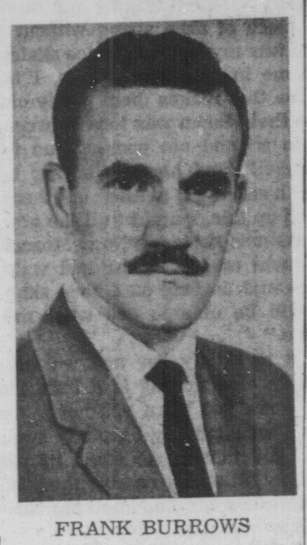
Traffic Safety Talk For Businesswomen

"Motors and Magic" will be the theme of a traffic safety talk delivered on Thursday, Jan. 12, by Frank R. Burrows Jr., field service director of the Citizens Traffic Safety Board of Metropolitan Chicago, before the Mt. Prospect Business and Professional Women's club.



FRANK BURROWS

Mr. Burrows will list the most dangerous misconceptions about safe driving and will demonstrate methods of avoiding traffic tragedies. Emphasized in his talk will be warnings of the three most dangerous actions of drivers who consider themselves to be expert. The three are:

STOPPING ON a dime. Although many drivers think they can, it will take 88 feet to stop at 30 miles per hour, 366 feet to stop at 60 mph.

Trying to beat an amber light or race another car to an intersection. This driving error is frequently fatal.

Trying to take right of way from another driver.

Mr. Burrows was formerly fleet safety engineer in the traffic and motor transportation department of the National Safety Council. Prior to that, he was assistant safety director at Lordstown Ordinance depot, Warren, Ohio.

News from Mrs. Eva May Hoffman

Eva May Hoffman, 63 W. Illinois st., Palatine, who is employed at the Jewel store in Wheeling says, My dainty garments were gray and yellow. The first washing in Miracle White and 25% less soap than I normally used brought back the color and freshness of newness. After washing, my hands were so soft and smooth that it felt like I washed them in lotion. Since that time, I used Miracle White for bathing. My skin feels so soft. No more bath tub ring either.

Anyone who has a similar problem with laundry, do like Mrs. Hoffman, try a bottle of Miracle White on a MONEY BACK GUARANTEE that you must get a clean, white and soft wash even if your water is very hard or contains iron rust. Miracle White works as well in soft water, or hard rusty waters. Buy Miracle White at your favorite food store.

Panhellenic Luncheon To Take Place Jan. 12

Sorority women in the northwest suburban area are invited to bring guests to the Panhellenic luncheon Thursday, Jan. 12 at 1 p.m. according to Mrs. Jack Sneeden, Panhellenic association president. The luncheon will be held at the Colonial restaruant, Morton Grove. Luncheon reservations should be made with Mrs. Sneeden, CL 5-8321, by January 10.

A PROGRAM has been arranged for the luncheon by Mrs. Bernard Pickard, in which Panhellenic members and their guests will hear comments by Alexander M. Harley concerning his summer, 1959, trip to Europe, and to see his 16 mm. movies of Budapest, Hungary. Mr. and Mrs. Harley have traveled extensively in Europe and South America, and have given their slide and movie travelogues to numerous civic and social groups in the northwest suburban area.

Mr. Harley was for 30 years the head of the music department at Maine township high school, and currently holds the title of director emeritus of music at Maine. He is the founder and national president of Modern Music Masters, a national high school music honorary, which he started at Maine, and which has grown under his leadership into an organization of 530 chapters at the present time. Mrs. Harley is executive secretary of Modern Music Masters.

PANHELLENIC members are urged to bring friends nd neighbors with them to this January 12 luncheon meeting. Any sorority women in the Paddock area are invited.

Lessons In English

OFTEN MISUSED

Do not say, "The children were oblivious to the smiles of the older persons." Say, "were oblivious OF the smiles."

Distinguish between MOMENT (a brief space of time, the duration of which is not exactly designated) and MINUTE (the more precise term, which means the sixtieth part of an hour).

Do not say, "He uses mighty good English." "Mighty," as an adverb, in the sense of "very or exceedingly" is colloquial, and should be avoided in formal usage.

Use HARDLY to express degree, and SCARCELY to express quantity. Thus: "She is HARDLY well enough to travel," and, "I have SCARCELY enough paper."

Do not say, "We cannot over-exaggerate the good benefits of exercise." Omit the word "over" and "good," both of which are redundant.

Distinguish between OCCUR (to happen) and TRANSPIRE (to leak out; become known). Thus: "The accident occurred yesterday," and, "It transpired that he left town last week."

OFTEN MISPRONOUNCED

Bonanza. Pronounce bohnan-zah, accent on second syllable.

Coup d'etat (an unexpected stroke of policy). Pronounce koo-day-tah, principal accent on last syllable.

Malpractice. Accent SECOND syllable, not the first.

Untoward. Pronounce untoh-erd, accent second syllable.

Staccato. Pronounce stahkaw-toe, accent on second syllable.

Cosmopolite. Pronounce kahz-mop-oh-lite, accent on second syllable.

Predict Rise in Consumer Demand for Farm Products

Consumer demand for U. S. farm products may rise some in the year ahead, but probably not so much as in most of the past 10 years, University of Illinois agricultural economist L. H. Simerl forecasts.

He said that domestic demand for farm products will depend primarily on consumers' incomes and their willingness to spend money for food. Consumer income is closely related to industrial production levels, employment and wage rates.

Here is how Simerl views the present and future economic situation:

Industrial output, which ran ahead of sales in the first half of 1960, has been cut back about 3 per cent. This cutback has balanced output with sales, but it leaves many businessmen with somewhat excessive stocks of some materials and finished products.

Since present industrial capacity seems to be more than adequate to supply buyers' wants, businessmen see no need to increase their outlays for new plants and equipment. Changes in the rate of capital investment are the principal cause of swings in business activity.

Efforts to check the outflow of gold may prevent large increases in government spending to boost business activity. Simerl thinks it would also be that money for spending to stimulate the economy can be obtained by "plugging tax loopholes." Looking at the economy as a whole, this device is simply a means of increasing taxes and replacing private spending with public projects.

A bright spot in the business picture is that individuals are now saving at a rate of $29 billion a year, up $4 billion from 12 months ago. Increased savings provide a basis for increased spending, and income, at some future date.

Foreign demands for farm products have been at record rates in recent months. But further increases seem likely to be prevented by attempts to limit dollar spending in foreign countries.

Consumers spent about $3 billion more for food in the third quarter of 1960 than a year earlier. If some of this increase could get back to the farmer, his income would improve considerably.

Simerl sees two possible favorable developments in the over-all 1961 farm outlook. Marketing costs, the spread between farm and retail prices, may not increase as they did in most of the past 15 years. And farm operating costs like-wise may be kept under better control than they were in the 1950's.

Wages are the biggest item in marketing costs and in many of the things farmers buy. If wage increases are no greater than increases in labor productivity, then there should be little or no increase in farm marketing or operating costs. (Fm

Cook County Gets Major Portion of Public Aid Money

Cook county required $12,106,644 of the $18,718,075 spent on public aid rolls in October, according to Illinois Public Aid Commission statistics just released. The balance, $6,611,431 was spent downstate.

General assistance in Cook county, following a state-wide declining trend, dropped to 78,616 in October from 79,279 in September. This drop of 663 persons was offset by an increase of 597 persons downstate, making the state-wide decline from September's 120,804 to October's 120,738 only 66 persons.

General assistance cost for Cook County was $3,966,020 in October, compared to $4,044,410 in September. The October 1959 cost was $4,323.510.

ODL AGE assistance for October in Cook county also showed a slight decline with 28,897 recipients and $2,401,541 compared to 28,956 and $2,403,343 in September. The October 1959 figures were 30,386 persons and $2,255,324.

Blind assistance in October remained almost the same with 1,350 persons and $127,585 cost, as compared to 1,348 and $127,364 in September; and 1374 persons and $123,497 in October 1959.

Aid to dependent children increased by 230 persons, up from September's total, 108,737 to October's 108,967; the cost up from $4,493,975 to October's cost $4,500,425. October 1959 figures were 105,040 persons and $4,283,356.

Disability assistance increased from 12,263 persons in September to 12,337 in October. The cost up from $1,102,670 to $1,111,072. The October 1959 record showed 11,588 persons and $991,317. (B8

Price Outlook Dim For Poultrymen

Illinois poultrymen face less favorable prospects for 1961, a University of Illinois agricultural economist believes.

James R. Roush said that the favorable 1960 prices will encourage expanded production of eggs, broilers and turkeys in 1961. And prices paid to producers will drop below those of 1960.

Egg prices increased 12 per cent during 1960 because of lower production. Broiler and turkey prices moved up over those of 1959, however, in spite of record production during 1960.

Here is how Roush views the future outlook for eggs, broilers and turkeys:

Egg prices during the first half of 1961 should average above those in the first half of 1960. Since producers bought fewer egg-type chicks last winter and early spring, there will be about 7 per cent fewer birds in laying flocks on January 1, 1961, than a year ago. Although production per bird is running a little higher, total production during the first half of the year should average below that of the same period last year.

Egg prices during the last of 1961 will depend largely on how many egg-type chicks producers buy this winter and next spring. Hatchings have been above those of a year ago since last May. Egg prices through the first quarter of the new year will probably encourage increased purchases of egg-type chicks.

For the year 1961 as a whole, egg prices received by Illinois producers should average above the 26 cents a dozen received in 1959 but below the 31 cents received in 1960.

Broiler and turkey production during 1961 will probably be at least 5 per cent above the record production of 1960. If this happens, prices probably will be lower than in 1960. Poultry meat will face increased competition from larger supplies of both beef and pork. (Fm

Cite 4 Social Security Law Changes for Farmers

At least four changes in the Social Security law are of interest to farmers, according to George B. Whitman, University of Illinois economist.

Here's a brief rundown of the changes made during the last session of Congress:

1. If you become severely disabled, a change in the law permits payments at any age if you have paid Social Security tax for five of the past 10 years previous to the disability.

2. A year and a half of working time under Social Security is still required before any benefits can be paid. But under the new law most people can become insured more quickly than before. Some older people who did not work long enough under the old law may now be eligible for payments.

3. Parents working for sons or daughters in their farm business are covered by Social Security after 1960.

4. The new law now says that any nonprofit organization can cover an employee who wants Social Security. Before, two-thirds of the employees had to want coverage.

Whitman suggests that farmers check at least every three years with the local office to see that their Social Security record is correct. He also urges farmers to get in touch with the local office for more information on the recent changes. (Fm

Custom Spray Operators School To Be in January

Spray operators, insecticides and herbicides once again take the University of Illinois spotlight when the 13th annual Illinois Custom Spray Operators' training school meets January 25-26.

Reports to be given include:

1. "Penetration and Translocation of 2, 4-D and 2, 4, 5-T," by Fred W. Slife, U. to I. agronomist.

2. "Granular Size, Formulation, Distribution and Their Effect on Soil Insect Control," by J. W. Apple, University of Wisconsin.

3. A soil insecticide research report that especially concerns winter applications, to be presented by J. H. Bigger, Illinois Natural History Survey entomologist.

4. "Control of Quackgrass and Wirestem Muhly With Atrazine," by W. O. Scott, University of Illinois agronomist.

5. "Chemical Control of Aquatic Weeds," by H. E. Hiltibran, INHS.

6. "Mold Prevention in Stored High-Moisture Corn," by J. F. Tuite and G. W. Isaacs, Purdue University.

7. "Hessian Fly Control in Wheat With Systemic Insecticides," by J. H. Bigger.

8. "Face Flies — Their Abundance, Distribution and Results of Farm Control Tests," by Steve Moore, U. of I. and INHS extension entomologist.

Chairman H. B. Petty, extension entomologist with the U. of I. and INHS, said that the formal program will begin January 25 at 9:45 a.m. Early arrivals, however, can see movies beginning at 9 a.m. The movies concern new developments in agricultural chemicals.

Preceding the Spray School, the Agricultural Spraying association and the Illinois Aerial Applicators' association will hold a joint meeting January 24 at 3:30 p.m. The meeting features a discussion of "Policy, the Backbone of Your Business." Irwin Cochrun, director of the bureau of business management, will present the talk.

For a complete copy of the Spray School program, write to H. B. Petty, 280 Natural Resources Building, Urbana.

Farm Supply Co. to Hold 33d Meeting January 12

HENRY EICHHOLZ

Henry Eichholz, vice-president of the Lake-Cook Farm Supply company announced today that the 33d annual meeting would be held at 10:30 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 12, at Rand Park field house, 2025 Miner st., Des Plaines.

Eichholz said that reports detailing all operations of the company during the past twelve months would be made. A hot roast beef dinner will be served at 11:30 a.m. to all who attend.

Although affiliated with the Farm Bureau, the Company has many urban friends and patrons all of whom are invited to the meeting. In addition to supplying a full line of lawn and garden products, a staff of 42 employees serves home owners, industry and farms with fuel oils, gasolines, and other petroleum products.

There are six Farm and Garden stores and four bulk plants in the Chicago district. The main office is at 997 Lee st., Des Plaines.

Charles E. Alexander will be the principal speaker. He is director of public relations of Illinois Farm Supply. Entertainment will be given at 1 p.m. (Fm

'Slobber' Hay Appears Early This Season

New cases of "slobber" hay are being reported already this year — two weeks earlier than first cases have been reported in the past, according to John Byers, University of Illinois dairy scientist.

Byers warns dairymen who feed second cuttings of red clover and alfalfa hay or silage this winter to watch for signs of excessive salivation, or slobbering, in their herds.

During the past few years dairymen from all parts of the state have reported that cows in their herds began slobbering within 1½ to 24 hours after eating second cuttings of affected forage.

In all cases the animals ate one to three feedings of the "slobber" forage, salivated excessively and then refused to eat any more. Many dairymen said it was not uncommon to find 1 to 1½ inches of saliva in mangers after cows ate the forage.

U. of I. dairy scientists are working to find what causes the condition. Although they have found no positive answer, research indicates that dairymen can prevent total loss of affected hay by mixing second forage cuttings with first or third cuttings at a ratio of about one-third "slobber" hay to two-thirds regular hay.

Byers said dairymen can also fight the problem by holding the affected hay over for a year. It seems to lose the slobber factor on standing.

It is also important that dairymen who find affected hay report it to the University of Illinois department of dairy science.

Researchers are working to solve the problem. The key to their success will depend on getting samples of the hay as soon as it is discovered in a dairy herd. (Fm

Down On The Farm

CARL F. MEES

with Your Farm Adviser

Did you ever stop to think when you are eating popcorn where it is grown? During the holidays our family ate popcorn several times. I asked my daughters where they thought most of the popcorn in the United States is grown?

While this may have been a leading question, and they may have guessed the answer, they said Illinois and Indiana. This is correct, but Indiana is first in production and Illinois second.

Other states that produce large quantities are Ohio, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska and Kentucky. Some popcorn is grown in 17 states. Illinois last year produced 55 million pounds of popcorn. It would be difficult to visualize just how much popcorn that would be if it were all popped at once. I imagine popcorn would be several feet deep over the entire area of Cook county.

Do you prefer yellow or white popcorn? Reports indicate that the trend is toward the yellow. The consumer determines which type is most popular.

In 1960 popcorn yielded 2,119 pounds per acre. This was not a record yield because in 1958 the yield was 2,128 pounds per acre.

Compared to field corn, popcorn yields less. Last year the national average yield of corn was 3,710 pounds per acre.

If you are wondering how we are doing nationwide in crop production, here it is briefly: Corn up 2 per cent; from last year; Sorghum grains up 4 per cent over 1958 record; Soybeans down 4 per cent from 1958 record; Wheat 6 per cent short of the 1958 record; Barley, 12 per cent off; Oats, 17 per cent less; Cotton 2 per cent less than the good crop of 1959 and 32 per cent less than the record set back in 1937; Tobacco, biggest crop in four years, but 16 per cent short of the record set in 1951.

We may be making some progress along this line, let's hope it will continue. (Fm

Foresee Low Cattle Earnings; Urge Marketing Caution

A University of Illinois livestock marketing economist believes that 1961 will be a time for caution in the cattle business.

M. B. Kirtley expects that earnings will generally be relatively low. Producers will find that careful selection of the time and place to market their cattle will be especially important. Further problems also appear likely in 1962, when supplies of beef will be higher and hog slaughter will also be high.

Here is how Kirtley appraises the cattle picture for 1961:

Cattle prices will continue to move lower. Prices of better grades of fed cattle will probably average about $2 a hundred pounds below 1960 prices. Lower grades will decline even more.

Slaughter will rise, but the number of cattle will still be higher on January 1, 1962, than on January 1, 1961. The 1961 calf crop will be above that of 1960.

Cattle prices will be stronger in the early part of the year. Limited numbers of fed cattle scheduled to come to market in January and February should mean prices close to those of a year earlier. The spring market, which has been favorable for the past three years, will be good, but not so much above winter prices as in recent years.

Feed supplies are large, but not many more cattle will be fed in 1961 than in 1960. The cost of replacement cattle and declining slaughter prices have not left much net for many feeding operations. Therefore, most of the increased beef supply will not be grain-fed.

Beef supplies in 1960 were near the 85.4-pound record set in 1956. Next year the supply will be near 89 or 90 pounds and will set a new record. Imports of beef, while only a small part of our total supply, will decline because of the increase in domestic supplies.

Hog Profits to Rise in 1961

by L. H. SIMERL

The holiday season brought good news for hog producers — a strong indication that 1961 will be another profitable year.

Each year just before Christmas the United States department of agriculture reports on current and prospective trends in the volume of hog production. Coming at this time it often gets too little attention because of the many other news stories and activities of the holiday season. So, let's review the most important facts in the report and see what they portend for farmers.

The 1960 fall pig crop totaled 41,550,000 head. This was 3 per cent less than one year before, and 1½ per cent less than two years before. All pigs born in the six months, June through November, are counted as fall pigs. Most of them will reach market weights in the first six months of 1961.

The trend toward more uniform distribution of monthly farrowings continued in 1960, but there was no drastic shift in the fall farrowing schedules. The sharp cutback in 1960 spring farrowings carried over a little into the first four months of the fall season. Thus 6 per cent fewer sows farrowed from June through September of 1960 than in the same period of 1959. But in October and November sow farrowings were 8 per cent greater than a year before.

These figures point to market supplies of hogs in the next four months (January-April) 5 to 8 per cent less than a year ago. Marketings may be about the same as they were two years ago, when prices at terminal markets held around the $16 mark. As compared with two years ago, population is up 3½ per cent and consumer buying power may be up 8 to 10 per cent. On the other hand, pork will meet more competition from beef and poultry than it did two years ago. Supplies of these meats may be up around 10 per cent from the 1959 levels.

Beginning about next May, market supplies of hogs may equal or exceed those of this past year. This expectation reflects the reported increase of 8 per cent in October-November farrowings. But storage stocks of pork likely will be small, and prices will be set on a day-to-day and week-to-week basis. Prices seem likely to range in the upper teens during the late spring and early summer.

Farmers reported in December that they planned to increase their 1961 spring farrowings by only 4 per cent over last year. I believe that the actual increase will be considerably larger, say 5 to 8 per cent. But even such an increase would not provide excessive supplies of pork. An increase of more than 20 per cent would be required to bring hog production back to same level in relation to population as we had in 1959.

Pork likely will meet record large competitive supplies of both beef and poultry next fall. Consumer buying power may be increasing, but will not have reached boom proportions. Prices of hogs may not average quite so high as in the last half of 1960, but lower costs and bigger volume should maintain profit levels.

MEMO From
BILL COOK BUICK

OUR USED CAR CREED

"When we sell New automobiles we act as a retailer, selling merchandise that bears another name and reputation. But when we sell USED cars, we take on some of the responsibility of a manufacturer.

"The various Used cars that we sell are no longer warranted by the original makers. In effect, they bear OUR name.

"We have succeeded as a merchant of re-conditioned automobiles with the honesty of our products and our methods.

"We can't afford to jeopardize our reputation by selling merchandise we cannot offer with pride and confidence.

"Our USED cars must be honestly re-conditioned to give us the benefit of a product that will create the right kind of word-of-mouth advertising."

In Appreciation

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late Edwin Koehler would like to thank those who gave beautiful floral pieces, memorial offerings, the Rev. Kurt Grotheer for his kind and comforting words, the VFW Post 2149 for their ceremony and others for their acts of kindness and expressions during our recent bereavement.

Mrs. Emma Koehler and family.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the Bensenville Fire Dept., our friends and neighbors for their assistance in our recent fire.

The Alvin Rome Family.

Modern Etiquette

Q. Does a lady or a gentleman ever chew gum in public places?

A. This is quite all right. But remember, there IS a "ladylike" and a "gentlemanly" way of chewing gum!

Q. I am a man who was invited to spend Christmas Day with a family in the country —man, wife, and three children. Was I right in taking along gifts for them?

A. Yes, gifts for the children and some impersonal sort of gift in which both the man and his wife could share —candy, wine, or such.

THERE ARE ALL KINDS OF SMILES

There's the satisfied smile. And the triumphant smile. And there is the "just plain happy" smile. And then there's the kind of smile any woman gets when she thinks about spending money. All those smiles can come from using the Want Ads. You'll be satisfied and triumphant and happy, too, when you sell your "don't needs" for quick cash with a Paddock Publications Want Ad. And then you can smile as you think about spending that money. So come on . . . get happy . . . place your Want Ad right now!

Peace Group Sets Discussion Date

A recent report titled "Community of Fear" will be discussed Saturday at a meeting of North Shore Citizens for Peace. The group will convene at 8 p.m. at the home of Dorothy and Charles Calkins, 3212 Otto ln., Evanston. The public is invited.

"Community of Fear" was released by the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, founded in 1959 in Santa Barbara, Calif., by the Fund for the Republic. It was written by Dr. Harrison Brown, professor of geo-chemistry of the California Institute of Technology, and James Real, a consultant to the center. Dr. Brown was formerly a physicist with the University of Chicago.

WILFRED Reynolds, Jr., 2439 Ashland, spokesman for North Shore Citizens for Peace, said: "This report is a challenge to our natural quality of thinking beings in that it describes the dangers of accepting an arms race which has no end, and the concept that fallout shelters make sense."

" 'Community of Fear' suggests the kind of trap we get into in believing that, with a large scale shelter program, the nation could survive and recover from a severe nuclear attack," he explained.

"And once people are convinced that they can survive the present state of the art of killing," Mr. Reynolds said, "the report points out that a broad and significant new habit pattern will have been introduced and accepted, one grotesquely different from any we have known for thousands of years—that of adjusting ourselves to the idea of living in holes.

MR. REYNOLDS urged that increasing numbers of North Shore people become active in peace study and consideration of possible war alternatives. A-14

What I Learned From Our Fire By VANCE PACKARD (page 8) • Is Ice-Boating Dangerous? (page 6)

Now! 4 Onion Dressings no one can buy

The very first onion dressings

...make them with this new GOOD SEASONS MIX!

Good Seasons Onion Dressing. So different, so delicious. A light, fresh dressing with an herb-spice base, flecks of sweet, red peppers, and a provocative touch of onion. Flavorful, but never sharp! Takes just seconds to mix. Easy directions are on the Good Seasons envelope. You combine your favorite oil, vinegar and a little water with the Mix. The water, or a substitute liquid, makes the blend smoother. (A continental chef's secret!) You can use many substitutes, vary the dressing to your own special taste. See the recipes below for delicious suggestions.

Creamy Onion Dressing for Cole Slaw. Prepare the Good Seasons Dressing but substitute either sour cream or mayonnaise for the water. This dressing, stirred into shredded cabbage salads, ends all that teary business of chopping onions. And the flavor is evenly distributed, subtle. hooray!

Onion-Orange Dressing. In making the dressing, use orange juice instead of water. New and very good on all fruit salads. Or, on a green salad that has either orange sections or canned mandarin oranges (so easy), and a sprinkle of blue cheese chunks.

Get the new Good Seasons cruet, with measurements marked, where you buy the 7 Mixes: Italian, Classic, Garlic, Cheese-Garlic, Onion, Bleu Cheese, Exotic Herbs.

In This Issue . . .

Fire at the Vance Packards . . . page 8

Christmas Eve a year ago, the Packards were spending a quiet evening at home, when their son suddenly discovered that flames eight feet high were lashing up around the chimney. The fire spread fast over the entire top of the house, threatening to destroy what years of hard work, love, and careful planning had created. This month, the author of The Hidden Persuaders and The Waste Makers tells about that terrifying night and the lifesaving lessons he learned the hard way.

Bennett Cerf . . . page 10

The publisher, Cerf, had a yen
To collect limericks now and then,
Which he put in a book—
If you'd like a quick look,
You'll find some of his gems on page ten.

π In The Sky . . . page 16

"My child is a first-grader who will probably be affected by the Airborne Television experiment," says Muriel Lederer, of Winnetka, Illinois, and she adds, "I am also a curious writer." On both counts, this professional journalist set out to investigate teaching by television. See page 16— "Will Your Child Be Shortchanged by Classroom TV?"

Plan Your Cutting Garden Now . . . page 24

Don't wait till spring to figure out what you will plant, and where, in order to provide enough flowers for the garden and the house. Now is the time to plan, says garden editor John Brimer, with your favorite catalogue in hand. Later, plant carefully—for color and beauty all summer, indoors and out.

Here is ice-boating, depicted by our award-winning cover artist in crystal-cold blues and whites and greens and violets. Here is the speed and excitement and color of the sport, which is all of these things and more, as you will see on page six, in our feature, "Is Ice-boating Dangerous?"

GETTING AROUND

. . . to Our Pleasant Places and People

A McLean, Virginia, physician hopes he has seen the last of Christmas trees . . . and bargains, too. He bought 20 beautiful spruce trees to landscape his new house at the rock-bottom price of $4.50 and watered them carefully—but they still turned brown. The doctor pulled one up, then another, then another. All the trees were sawed-off Christmas trees complete with crude wooden stands inside a ball of earth and burlap.

In Norman, Oklahoma, a University of Oklahoma student went to the library and asked for some information on euthanasia, or mercy killings. After searching the files for some time, the librarian came back saying, "I can't find anything dealing directly with euthanasia, but I did find a book on 'Youth In India.' "

Mailman Harold R. Hartpence, of Fenwood, New Jersey, says that cats are to blame for the 27 dog bites he has collected during 31 years of carrying letters. He explains that dogs pick up the scent of cats on a mailman's uniform. They don't dislike mailmen; they hate cats. The last time he was bitten, Mr. Hartpence had been petting the family cat, and "a dog ripped my pants clean off."

People who are confined to wheel chairs in Birmingham, Michigan, and who want to go to the library are able to do so, now that a ramp has been installed at the back of the building. The ramp is closed to the general public but will be opened for any wheel-chair patron whose companion notifies the staff at the main desk.

Here's a bit of early American history we particularly like. It's about a love letter that founded a town. It started in President Jackson's administration, when the daughter of publisher Francis Preston Blair was toppled off her horse by the limb of a tree while she was reading a letter from a young naval lieutenant. Mr. Blair helped his daughter get up, and together they found the horse drinking from a spring in a lovely woodsy setting. The Blairs liked the spot so well that Mr. Blair bought it and the land surrounding it and called his new estate Silver Spring. Over the original spring he built a high acorn-shaped shelter, which still occasionally houses a pair of meditative lovers, sitting and holding hands. Although the big acorn is the only thing left there to remind us of the original residents, the estate eventually became a town and Silver Spring, Maryland, is now the second largest city in the state, with an area of 44 square miles and a population of 150,000—and it all started with a love letter.

Ever since the Xanthoceras Sorbifolia Bunge arrived, the courthouse square in Sterling, Colorado, has been attracting visitors from all over the state. Now the Xanthoceras Sorbifolia Bunge is a rare, flowering tree, so rare that it is the only one of its kind in Colorado. That, says Chief Custodian Willis Benz, is the whole trouble—the tree is suffering from all the attention, and he'd like to ask tourists to stop snipping off its lower branches for souvenirs.

The Clayton Lackmans of Ocean Beach, California, have no garage. When they found their car was suffering from exposure to the beach air, they put double doors on their den and now drive their auto into the house at night.

SUBURBIA TODAY

Members of the Willimantic, Connecticut, Rotary Club had to ask a carpenter in the next room to stop hammering because they could not hear their speaker over the din. The carpenter agreed, and Conrad J. Hemond, an engineering professor at the University of Hartford, continued with his talk on "Noises We Live With."

Since it is against the religious beliefs of the Amish to drive automobiles, Elam Beiler, a young Amishman of Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, gets around in a horse-drawn carriage.

The carriage, however, has high and low headlamp beams, turn signals in the rear, a dome light that goes on when the door is opened, and a cigar lighter.

The Olympia State Bank, of Chicago Heights, Illinois, has a unique way of making friends, says Adele Sandberg. One day she pulled up to the Drive-In window with her three children and was gratified to find that the teller had put three packages of candy next to her receipt on the pull-out drawer. A week later, when she had her poodle along, too, there on the tray were the receipt, the three pieces of candy—and a bone-shaped biscuit for the dog.

A sign at an Arlington, Virginia, barbershop reads, "We Need Your Head To Run Our Business."

In order to help solve the shortage of well-qualified personnel, North Shore Hospital in Manhasset, New York, has built a group of attractively furnished garden apartments in which to house nurses and resident physicians. Far different from the clinical, institutional living quarters usually associated with hospitals, these apartments provide a homey atmosphere, privacy of study, and a cheerful surrounding for nurses and budding doctors. In fact, officials at the young (six-year-old), suburban hospital say that the apartments are a chief reason they soon hope to be able to attract and keep a full staff of top people from all over the world.

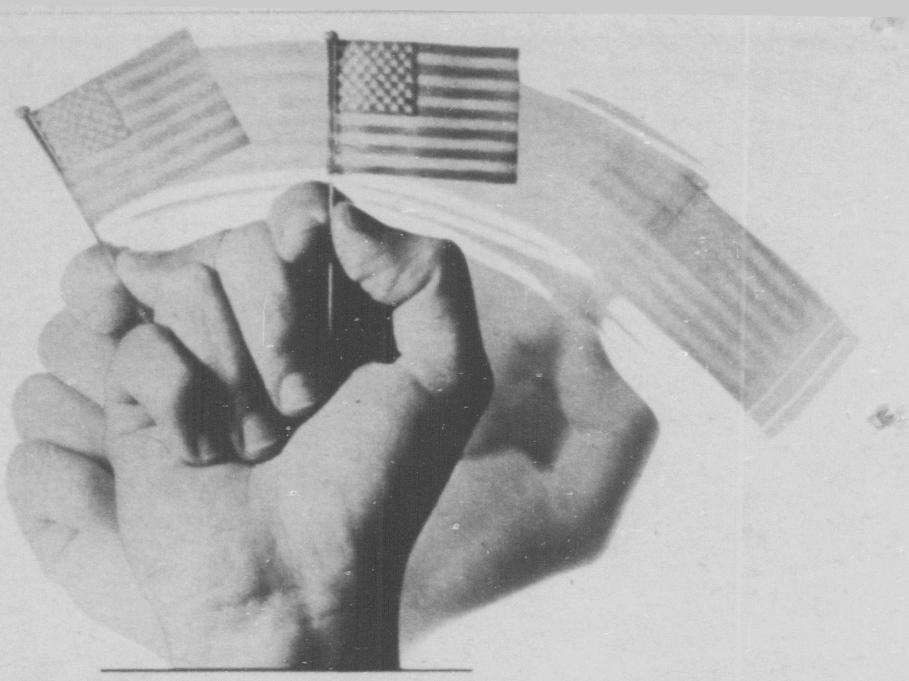
Here's good news for any churchgoer with a car in Dade and Broward Counties, Florida. Three drive-in theatres are now open on Sunday mornings for regular church services which you can attend without getting out of your car—a boon to the handicapped, the elderly, and to families with wriggly small children.



WHO LIKES AMERICANS ★★★

Hearken to a leading travel writer: "You'll find that the South Pacific is one of the rather rare parts of the world where Americans are greeted with something surprisingly close to affection." Why? Partly it's the Polynesian custom of unrestricted hospitality. Partly, the frontier heritage shared by the U.S. and the countries "Down Under". A good way to visit this domain of friendliness is aboard the ss MARIPOSA or ss MONTEREY. ★ First is Tahiti. In Papeete, the biggest town, smiles, nods, spontaneous greetings meet you everywhere. Stare in amazement at the countless patchwork motor bikes—and likely you'll be offered a ride. Visit Quinn's Hut at night. Sure enough, people will sit down, chat, ask you to dance. They're not being forward. That's the way things are done in French Oceania. When you leave, take all your change. Nobody expects tips in Tahiti. In fact, tipping is tabu, or moderate, almost everywhere in the South Pacific. ★ Then, Matson's newest call, Rarotonga, so isolated that events of 1000 years ago are still lively topics of discussion. As your ship heaves to off the reef, the island sails out to greet you. Rarotonga lads and lasses swarm aboard to entertain with stirring songs and dances, the traditional salutation to seafarers since HMS BOUNTY called in 1789. ★ New Zealand is next. Circa 1900, a gregarious porpoise, one "Pelorus Jack," would cavort in the bow waves as ships made port. Today's welcome is less spectacular, but more substantial. The people actually enjoy making Americans feel at home. New Zealand's scenic grandeur is equally amazing. All the world's wonders are duplicated here: Scandinavia's fjords, Switzerland's Alps, Yellowstone's thermal regions, Canada's lakes and forests, England's green, rolling countryside. ★ Australia is another outpost of good will. You'll dock in Sydney, a sophisticated metropolis of two million people. Posh shops offer excellent buys in woolens. The serpentine lanes of King's Cross sprout coffee houses and jazz cellars. The city boasts 647 parks and one zoo . . . where you can contemplate Australia's prehistoric fauna, including the platypus and koala. ★ In earlier times, visitors to Fiji were eagerly awaited . . . so they could be garnished with malawathi leaves and served for dinner. This quaint custom has been discouraged. The last foreign visitor was served up in 1867 — a certain Mr. Brown. He was the last, perhaps, because these bushy-haired epicureans tried to eat his boots, too. Today's Fijian sports an appetite for good humor; he'll greet you with a resounding "Kasine!" meaning, "What a shining thing you are!" You'll enjoy the shopping in this British Crown Colony. Bazaars overflow with handicrafts from the East and imports from Europe, all at a bargain cost. ★ Then, Pago Pago, Samoa, sheltered by the lush, green walls of a sunken volcano. The Samoan custom of hospitality has little changed. That's why fales (houses) are still built without walls. Visitors are often invited to an ava ceremony. Ava, a beverage from the root of the pepper tree, has a flavor all its own. In the traditional ceremony, you quaff it with a hearty "Manuia!" the local version of "Skol!" ★ Hawaii, your final landfall, reserves its most famous welcome for Matson sea-rovers—Boat Day, a chromatic melange of streamers, leis and cheering dockside throngs. Pehaps you'll visit the Outer Islands. The sights include Haleakala, an extinct crater massive enough to swallow Manhattan Island. And Kauai's Barking Sands Beach. Gas bubbles clinging to each grain cause the sands to emit poodle-like yaps when stepped on. ★ Granted the South Pacific is a cornucopia of friendliness; how's the hospitality aboard ship? In a word, it's completely attuned to American taste. A former passenger wrote: "The service was perfect; the entire staff went out of their way to make it an enjoyable cruise for everyone . . . the ship has more friendliness and personality than any I have ever been on." (Copy of letter on request.) ★ Here's what your day at sea might include: 9:30 a.m. —Open one eye. That Sadie Hawkins Party last night! But you missed breakfast. No worry. Here's your room steward with a breakfast you can devour in bed. (You hadn't asked. He must be clairvoyant.) ★ 11:00 a.m.—Up to the ballroom to trip the light fantastic. Tutored by dance instructors using the Cheney method, you're gaining quite a repertoire of steps. And it's gratis. ★ 12:15—Luncheon. Perhaps you'll try cream of mango soup, a Matson original. ★ 2:30—At the traditional Crossing-the-Line ceremony, pollywogs (those who have never crossed the equator) volunteer to be welcomed by a jovial King Neptune. ★ 5:30—You are host of a cocktail party in your stateroom. Matson provides complimentary service, set-ups and hot hors d'oeuvres. ★ 7:00—You survey the menu—and resist the temptation to order all 70-odd items. Later, you're alerted by a chorus of "Happy Birthday to You." It's a cake and candles, compliments of the Captain. ★ 9:00—Dancing, tonight's film, bridge or the Cruise Director's entertainment program? Even here, grave decisions must be made. ★ The cost? This Spring only, Matson is offering special fares reduced 25% on four cruises of the ss MARIPOSA and ss MONTEREY: March 19, April 5, May 3 and 21. Nothing else is changed. You'll bask in unmitigated luxury for as little as $22 a day—less than most resorts. The ships? Ultra-modern. All first-class, air-conditioned, gyrofin-stabilized. Private bath in every room. Each cruise is six weeks long and sails from San Francisco, following day from Los Angeles. Double-room fares range from $1155 to $1875. Special sea/air itineraries can be arranged to meet any time requirement. To learn how you can roam the paradise seas for as little as 7¢ a mile, mail this coupon.

Diet of Champions

Prize winner or pal, Ken-L-Biskit brings out the best in your dog

Concentrated Ken-L-Biskit provides twice the power of lean beefsteak!*

Today's Ken-L-Biskit is king-sized nourishment in concentrated form. Every bit of every bite works to create the peak condition, the wonderful spirit and energy of a champion.

*Ken-L-Biskit is a concentrated kibble. Ounce for ounce, it provides twice the calories (energy-power) of the most flavorful lean beefsteak you can serve your family. And bowl for bowl, it gives high quality protein, vitamins and minerals in carefully balanced amounts.

Since Ken-L-Biskit does so much more, you can feed less of it. Hence a most happy economy. The concentration of goodness also results in a smaller, more easily handled package. Slow oven baking enriches the great flavor of Ken-L-Biskit. And makes for best digestibility.

No wonder Ken-L-Biskit—Diet of Champions—is first in sales to professional breeders! Doesn't your dog deserve some soon? Available in 30-oz., 4-lb. and 20-lb. packages.

Every year, about this time, La Jolla, Pacific Beach, and Mission Beach, California, begin to look forward to seeing their largest, most conspicuous, and most famous winter visitor—the gray whale. The migration of the herd, 5,000 strong, from the Bering Sea to Baja California, is known as "The Annual Event" and is unique in the world. The whole trip of 6,000 miles takes 80 to 90 days—the whales manage to swim 20 hours a day, covering about 80 nautical miles in that time. While they're passing through Mission and San Diego Bays, they are a major tourist attraction, luring just about everybody out in excursion boats to watch their trek. Federal law prohibits the molestation of gray whales, but that seems an academic consideration to us, in view of their size (sometimes 50 feet) and weight (up to 40 tons).

An Andover, Massachusetts, family was faced with the problem of selling their house on short notice in the middle of winter. The house was clean, efficient, in a good neighborhood, and was priced for a quick sale, but after trying for weeks the owner could not find a taker. His wife, believing that winter's drab gray-browns were making her house look depressing and uninviting, took matters into her own hands. Suddenly one morning neighbors saw the window boxes explode in a riot of bloom. Tulips and daffodils bravely bucked the harsh winds. The house?—sold in four days. The flowers?—all plastic—costing a total of $5.19.

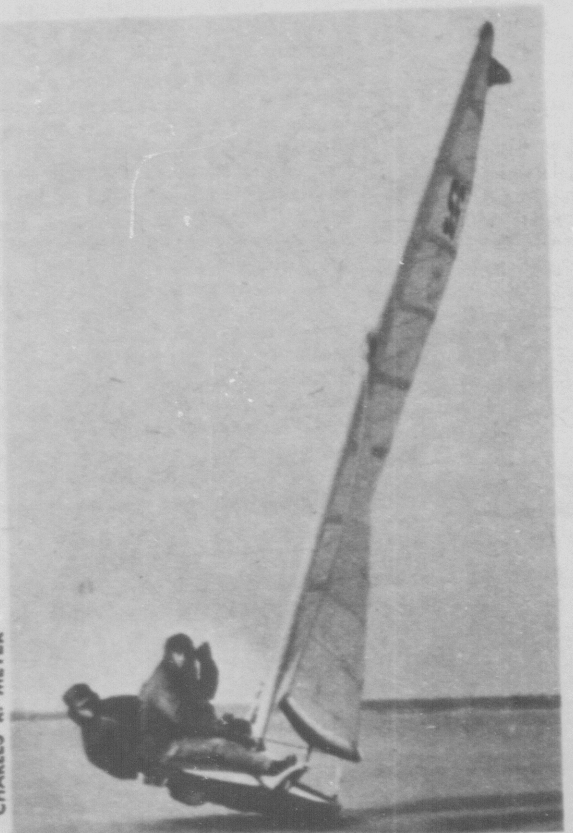
IS ICE-BOATING DANGEROUS?

You can go 100 miles an hour, and you have only a sail for brakes

No co-pilot for the Skeeter, but plenty of company. When the lakes freeze over, thousands of ice yachtsmen get out for the thrills and chills. The Scooter (below) goes over water and ice. Cost, $2,100—or you can build your own.



CHARLES R. MEYER

TO ANYBODY who likes to hibernate in winter, ice-boating looks like a spine-chilling sport. Tiny wooden frames with billowing sails on top and thin metal runners underneath reach speeds up to 146 miles an hour (the record). And they have no brakes. Ice yachtsmen must dodge skaters, eel fishermen, and other iceboats. An invisible crevice in the ice can send a boat "pitch poling" end over end. You can always run into thin ice or even open water. Bulletins will discreetly suggest that "backboard and splints are in the boathouse."

If the vision of freezing water and broken bones doesn't daunt you, the weather might. You must brave 20-below temperatures, chilly blasts of wind, and flying ice particles which, reportedly, "can make facial razor cuts look mild." You must wear a costume resembling that of an Eskimo or an astronaut: thermal underwear, field boots, goggles, woolen or plastic face mask.

Confirmed iceboatmen—from New Jersey's Shrewsbury River to Lake Geneva, Wisconsin, and White Bear, Minnesota—will defend the sport with their lives and insist that it is not necessarily dangerous. Iceboats can indeed go more than 100 miles an hour, but these speeds are reserved for the racing classes. Normal speed is 20 to 60 miles an hour. There has been only one fatality in recent years, and broken bones are rare. Iceboats have no brakes, but they can be stopped dead by heading into the wind. And you can steer them precisely.

Still, ice-boating is not a sport for the reckless amateur thrill seeker. The experts have words of warning: Let a seasoned skipper teach you the rules and the ropes. Never boat alone. Choose your weather well—a steady wind at a maximum of 20 miles an hour is perfect. A boat may go 3-4 times as fast as the wind pushing it. And survey the ice carefully before boating. It should be free of snow, glassy-smooth, thick, and hard.

If you are a sensible sportsman and have a taste for speed, you are a good candidate for ice-boating. The fast-growing fraternity of ice yachtsmen will welcome you aboard. "There is nothing on earth," says one enthusiast, "like the thrill of running before the wind on good, green ice."

Our Fire

HANS KNOPF

BY VANCE PACKARD

Author of "The Waste Makers," "The Status Seekers," "The Hidden Persuaders."

Mr. Packard has produced three challenging books in as many years. While SUBURBIA TODAY does not necessarily agree with all his conclusions, we proudly present this article as another in our series by famous modern writers.

Virginia and I learned a number of other lessons that may be of interest to all homeowners.

—Make an inventory of all the possessions of value in your house, and bring the inventory up to date every year. For weeks Virginia kept thinking of things destroyed in our attic that she had not thought to report when the insurance adjustor first interviewed her.

—Keep clutter out of the attic and the stairway to the attic. And where possible, use wood or metal storage boxes rather than pasteboard boxes. Just by luck all my working papers for my book, "The Hidden Persuaders," were stored in a large wooden box, and survived. On the other hand, other valued papers stored in pasteboard boxes were destroyed.

—Don't build a roaring fire in your fireplace unless you are sure it is safe to do so. Have your chimney checked every year or two, if it is used much, and if possible install a stout wire screen in the top of the flue.

—Remember that your insurance policy may have an 80% clause. This specifies that, to be fully covered, you must have your house insured for at least 80% of the cost of replacing it today. If your insurance is for less than 80% of the estimated replacement cost of the house, there will be some depreciation taken on the materials.

—Make sure all people living in your house would have an exit—especially from bedrooms—in case of fire. It was only after the fire that Virginia and I realized that if our fire had occurred while we were sleeping and had broken through the attic door, Cindy would have been trapped and would have had to climb out her window where she could have had a very nasty fall onto concrete steps below. We've now shown her how to step to a nearby roof.

—Keep a large, fully charged fire extinguisher in your home, and if feasible keep a garden hose long enough to reach to any part of your house, connected at all times to a faucet, preferably an inside one.

—Finally, support and cherish your local fire department. We will always feel deeply indebted to the volunteers of the New Canaan and Silvermine fire departments who saved our home. After the fire, one fireman told me that as he approached the house in his car a man directing traffic shrugged and said, "It's gone."

It certainly looked "gone" by the way it lit up the sky. Our local firemen, however, refused to believe it was "gone." And as a result of this conviction, we still have our home.

Vance Packard, Christmas Eve, 1959.

What I Learned From

A best-selling author covers his own fire for the benefit of

LAST CHRISTMAS EVE just before suppertime I lit a fire in the living-room fireplace of our frame house in New Canaan, Conn., in order to take a chill off the room. As Virginia, my wife, served us supper buffet-style, her mother Ann sat wrapped in a blanket. Ann was recovering from a bout of pneumonia.

The bundles of dry brush I had used as kindling plus some discarded outer gift wrappings and small logs made an intense blaze. In fact, there was soon such a roar that I commented uneasily that I had never heard such a sound before. I wondered if it was related to the fact that a few days earlier we had had the chimney vacuumed for the first time in nearly a decade. Perhaps this had widened the opening and greatly increased the draft. With a poker I spread the wood to try to reduce the intensity of the flame.

About 15 minutes later our son Vance, then 17, went out the back door to go to a Christmas Eve party. He came running back in, shouting that the roof of our house was on fire. I dashed out to see. Great flames were lashing upward at least 8 feet high near the chimney.

To this day we do not know if this fire started on top of the wood-shingle roof or below it in the attic. Later investigation, however, established that the chimney itself was not defective.

Consternation gripped us all. I raced to the phone. Someone had mislaid the phone book, so I dialed the operator and said, "This is an emergency. Ring the fire department." It seemed a full minute before the connection was made.

Meanwhile, our son Vance had seized the red, 18-inch-tall fire extinguisher by our kitchen and had lugged it up to the second-floor doorway to the attic stairway. He opened the door. Flames poured out. The stairway—and most of the attic—were a mass of flames. The stairway fire was aggravated by the fact that we had temporarily hung several hangers of suits and other clothing inside the door.

By the time I arrived with a big kitchen kettle, Vance had the stairway flames under some control. I began hauling water in my kettle from the nearby bathroom and threw it up the stairway to try to douse the remaining flames and dampen down the general area with water.

My throat was terribly dry. I assumed it was from panic, but it apparently also was due to the fact that fire sucks oxygen from the air, and such a deoxygenized atmosphere can fell you if you are not careful.

EXPERTS on fire control suggest that we may have aggravated the fire in the attic by opening the atticway door. This action had let fresh air in to feed the flames. That may be, but I believe the fire would have got down into the main part of the house if Vance had not stopped it at that attic doorway. Flames already were licking through the panels of the door. (And the panels later crumpled under our touch.)

Virginia, meanwhile, joined me in throwing water up the stairway. As fire trucks began arriving, Vance again had more presence of mind than the rest of us. He ran down and told the first driver where the nearest fire hydrant was, along the road at the lower side of our property.

Many dozens of cars filled with people who had heard the fire siren or seen the sky light up began jamming this roadway and abandoning their cars. As a result, a good many minutes passed—in fact it seemed like hours—before a really solid stream of water was hitting the flames.

Now we Packards had begun wondering what we could save in case everything was lost. What do you try to save first in case of a fire? When the fire first was shouted to our attention, our 11-year-old daughter Cindy raced for our parakeet and dog. A few moments later Virginia remembered to call a neighbor to come take Mother to a safe, warm spot.

After the firemen arrived I thought of the documentation and other working papers for the book, "The Waste Makers," which I was then writing. Where to put them? There was a 3-inch layer of snow outside. I grabbed a blanket and an armful of my folders of research material and ran out into the woods. Then in quick succession I made three more trips, carrying out armfuls of folders and dumping them onto the blanket.

It took four hours to get the fire fully under control; and more than 40 volunteer firemen were kept from their families on the one night above all that families like to be together. Two of these gallant firemen were temporarily overcome by fumes while trying to work their way up into the attic.

The miracle is that the fire never got below the attic level (but one fireman fell through a weakened section of the attic floor and landed in our master bedroom on our second floor.) Firemen and dozens of wonderful neighbors and well-wishers carried all our movable belongings not already water-soaked out of the house to safety.

What we had in the attic was destroyed, but otherwise, although many strangers came into our house that night and moved our possessions about, the only thing we found missing after the fire was a pair of my shoes, which we assume may have been appropriated by some neighbor whose own shoes had become water-soaked on that freezing night. Most of us had soaked shoes before we were through.

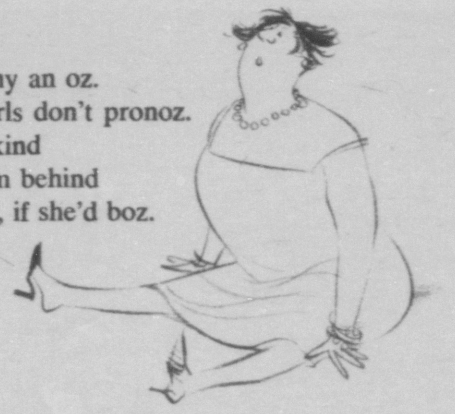
Friends took our children for the night. At 2:30 A.M. Virginia and I finally retired in a bed over our detached garage. A sympathetic doctor whom we knew only casually came by around midnight and handed us some sleeping pills—a wonderfully thoughtful gesture. At 3 A.M.—despite the sleeping pill I had taken—I remembered the pile of manuscript material I had left in the woods and went out and retrieved all the folders.

It was four months before we were able to move back into our renovated home. Fortunately, we had not only fire-insurance protection but also the homeowner's policy which covered our living expenses during the four months we had to live outside our house.

FRANKLY, I didn't even know we had this coverage of emergency living costs. It had been agreed upon between Virginia and our insurance broker, John Bathrick, whom we depend upon to watch over our best interests without overloading us with insurance. He came by, after I called, while the fire was still smoldering, to offer us emergency counsel on steps we should take. One step, which hadn't occurred to us, was that we should get some kind of temporary covering over the roof in the morning—even though it was Christmas—to prevent further damage by rain and snow.

From the ordeal of the fire and its aftermath

"It's just that deaf old Mrs. Peterson, upstairs."



A lass who weighed many an oz.
Used words that nice girls don't pronoz.
When a prankster unkind
Yanked her chair from behind
Just to see, he explained, if she'd boz.

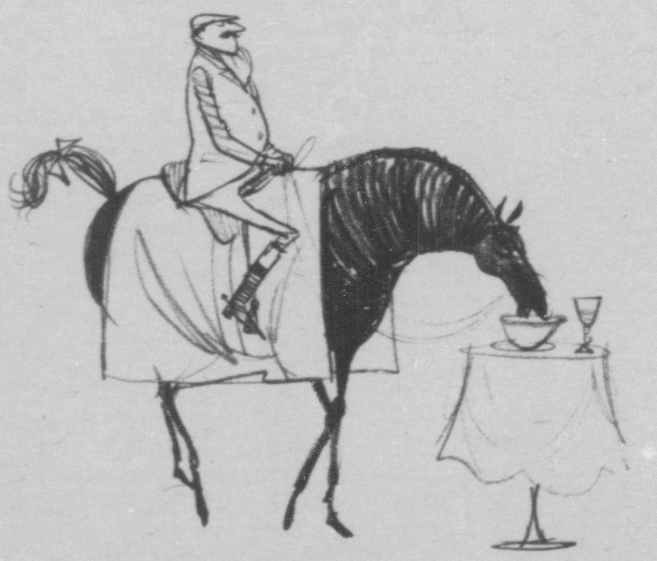
An indolent vicar of Bray
His roses allowed to decay.
His wife, more alert,
Bought a powerful squirt,
And said to her spouse, "Let us spray."

There was an old lady in Rye
Who was baked by mistake in a pie.
To the household's disgust
She emerged from the crust
And exclaimed, with a yawn, "Where am I?"

There was a young lady from Del.
Who was most undoubtedly wel.
That to dress for a masque
Wasn't much of a tasque,
But she cried, "What the heck will my fel.?"

There was an old man of Tarentum
Who gnashed his false teeth till he bent 'em.
When they asked him the cost
Of what he had lost,
He replied, "I can't say, 'cause I rent 'em."

There was a composer named Liszt
Who from writing could seldom desiszt.
He made Polonaise
Quite worthy of praise,
And now that he's gone, he is miszt.



Said a sporty young person named Groat,
Who owned a black race horse of note,
"I consider it smart
To dine à la carte,
But my horse always takes table d'oat."

Table Scraps Can Short-Change Your Dog

Do right by the dog you love...balance each meal with GRO-PUP Ribbon

When you feed your dog table scraps, you can never be sure he's getting all the nutrients he needs. And yet, to stay fit and strong, he should have a well-balanced diet every day.

That's why thoughtful families are adding Gro-Pup Ribbon to every scrap meal they feed. Gro-Pup is an unusual kind of dog food. It contains an extra bonus of vital protein, important vitamins and minerals—far in excess of the minimum levels set by the National Research Council.

Even when fed with large amounts of "unbalanced" leftovers, the high nutrient level of Gro-Pup can safeguard against improper diet. When you feed Gro-Pup every day, you can enjoy the confidence that your dog is getting an abundance of the essentials he needs for a long and healthy life.

Why don't you start tomorrow?

A convenient method of acquiring, systematically and with expert guidance, a regular high-fidelity or stereo record library of the music you enjoy most — at great savings!

HERE'S THE MOST EXCITING OFFER EVER MADE to new members of the Columbia Record Club . . . an offer that enables you to acquire a superb record library — in regular high-fidelity OR stereo-fidelity — at truly remarkable savings!

All 64 of the records shown here are now available in both regular high-fidelity and stereo (except No. 9 — Listening in Depth — stereo only). As a new member, you may have ANY 5 of these records — in your choice of regular high-fidelity OR stereo — ALL 5 for only $1.97.

AND JUST LOOK AT THE TREMENDOUS SELECTION YOU NOW HAVE TO CHOOSE FROM . . . 64 records — from Columbia and many other great labels! That's right . . . you not only have a choice of the best-selling albums by Columbia's own great artists — but also the most popular albums by favorite recording stars from many other record companies!

The selection shown here is typical of the wide range of recorded entertainment offered to members each and every month . . . records from every field of music . . . from many labels . . . by America's favorite recording stars. So whether you have a regular phonograph or a stereo phonograph . . . whether you prefer classical or popular music, Broadway hits or jazz . . . you're always sure of finding just the records you want.

TO RECEIVE YOUR 5 RECORDS FOR ONLY $1.97 — simply fill in and mail the postage-free reply card provided. Be sure to indicate whether you want your 5 records (and all future selections) in regular high-fidelity or stereo. Also be sure to indicate which Club Division best suits your musical taste: Classical; Listening and Dancing; Broadway, Movies, Television and Musical Comedies; Jazz.

HOW THE CLUB OPERATES: Each month the Club's staff of music experts selects outstanding records from every field of music. These selections are fully described in the Club's entertaining and informative music Magazine, which you receive free each month.

You may accept the monthly selection for your Division . . . or take any of the other records offered in the Magazine, from all Divisions . . . or take NO record in any particular month.

Your only membership obligation is to purchase five selections from the more than 200 records to be offered in the coming 12 months. Thereafter, you have no further obligation to buy any additional records . . . and you may discontinue your membership at any time.

FREE BONUS RECORDS GIVEN REGULARLY. If you wish to continue as a member after purchasing five records, you will receive — FREE — a Bonus record of your choice for every two additional selections you buy — a 50% dividend.

The records you want are mailed and billed to you at the regular list price of $3.98 (Classical $4.98; occasional Original Cast recordings somewhat higher), plus a small mailing and handling charge. Stereo records are $1.00 more.

MAIL THE POSTAGE-FREE CARD TODAY to receive your 5 records — in regular high-fidelity or stereo — ALL 5 for only $1.97.

NOTE: Stereo records must be played only on a stereo record player. If you do not now own one, by all means continue to acquire regular long-play high-fidelity records. They will play with true-to-life fidelity on your present phonograph, and will sound even more brilliant on a stereo phonograph if you purchase one in the future.

projects, and individual guidance and direction. Televised instruction is piped into your school's classrooms through closed-circuit TV, through open-circuit ETV stations, or through regular commercial television stations.

Schools in Washington County, Maryland, have been testing ETV as a teaching aid for the past five years with the help of industry and foundation grants. More than 20 different closed-circuit TV courses, from Art to U.S. history, have been given to 18,000 students in the county's 48 schools.

The use of its own in-school, closed-circuit television at Evanston Township High School in Evanston, Illinois, has spread so rapidly in five years that each of the 3,600 students is now being taught some material by TV.

In addition to the many schools which have closed-circuit, in-school television, there is a network of 50 noncommercial educational-TV stations strung across the country. Your children may be watching lessons from these stations in school, and you may be able to watch the same telecast on your home-TV set. There's a potential audience of 70,000,000 viewers for these 50 stations. By 1970 there'll be at least 80 ETV stations reaching nearly every corner of America.

In a national study of classroom facilities for use in ETV, the Educational Facilities Laboratories, Inc., recommended that new schools should be planned with ETV in mind. If a classroom is well planned, the report said, it will be equally effective for TV or "live" teaching. Space within the school building needs to be more flexible to allow for classes of all sizes, not the rigid rectangular classrooms we've always had.

The study developed a plan for a "teacher center" instead of the traditional desk and chair arrangement. The "teacher center" would be a place for counseling as well as an electronic center for all the equipment in the room. Ways were suggested for adapting the wide variety of available TV equipment to particular school situations. Finally, the report envisioned that within a few years our schools will be able to buy, for the first time, an economical video-tape recorder to record particular lessons. This will let them build up a "bank" of telecasts to be used at will.

TV TEACHING will help strengthen weak spots in a curriculum. In a rural school where perhaps only four seniors want to take physics, those four students can watch physics on television and see expert scientists demonstrate the lessons, using models and apparatus their own school couldn't possibly provide.

Even in a well-equipped and fully staffed school, you can broaden and enrich the curriculum by ETV. Music, art, conversational French, Spanish, and other "extras" can be added with little expense.

Another benefit is to give in-service training for the teachers. Classroom teachers benefit from the studio teacher's research, and class planning and technique improves.

Will Your Child Be Shortchanged By Classroom TV?

Or will he have a greater opportunity to learn than ever before?

THIS MONTH, Educational Television takes to the skies to test the most ambitious plan in its brief seven-year history. Beginning about the time you read this article, a fully equipped TV station will be sent aloft in a DC-6 and from the cruising plane lectures in 24 subjects will be transmitted to a potential audience of five million students in 13,000 schools.

Spectacular, everyone agrees—but do we want teaching "processed" on this scale?

According to one educator:

"Classroom television is a terrible evil which is stealing insidiously into our schools; it goes against our most cherished educational concepts. Conformity, uniformity, and sheeplike behaviour will be the order of the day for our children."

Many parents are troubled because they feel that their children are watching too much TV as it is. Some school boards fear Educational Television (ETV) will cost too much to install. Meantime, in the face of their doubts, the experiments continue all over the country. Why? Because, say U.S. educators, only a fundamental break-through in education as sweeping as past break-throughs in science, industry, and agriculture, can give the boost in educational quality that's absolutely essential in our schools. And where ETV has been tried, many educators, and students, too, are already in favor of the new aid.

If your child's school is wired for ETV his Social Studies class might be conducted something like this: during the class period he and about one hundred other students will meet in the school auditorium, cafeteria, or large classroom for the telecast, a lesson delivered from the screen by the studio teacher. Since she is an especially good teacher, she will make her children feel she is actually on the spot. When she says, "What's the biggest city in the U.S.?" the children shout out, "New York City!" When she says, "Good-by for today," a chorus waves good-by.

A classroom teacher is with the large group of children all during the telecast. Later in the day this teacher meets with the class for a second full period, in groups of 25 to 30, for practice, drill, class

Classroom TV?

But won't students, learning from their television screens, miss the indispensable give and take of the classroom? The answer is no. ETV will never occupy more than six thirty-minute periods in a school day. Therefore three hours is the maximum length of time any student will ever be exposed to ETV, and most children will have even less time. Traditional classroom work will always be necessary to make the ETV lessons stick.

As we all know, there is a serious shortage of teachers, and ETV will help us to use the teachers we have more effectively, and spread our available talent. ETV is a support, not a substitute for regular classroom teaching.

Students, for their part, point out that ETV teaching forces them to concentrate, since the lesson is given just once. Many of them are stimulated by the new style of lectures.

"My televised geometry class is the best-planned course I've ever had in my life," a Hagerstown, Maryland, boy declared.

Another student wrote to his studio history teacher, (who, of course, had never seen him):

"You are the only teacher I've ever had who has really understood me."

"Thank goodness," said another, "there's no chance for anyone to interrupt the teacher during the telecast to ask foolish questions!"

High-school teachers have found that students exposed to classroom TV are able to get into college as easily as those taught in the usual way. Many teachers believe that the students who have had ETV will be better prepared for the impersonal atmosphere they will find as they go on to college lecture courses.

This new tool is no panacea for all our educational problems, and the reservations about cost and "regimentation" are very understandable, but in the opinion of most educators, and students who have been exposed, your child is not going to be shortchanged by classroom television.

"No, I haven't found that television has killed my interest in books, it's killed my interest in television."

New! Country Pie... beef makes the crust

...you make the savory filling double-quick—with Hunt's Tomato Sauce and Minute Rice

Here's a new one! A rice pie with an unexpected sizzling brown beef crust.

And the filling—AH-h-h. Tender, light Minute Rice, rosy and spicy with Hunt's Tomato Sauce—hearty with sunny melted cheese.

Vitamins, too! You don't wash or boil Minute Rice—so the added nourishment is right there when you eat it. And Hunt's is the most tomatoful sauce of all—thick and smooth—fresh, ripe tomato through and through.

NEW! COUNTRY PIE

The crust... ½ 8-oz. can (½ cup) Hunt's Tomato Sauce ½ cup bread crumbs • 1 pound ground beef ¼ cup chopped onion • ¼ cup chopped green pepper • 1½ teaspoons salt • ⅛ teaspoon pepper ⅛ teaspoon oregano

Combine all of the above ingredients in a bowl and mix well with a fork. Then pat the meat mixture gently into the bottom and sides of a greased 9-inch pie plate.

The filling . . . 1⅓ cups Minute Rice • 1½ 8-oz. cans (1½ cups) Hunt's Tomato Sauce • ½ teaspoon salt 1 cup water • 1 cup grated Cheddar cheese

Combine Minute Rice, Hunt's Tomato Sauce, salt, water and ½ cup cheese. Spoon rice mixture into meat shell. Cover with aluminum foil. Bake in moderate oven (350°) 25 minutes. Uncover, top with remaining cheese. Bake uncovered 10 to 15 minutes. Makes 5 or 6 servings.

Hunt's Tomato Sauce is a product of Hunt Foods, Inc.
Minute is a registered trade-mark of General Foods Corporation

AMBER RAISIN SAUCE

TO PREPARE AND COOK: ABOUT 15 MIN.

- 3 tablespoons brown sugar
- ½ teaspoon seasoned salt
- ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1 cup apple juice
- 4 lemon slices
- ½ cup sauterne
- 2 tablespoons butter
- ½ cup dark seedless raisins

1. Blend sugar, seasoned salt, spices, and cornstarch together in a saucepan. Stir in the apple juice; add lemon slices.

2. Stirring constantly, bring mixture to boiling and boil for 1 min. Lower heat, stir in sauterne, and simmer until slightly thickened, about 5 min.

3. Blend in butter and raisins. Heat for a few minutes longer. Serve with Glazed Roast Ham.

About 1¾ cups sauce

GLAZED ROAST HAM

Place a 10-lb. whole smoked ham on a rack in a shallow roasting pan. Roast in a 300°F oven about 2 hrs.; remove from oven. Cut off rind (if any) and score fat in a diagonal pattern. (See photo.) Insert a whole clove in the center of each diamond. Spread with Glaze and continue roasting about 1 hr., or until internal temperature reaches 160°F.

About 20 servings

GLAZE—Mix together in a small bowl 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, and 1 teaspoon dry mustard. Blend in 2 tablespoons cider vinegar to form a smooth paste.

PORK CHOPS GOURMET

These unusual and delicious pork chops were originated by an amateur chef for his gourmet dinner club.

TO PREPARE: 25 MIN. TO COOK: 1 HR.

- 8 pork chops, cut ½ in. thick
- Fat for browning
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon black pepper
- Prepared mustard
- Dill pickles, thinly sliced
- 2 tablespoons dill pickle liquid
- ¼ cup dry vermouth

1. Heat the fat, add chops, and brown well on both sides. Sprinkle with a mixture of salt and pepper.

2. Spread each chop generously with prepared mustard. Arrange one layer of pork chops in a sauce pot; cover with dill pickle slices. Repeat layering with chops and pickles. Add pickle liquid; cover and cook over low heat for 1 hr.; add vermouth 20 min. before end of cooking time.

3. Remove from heat and place chops on heated serving platter. If desired, drizzle additional vermouth over pickles and chops.

Bettendorff's castle has pentagon-shaped walls measuring 170′ by 80′ by 80′ by 180′ by 60′.

Do-it-Yourself Castle

One man built his own in Fox River Grove, Ill.

WE LIKE TO THINK there's no dream that can't come true. Witness Theodore Bettendorff, 71, whose home is literally his castle. He is not an industrial giant but a genial master craftsman besieged by a lifelong dream: to own a castle.

Twenty-nine years ago, working after hours and over weekends, he laid the foundations for the castle which now stands atop a bluff overlooking the town (as a castle should), complete with drawbridge, a moss-covered moat, and turrets.

When Bettendorff began to build his dream house, he had only childhood memories of castles he had visited in Luxembourg, where he was born. With no plans to go by, he simply combined muscle power with a long roster of skills. He dug into a nearby rock quarry, cut and hauled stones, made his own concrete molds to trim the turrets, cut oak logs to make beams, and forged iron for ornamental work.

"If I had had blueprints," he says, "the project would have overwhelmed me."

Bettendorff built a dungeon, 22 feet deep, and towers to tickle low-flying clouds. "By going at it a little at a time," he explains, "it didn't seem too hard."

Last summer, when he cranked down the massive drawbridge and unlocked the great oak doors with a proper Gulliver-size key, a goggling neighbor asked why he didn't charge admission and make it a museum. "Then it wouldn't be a home," he replied.

Now retired, Mr. Bettendorff cultivates his garden and shows castle off to friends.

Drawbridge over a moss-lined moat—with guardrail to keep children from falling in.

Married women are sharing this secret

. . . the new, easier, surer protection for those most intimate marriage problems

What a blessing to be able to trust in the wonderful germicidal protection Norforms can give you. Norforms have a highly perfected new formula that releases antiseptic and germicidal ingredients with long-lasting action. The exclusive new base melts at body temperature, forming a powerful protective film that guards (but will not harm) the delicate tissues.

And Norforms' deodorant protection has been tested in a hospital clinic and found to be more effective than anything it had ever used. Norforms eliminate (rather than cover up) embarrassing odors, yet have no "medicine" or "disinfectant" odor themselves.

And what convenience! These small feminine suppositories are so easy and convenient to use. Just insert—no apparatus, mixing or measuring. They're greaseless and they keep in any climate.

Now available in new packages of 6, as well as 12 and 24. Also available in Canada.

SPECIAL NOODLE CASSEROLE

This pasta mixture is a flavorful accompaniment to Glazed Roast Ham or Pork Chops Gourmet.

TO PREPARE: 20 MIN. TO HEAT: ABOUT 15 MIN.

- 4 oz. fine noodles, cooked and drained
- 1 cup large-curd cottage cheese, drained
- 1 cup thick sour cream
- ⅓ cup finely chopped onion
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 4 drops Tabasco
- 1 to 2 tablespoons flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon white pepper
- ¼ cup buttered fine dry bread crumbs

1. While noodles are cooking, mix the next six ingredients together; sprinkle with a mixture of the flour, salt, and pepper.

2. Blend cottage-cheese mixture with the cooked noodles; turn into a buttered 1½-qt. casserole. Sprinkle bread crumbs over top.

3. Heat in a 350°F oven about 15 min., or until crumbs are lightly browned.

About 8 servings

SHRIMP FROMAGE

TO PREPARE: 40 MIN. TO HEAT: 30 MIN.

- 2¼ cups cooked fresh shrimp pieces
- 1 10-oz. pkg. elbow macaroni
- ¼ cup butter
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- ½ cup chopped fresh mushrooms
- 3 tablespoons chopped onion
- ¼ cup butter
- ¼ cup flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon black pepper
- ½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
- 2 cups milk
- 4 oz. process Cheddar cheese, shredded
- 4 oz. sharp Cheddar cheese, shredded
- 2 oz. Mozzarella cheese, shredded
- 2 tablespoons shredded Parmesan cheese
- ½ cup cream-style cottage cheese
- ½ cup thick sour cream
- ½ cup soft bread crumbs or cracker crumbs, buttered

1. Prepare shrimp and set aside. Cook macaroni according to package directions and set aside.

2. Heat ¼ cup butter in a skillet. Add garlic, mushrooms, and onion and cook until onion is soft. Set aside.

3. Heat ¼ cup butter in a saucepan over low heat. Blend in a mixture of the flour, salt, pepper, and monosodium glutamate. Heat until mixture bubbles, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly. Return to heat and cook until sauce thickens, stirring constantly. Cook 1 to 2 min. longer.

4. Stir in the Cheddar cheeses, Mozzarella, and Parmesan until melted. Remove from heat. Blend in the cottage cheese and sour cream.

5. Mix together the cheese sauce, onion mixture, shrimp, and macaroni. Turn into a 2½-qt. casserole. Top with buttered crumbs.

6. Heat in a 350°F oven about 30 min., or until crumbs are golden brown and mixture is bubbly. 8 to 10 servings

To Prepare Shrimp*—Wash about 1½ lbs. shrimp in cold water. Drop into a rapidly boiling mixture of 1 qt. water, celery leaves, 2 whole cloves, 1 small onion, sliced, 3 to 4 parsley sprigs, and 1 tablespoon salt. Cover and heat until water returns to boiling. Simmer 5 min., or only until shrimp are pink and tender. Drain shrimp and cover with cold water to chill. Drain; remove tiny legs, shells, and black veins. Drain on absorbent paper. Cut into ½-in. pieces.

STUFFED CALF'S LIVER DE LUXE

TO PREPARE: 30 MIN. TO COOK: 1½-2 HRS.

- 1 calf's liver (2 to 3 lbs.)
- Bread Stuffing
- ½ cup flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon black pepper
- 3 strips (about 8 oz.) salt pork
- ½ cup water

1. Rinse the liver in cold salted water. Drain thoroughly and wipe dry. Outside membrane should be removed.

2. Make a horizontal incision in the thickest side and lightly fill with Bread Stuffing. Fasten with skewers.

3. Coat liver with a mixture of the flour, salt, and pepper. Place in a roasting pan on a rack and arrange strips of salt pork on top. Pour water into the pan.

4. Set in a 350°F oven for 1½ to 2 hrs. Remove to heated serving platter and serve with Mushrooms Magnifique and buttered cooked Brussels sprouts or radish roses.

About 12 servings

BREAD STUFFING—Soak 4 slices white bread in cold water and squeeze out all excess moisture. Using a fork fluff bread and drizzle 2 tablespoons melted butter over bread. Blend into 1 slightly beaten egg a mixture of 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon black pepper, and ¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning, then 1 teaspoon chopped parsley and 1 teaspoon grated onion. Add egg mixture to bread mixture and toss lightly until thoroughly mixed together.

MUSHROOMS MAGNIFIQUE

TO PREPARE: 20 MIN. TO COOK: 20 MIN.

- 12 large mushrooms
- Salt
- 2 tablespoons softened butter
- ½ cup finely chopped pecans
- 1½ tablespoons chopped parsley
- ½ clove garlic, minced
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon thyme
- ½ cup whipping cream

1. Clean mushrooms; remove stems from caps and finely chop enough of the stems to make ¼ cup; sprinkle caps lightly with salt.

2. Mix the chopped mushroom stems, pecans, parsley, garlic, ¼ teaspoon salt, and thyme with butter until blended. Heap mixture into mushroom caps and place caps in a shallow baking pan. Pour whipping cream over stuffed mushrooms.

3. Set in a 350°F oven for 20 min., or until mushrooms are tender, basting once or twice with the cream. 12 stuffed mushrooms

Having worked out what will flourish and look well together, consider setting aside a small area as a cutting garden—even 7-by-10 feet will suffice. Here you can plant the seeds leftover from the border packets, and you'll be able to cut all summer long without decimating the flower beds. Use this area also as a "Plant Bank" on which to draw, replacing plant failures and filling in when plants fade. Most annuals can be transplanted at any time during the summer. If you soak the soil the day before and take up a trowelful or a spadeful of soil with the root system, little harm will result. Firm the soil around the roots in the new location, water well and keep moist for a couple of weeks. For the first several days shade the transplants with a cone of newspapers to reduce moisture loss and sun-wilt. In this way you can keep the garden always in good repair.

In our own garden we find the cutting beds useful also for an early start of annuals outdoors, transplanting between the bulbs as they begin to go by. Then, when the bulb leaves ripen and are removed, the little annuals are already big enough to take over and start to bloom, going right on into autumn. By transplanting some of the young seedlings to your beds you can thin the rows in the cutting garden and thus avoid having to thin two beds and throw away the small seedlings.

Another personal tip may save work in the cutting garden. Although most gardeners advise leaving plenty of space between rows, we space the rows rather closely, working in extra plant food as we plant, to compensate for the closeness. The rows thus shade out most weeds as the plants grow up as well as reduce moisture loss in the soil due to excess sun. We run the rows from east to west, planting low-growing annuals on the south and tapering up to the tallest in the northern rows, in order that all may get their quota of sun, even though the roots are shaded. The rows are only about five feet long with paths placed on either side and every four feet or so between rows (see the plan below). This allows one to lean in and snip out exactly the flowers wanted without back strain or menace to the rest of the plants. Paths may be of gravel, grass, wood chips, bricks, or sand—anything that keeps down the weeds and makes it easy to get about in wet weather. Another feature of this garden is that it is pretty—you won't have to hide it behind a fence, unless you want to, because it is always gay and decorative with its mixture of bloom, which only tends to get better the more it is cut.

Plan for cutting garden—the rows close-set, minimum space as indicated.

Good Pickings

Now is the time to plan for a small "cutting garden" to supply the house and fill in your garden beds, too

BY JOHN BRIMER

How can you get enough flowers for the house without stripping the garden? And how do you achieve variety in a limited space without having a hatful of partly used seed packets leftover?

You begin by making a New Year's resolution. Give Up Impulse Buying—picking up a packet of seeds here and several there, as you encounter them on seed racks, and probably ending up with flowers that are not good for cutting. In any case, they are likely to be so unrelated that if you use all the varieties you've bought, your garden will be a messy hodgepodge, and if you don't use them all your money will be wasted. No more of this. Instead, write immediately for the catalog of your favorite seed house so that you can thoughtfully and deliberately choose exactly what you want, and order in plenty of time to be ready for the first perfect planting day in early spring.

Sit down with the catalog for an evening or two of dreaming and eye-feasting as you get rid of all those impulses (without spending a dime!) by preparing a First List. Note down all the delectable offerings you'd like to grow; then, with your Second List — or you may even need to make a third—you'll winnow down your purchases to just what you can grow. All the way you'll have fun because we know of no escape literature which compares with a good seed catalog and no better way to become a knowledgeable cut-flower gardener.
